

RUSSIAN ROYAL FAMILY'S ASHES ARE IN FRANCE

Czar's Special Friend Hopes for Killers' Trial or Investigation.

This is the third of a series of articles dealing with the slaying of the czar and his family.

BY SAMUEL DASHIELL
United Press Staff Correspondent

PARIS, Feb. 18.—The purported remains of the imperial Russian family are not only in good "Russian" hands, but are in the special care of a friend and confidant of the one time royal family—Monsieur de Giers, former Russian ambassador in Rome and at present a refugee in France, the United Press is advised.

The casket containing the remains of the imperial family; that is, the czar, the czarina, their five children, including the crown prince and four grand duchesses, together with four royal servants and a pet dog, are now buried "somewhere in France."

Evidence in Secret Place
Monsieur de Giers, who is advanced in years, is silent regarding the disposition of three other cases. These cases contain legal evidence of the assassination at Ekaterinburg and are held for the ultimate disposition of the Russian monarchists should the Soviet regime fall.

It is understood that ashes of the royal family are not in the family vault of the custodian, but in the vault of a friend of the old Russian regime, who lives near de Giers and who believes that some day the remains of the czar and his family will form the nucleus of one of the world's greatest monuments.

Dr. Giers appears somewhat skeptical about the exact proof of the Russian judges who found the Czar's body and those of his family.

Guardian Puzzled
De Giers is somewhat puzzled by the abrupt study made of the imperial family of Sokoloff, whom he doesn't know very well.

"It is true that I have received from General Janin some remarkable objects pertaining to the imperial family at the time of their execution, but I have no absolute proof."

"I think that the documents take part in a more practical way in the departure from Ekaterinburg, where it seems obvious that the Russian family met their fate."

"It is also the more logical since the Kolchak anti-revolutionary army was nearing the gates of Ekaterinburg and that the Soviet officials, being of a secondary district, misinterpreted most of the instructions, and went ahead with the brutal murder of the czar of Russia."

Demand for Trial Expected
De Giers seems to indicate that he would like a free and frank investigation of the entire tragedy.

"There are several persons still living who know about the assassination of the czar, and if time ever unseals their mouths, we shall perhaps possess one of the most historic relics of the world," he said.

De Giers believes there is no doubt that should the present Russian regime ever fall, or become more universally moderate, there will be a big demand on the part of the allies to have the assassination case reopened, and to have the imperial family placed in some adequate tomb in Russia.

Next—Custodian refuses to give up relics.

TWO ROAD BILLS PASS
Survey Measures Are Sent to Senate by House.

Two bills, limiting to $20 a mile the amount to be spent on preliminary surveys for roads prior to issuance of bonds, Tuesday were passed on to the senate for final action in an amended form by the Indiana house.

A third bill affecting road construction, authorizing county councils and commissioners to fix priority of county road building work, was passed on second reading, a mandatory provision being eliminated.

MIDAS NOT QUITTING

Financial Wizard Plans to Rebuild Fortune.

By United Press
BELVIDERE, Ill., Feb. 18.—Albert W. (50 Per Cent) Benham, fat and 50, will attempt to rebuild his $400,000 financial pyramid, but he must start again from zero, he announced today.

The rural Midas who, he says, went broke when the flare of publicity was turned on him, is back some after a mysterious absence of five days.

"No," he said, "I haven't retained a lawyer. I don't need one. If they'll just leave me alone I'll get my business started again."

The grand jury is looking into the reported loss of $461,000 intrusted to him by his friends, promised 10 to 50 per cent a month interest on "investments."

Small diamonds have been made artificially by dissolving carbon melted in iron and allowing it to crystallize.

Pharmacists Say Dare's Mentha Pepsin Best for STOMACH DISTRESS—GAS and INDIGESTION

Prove It the Grandest Stomach Medicine You Ever Used or Money Back

Please remember this: It doesn't pay to be taking relievers all the time to bring comfort to your upset, gassy, rebellious stomach.

What you want to do—and ought to do, is to put your poor disordered stomach in such splendid shape that it will be a long, long time before it will cause you the least bother again.

There's one sure way to do this—and that's an easy delightful way—just take pleasant and palatable Dare's Mentha Pepsin for two weeks—then if you don't say that it has done you more good than all the stuff you took before—Hook's Dependable Drug Store, or any real druggist will give you your money back.—Advertisement.
