Clever Fingers Change 'Leftovers' Into Cunning Clothes for Children

Cunning clothes for tots can be made from older sister's or mother's last year's things, provided they have small enough prints to look childish.

Left to right: A voile or printed chiffon makes a sweet party frock, especially if ruffles and puff sleeves are chosen.

The berth frock is an excellent solution to making over last year's adult dress that has a circular yoke.

A small child's coat can be made from any plain woolen dress and lightened by washable collars and cuffs.

Nothing is smarter for the older girl's coat than a shepherd's plaid or tweed, which is a good way to use up an old coat or suit.

Suggestions for remodeling children's clothes are contained in the following article—the fifth and last in a series on "Revamping Last Year's Wardrobe," which has been written for The Times and NEA service by Mrs. Annette Guth, nationally known authority on dress-making.

MAKING clothes for your little ones, whether they are boys or girls, is a real pleasure every mother enjoys.

Making them over is not always so easy. But there is tremendous satisfaction in revamping a useless garment into a becoming costume for a child. It is much easier, however, to make clothes over for little girls.

Boys up to 5 or 6 years, are easy to keep well-dressed. You can make up the cute little suits out of any of your own linen or worsted things in plain color.

Keep Seams Pressed

After boys start to school it grows more difficult to make clothes for them. But you can do wonders with father's things, if you learn how to tailor, and one of the secrets of tailoring is to keep pressing seams as you sew them, to get that trim look.

I do not advise you to try to make a coat and trousers suit from father's old suits. Make the trousers, yes, for they are easy and a saving to suits. Especially in spring time, for straight, short trousers are quite as stylish as knickerbockers and much dressier.

But do not try to make a coat from father's, unless you are a good tailor. The pockets and the many seams keep getting into your way. Content yourself with making father's shirts over into little blouses.

This is the combination most children wear to school anyhow, with a sweater or a lumberjack for warmth until spring really comes.

Boys Dislike Kidding

Little boys are extremely sensitive after the second grade or so in school. If they are "kidded" about home-made clothes, it sears their souls. Be careful not to use any material for their things that seems too adult or too noisy.

The ways of making clothes over for little girls are legion. From last year's cotton and other washable dresses of mother or older sister, cute little school and dress-up frocks for wee girls can be fashioned.

With one good pattern, an ingenious mother can contrast at least a half dozen different frocks. Different little cape collars and cuffs, other collars, berthas and so on make two costumes look entirely different.

Yokes are the hardest part of little girls' costumes. Get the yokes to fit properly and whatever the lower part of the frocks is pleated, shirred, gathered or semit-fitted and belted, it is ten times easier to manage if the yoke is a success.

One dress of mother's can make a whole frock for little Mary and perhaps a jumper frock also to wear with diminutive guimpes. Do not make over drab clothes, for children should have gay things. They affect their spirits.

If you have a little figured voile or an indestructible chiffon dress with sprays of flowers, you can make a sweet little party frock for a 2 to 6-year-old girl.

Puffed sleeves can be made from the waist of your frock, and the rest of the dress from your skirt. A couple of ruffles of the material are a cute way to finish it, or ruffles of plain material like the background of the print.

The berth collar is a grand way to eliminate sleeves and is an ideal

DRESS OF FLAT CREPE SILK

Take today's style—it will be popular through the entire spring and summer season.

It is light navy blue flat crepe silk. Cute decorative pieces of self-fabric adorn the sleeves and finish the neck. They are carried down the bodice in diagonal line to detract from its breadth.

The skirt has an inset at the front with inverted plaits at either side. It is stitched down in place to a depth well below the hips so as to assure slenderness.

Style No. 190 may be had in sizes 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust.

Printed crepe silk, wool jersey, tweeds, crepe woolsens, shantung, linen and novelty cottons are also suitable for this jaunty model.

Wright, Anna Williams, Mary Morris, Henry Tutewiler, Carrie Evans, Robert Kelly, A. B. Furgerson, Estelle Adams, Sarah J. Smith, Misses Sybil Pray, Lola Reed, Mary Hay, Jane Trueblood and Anetta Hoyt.

From the beginning, many men were interested in the support of the movement. A few of them were:

The Rev. J. H. Bayles, Benjamin Harrison, General Lew Wallace, Judge Byron K. Elliott, Colonel Eli Ritter, Colonel John W. Ray, W. S. Hubbard, grandfather of Mrs. Bord Gilgrip, who gave the first thousand dollars to help establish the work; Nathaniel Carpenter, Israel Taylor, J. T. Dunn, the Rev. F. C. Holliday, Dr. W. H. Hart, Robert Denny, Arthur D. Wright, Major J. W. Gordon, the Rev. J. L. Bailey, E. J. Howland, George Powell, C. P. Jacobs, Israel Howland and J. S. Leeds.

The call sent out by this union for the state will be read from the original minutes by Mrs. William Paulsel, secretary, during the morning session.

Birthday greetings will be extended by Mrs. Felix T. McWhirter. Department directors will give reports. Mrs. L. E. Schultz will have charge of a musical program to be given by Mrs. Charles A. Breese, vocalist, accompanied by Mrs. John Sink.

A memorial for members who died during the last year will be held at noon under the direction of Mrs. Burton Shields.

The Rev. J. G. Moore and Mrs. Curtis Hodge will be luncheon speakers.

In the afternoon the Rev. F. A. Hayward will speak. Robert Hatters, tenor, will sing.

A photograph of the state W. C. T. U. convention in Tomlinson hall in 1882, and a poster circulated by the enemies of temperance in January, 1874, during the Canton, O., crusade, will be displayed.

Mrs. William Lewis is chairman of decorations. Mrs. W. G. Evans, membership, and Mrs. E. E. Mitten, courtesy, women of the church will serve the luncheon. Reservations may be made with Mrs. Ed Johnson, Mrs. Harry Knowles, Mrs. James Burk or Mrs. Bertha Swern.

Mrs. W. W. Reedy, president, will preside.

ARRANGES TEA

Tea table appointments were in lavender and blue. Mrs. Charles A. Pfafflin and Mrs. W. S. Wilson presided. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. Carl Taylor.

SHINY LEATHERS ADD NEW LOOK

After seasons of dull finished fabrics and dull finished leathers, it's interesting to see the shiny accent beginning to come back.

Belts of patent leather show trimmings of patent leather, handbags of patent leather, hat straps that have a shiny surface—they all make the costume look new and seasonable.

Relief Corps to Meet

Major Robert Anderson, Woman's Relief Corps 44, will meet at 3 Tuesday at Ft. Friendly, 512 North Illinois street.

Topaz Glassware Pretty

If you're considering new glassware, ask to see the lovely new shade called topaz. It's lighter than amber, but deeper than yellow... and makes a nice change.

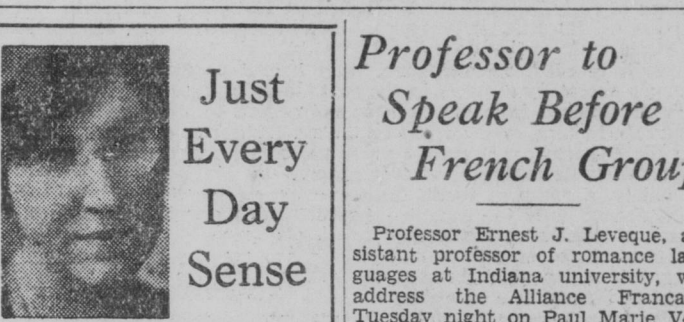

Shades of Parchment

Newest parchment lamp shades for spring are of clear, translucent parchment in delicate plain colors with borders or floral designs in free-hand work.

FOOTBALL STAR WEDS

Keep back of the sidelines, there, you! Can't you see the players? ... That little guy breaking through the heart of the line is Dan Cupid. The fellow he's just tackled is Benny Friedman. Did you ask who's playing better half? Why, it's Schirley Immerman. Sure, this is in Brooklyn, N. Y.!

BY MRS. WALTER FERGUSON

ELSIE MCORMICK in the New York World says she believes that almost any woman of sagacity would prefer an unfaithful husband who was generous and kind to one who mixed his fidelity with moodiness and ill temper.

Now, a sagacious woman undoubtedly would. The trouble is that, when it's a question of unfaithfulness, wives are likely to be swayed by emotion rather than sagacity.

Have you ever considered that it has become the common thing to assume that wives should overlook unfaithfulness? The reason for this attitude is that marriage so long has been regarded as an economic arrangement for the women. In that way, it follows that if a man supports you, you'd best put up with anything and be grateful.

It's time to discard such a theory. Good-tempered or bad-tempered, a man owes fidelity to his wife if he expects it from her. Most men believe that because they support a wife she should be eternally thankful for food and raiment. They claim to resent her side-stepping because, as one once explained to me, "the husband buys her clothes and feeds her and when she uses his money to make herself lovely for another man, she is cheating on him."

Now, perhaps, his argument would be good if men got all their outside loving for nothing. This is not the case, however. Men pay for their loves with other women in cold hard cash. And often they pay with money that the wife has helped to earn or saved by economizing and hard work.

An honest business man doesn't use the firm funds for baiting the ladies. Neither does an honest husband. And the male sense of justice and honor is warped completely when it comes to the question of marital fidelity. (I'll hear from this.)

MRS. FRANK KING HAS BRIDGE PARTY

1896 Class Is to Meet for Reunion

Members of the class of 1896 of Manual Training high school will hold a reunion tonight at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ray D. Barnes, 5895 Washington boulevard. Thirty-six members of the original class of more than 100 will be present.

The program will include two groups of songs by Lewis Schwerin, accompanied by Mrs. Schwerin; a playlet given by the mosque of the Third Christian church, with the following taking part: Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Lemmon, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Krays and Miss Maxine McKay, and readings by Miss McKay.

Letters from class members residing in California and New York, and others unable to attend the reunion will be read. Each of those present will tell of the outstanding event in his life during the past year.

The home will be decorated, and appointments will be carried out in the class colors, lavender and purple, adorned with the class flower, the violet.

This is the third reunion held by the class. The next, for which the time has not been set, will be held at the home of Robert Smith.

Miss Blake to Be Hostess at Chapter Tea

Members of Alpha chapter, Theta Sigma Delta sorority, will entertain with a silver tea from 2:30 to 4:30 Sunday afternoon at the home of Miss Bessie Blake, 236 North Temple avenue. Representatives of twenty other sororities in Indianapolis will be guests.

Entertainment will consist of a musical program, to be presented by Misses Sylvia Huffman, Peggy Gran, and Ruth Morrison. Appointments will be in the sorority colors, orchid and old rose.

Formal initiation services will be held for Miss Gran Monday night at the home of Miss Louise Kares, 707 North Dequincy. Miss Gran will be decorated with a bracelet, bearing the sorority emblem. A short business session will follow.

Bridge Class to Meet

Mrs. Grace C. Buschmann will hold the third of a series of bridge lessons stressing Culbertson's forcing system at 8 tonight at the Indianapolis Athletic Club.

Take no chances—Specify Kotex for lasting sanitary protection

FOR true comfort, true ease of mind, your sanitary protection must be secure, well-fitted, soft and dainty. Kotex gives you just that sort of protection.

Kotex absorbs, not in one concentrated spot, but over the entire surface. Yet the protective edges remain dry and comfortable for hours. You've no idea what a difference that makes.

It can be worn on either side with the same security, the same comfort, for it is equally absorbent on either side.

Hospitals use quantities of Kotex.

They recognize its superiority. Doctors and nurses recommend this modern sanitary protection and women who have once used it never go back to other methods.

It is disposable, as you know, easily and quickly. It deodorizes. It is adjustable. All stores have it.
