

Big League Camp News

AVAILON, Santa Catalina Island, Cal., Feb. 27.—Two batting cages were used at the training camp of the Chicago Cubs Thursday, one at home plate and the other in right field. Clarence Blair, second baseman, did not work out. He was hit under the eye in fielding practice Wednesday and appeared with a badly swollen eye Thursday.

PASO ROBLES, Cal., Feb. 27.—Pittsburgh Pirates tried out the new baseball in their second batting practice of the year Thursday. Manager Jewel Ems said he failed to see much of a change. Steve Swetonic, pitcher, still is in Los Angeles, undergoing treatment for a sore right arm.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Feb. 27.—Detroit Tigers broke camp at Richardson Springs Thursday to come to Sacramento for some baseball training. The Tigers' infielders and outfielders of the Tigers are to report here Monday.

WINTERHAVEN, Fla., Feb. 27.—Only two pitchers, Phil Collins and Bill Moore, are missing at the Palm Beach National camp. It was learned today Collins had not signed when the players started south, but a contract was sent to him a few days ago, and he may accept those terms. Elliott checked in Thursday morning in time for practice, and Hal Storer and Hal Willis arrived in the afternoon. The first workout consisted of running, easy warm-ups and batting games.

PENSACOLA, Fla., Feb. 27.—Manager Shamp Collins of the Red Sox moved from Winter Haven to Palm Beach today. Collins, who is expected to be in the big league line-up, is a hard hitter, played last season at first base, and is expected to start the season at that post. A batting practice game is scheduled for today.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 27.—While most of the old-timers are hailing the new ball as a blessing to pitchers, Urban Faber, veteran spit-baller of the Chicago White Sox, said today that he believed the new sphere would be more of a hindrance to a help. Faber does not believe that his moist ball will break as effectively with the raised stitches.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 26.—Nearly ten pounds underweight, as the result of a recent and bad attack of the flu, Rabbit Maranville, the spark plug of the Boston Braves, reached the training camp Thursday. Johnnie Neun, who will fight it out with the veteran Earl Sheely for first base, came in on the same train. Sherdel and Reid are new to the camp. Cold weather limited the practice to a single workout.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 27.—Sam Gray, veteran St. Louis Browns right-hander, featured Thursday's training activities when he took the mound and began warming up for the first time in his new uniform. Gray evidently had engaged in some preparatory work for his new role, as he was in good shape for the balance of the squad, many of whom were feeling a little shaky for the first time in the new uniform.

CLEARWATER, Fla., Feb. 27.—Base running practice featured the Brooklyn Robins today. The Robins' training activities were held at the Clearwater camp. The infield drill, batters took turns swinging against easy pitching delivered by Ray Moss, Babe Phelps, Phil Gallivan and other batters. Darryl Vance was busy for two hours, but did not appear on the mound in batting practice.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 27.—The presence of John McGraw at Thursday's workout of the Giants was productive of an added bustle as the players went through their paces. Another new arrival was Bob O'Farrell. McGraw stated that Genewick, Pruett, Walker, Fitzsimmons and Hogan would not be classed as absentees until next Monday, the date set for the regulars to report. He also reported that the Giants would make no more "contract adjustments" and the figures sent out in the last batch of contracts would be final.

Big Bill Toys With Pare, But Gives Fans Good Show

BY JAMES DOSS
Big Bill came to town Thursday night.

Not "Big Bill the Builder," who thinks King George is directly responsible for most of humanity's ills, but Big Bill Tilden, the well-known actor, who demonstrated to some 2,000 customers at the Butler fieldhouse that he's the same old

Tilden as a pro that he was during the years he ruled amateur tennis. At times during his match with young Emmett Pare, whom he defeated 3-6, 7-5, 6-4, 4-6, it appeared Tilden either has fallen into the well known professional habit of coasting or was employing his thespian talents to give the customers a good show.

Young Pare, blonde and likeable and almost always a gallery favorite because of his unassuming bearing, revealed in his improved play the benefits accruing from nightly tilts with Tilden, Frank Hunter and Karel Kozeluh, the Czech. However, it was rather obvious Tilden could have polished off the national clay court titlist in short order if he had chosen.

Whenever Tilden needed points he dragged out that cannonball service that has baffled the best of the world could send against him, or he jockeyed Pare into coming to the net to be passed with a cross-court shot. Most of the time, Tilden hammered Pare's backhand and wasn't forced to cover a lot of court.

Kozeluh, who toyed with Vinny Richards last winter before Tilden turned pro, was headlined as half of the attraction, but didn't appear. The official reason was that Kozeluh is a little sick of being beaten night after night on the pro tour by Tilden.

Tilden and Dr. Lock Wel, Chinese player from Chicago, were beaten, 6-3, by Pare and Ellis Klingeman, Tilden, in a one-set, doubles match.

REEVES BOYS TO PLAY
Ginger and Billy Reeves, star members of the undefeated Central Normal college basketball team of Danville, have joined the South Side Turners and will be seen in action Sunday afternoon when the Turners take on the strong Morgantown Green Lanterns in the main event of a triple-header at Turner gym.

In other tilts Turner girls will perform at 1 o'clock and Turner Blues at 2, opponents to be announced later.

King Tut Favorite

Minneapolis Slugger Meets Petrolle for Sixth Time Tonight.

By United Press
NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—King Tut of Minneapolis, who boxes like a clown and hits like a roustabout, has been made an 8-to-5 favorite to defeat Billy Petrolle in his ten-round engagement in Madison Square Garden tonight.

The two boys have met five times before. Bout No. 1 and 2 went to Petrolle with Nos. 3, 4 and 5 of the series going to Tut. Judging by the gate receipts, the frequency of their meetings has increased their appeal. Fight No. 1 drew $7,000—tonight's brawl is expected to gross something in the neighborhood of $40,000.

Tut, because of his thirty-four-second knockout of Petrolle some two weeks ago, is the betting favorite, but the Fargo Express, as Billy bills himself, is the sentimental favorite.

PURDUE DRILLS START
By Times Special
LAFAYETTE, Ind., Feb. 27.—Purdue's football squad will launch its preparation for the 1931 season here Monday afternoon with the start of spring practice. Head Coach Noble Kizer announced today.

Bulldogs to Face Wabash

Butler's Bulldogs, beaten by a Hoosier foe the first time this season last week at Notre Dame, will attempt to step back into the win column tonight at the fieldhouse when they take on Pete Vaughn's Wabash five.

In a previous encounter, the blue netters walked off the Crawfordsville court with a 30 to 20 verdict. Four campaigners will conclude their services with Wabash in tonight's game. They are Johnson, Bowman, Howell and Chase.

Cruising in Sportland

By Eddie Ash
BURLEIGH GRIMES, spitball star with the St. Louis Cardinals, is strong for race horses, but won't be able to buy many new steeds for his stable out of his 1931 salary. It is said he has been ordered to pay $8,000 to his former wife. And then there's Uncle Sam's internal revenue department.

There are reasons to believe the Willie Kamm-Lew Fonseca trade between White Sox and Cleveland is definitely off. At any rate Manager Bush became uneasy about the first base berth and the rookie Raymond Radcliffe was ordered to report ahead of other infielders and outfielders. Radcliffe swatted .379 in the Southeastern League.

A semi-pro hurler hailing from Los Angeles, John Intlekofer, 19, has caused Manager Bush to give him personal attention. The youth is said to have the easy delivery and mound stance of a veteran. George Stovall, former prominent big leaguer, had Intlekofer under his wing on the Coast.

According to New York rumors, the members of the New York Giants' holdout brigade have formed a pact to battle for their "rights" in the way of new contracts for 1931. It is reported they have agreed to "stand as one." It's a good bet the so-called agreement will be broken by one or more when John McGraw goes into action and pay day time rolls around.

Wesley Ferrell, Cleveland's ace pitcher, shattered all player union laws this winter. He had his tonsils extracted and said the doctor bill himself. Several years ago Indianapolis had a player who posted the road secretary for weeks with a claim for 20 cents car fare and this same athlete, with others, consumed the bat boy's peanuts.

When George Sisler, veteran first sacker, was a rah rah boy at Michigan university, he was a pitcher, and a good one. In a game with Western Reserve he struck out the first fourteen men to face him and tagged out the fifteenth on a slow roller down the first base line.

With the undefeated Cincy Reds of 1899 was George Wright, shortstop. He's 84 now and is active, recently shooting 93 for eighteen holes of golf at Palm Beach.

In 1908, Harry Coveleskie, hurling for the Phillies, beat the Giants three times in one week, shortly before the end of the season and knocked the McGrawmen out of the pennant. He was never able to beat the Giants again during his stay in the majors. His victories were scored on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, noosing out Mathewson on Saturday, 3 to 2.

Practical jokesmiths with the Brooklyn Robins are agitating for a spring snooze tourney in Florida and believe their Fran Lombardi would be a clinch to win the title or at least tie Goose Goslin, the veteran long-beaked fly chaser with the Browns. If you take the word of Goslin's mates, his nose grows longer every winter.

Casey Stengel has picked up Ken Strong, former N. Y. all-American grid star, and the famous stadium will try to make good in the Toledo outfield. He led the crew of the team in college. He received a lot of publicity when somebody put out a story to the effect he never had been signed. It was over big until the co-ed exchanged secrets.

Fistic Bill Completed

A trio of pugs from the stable of Fred Batstone, Cincinnati, has been engaged to perform in prelude bouts at the armory Tuesday night. Wild Bill Speaks, Frankie Meiners and Bobby Ammon will constitute the Cincy delegation Tuesday night. The complete program of the weekly Legion mitt show, announced today, follows:

Ten Rounds—Del Fontaine, Winnipeg, Canada, vs. Ray Framble, Rockford, Ill.; middleweights.
Eight Rounds—Harry Dillon, Winnipeg, Canada, vs. Charley Arthur, New York City; light heavyweights.
Six Rounds—Wild Bill Speaks, Cincinnati, vs. Tony Petrucci, Indianapolis; welter.
Four Rounds—Frankie Meiners, Cincinnati, vs. Allen Watson, Indianapolis; feather.
Four Rounds—Tony Beck, Indianapolis, vs. Onie Gabelner, Shelbyville; light-welter.
Four Rounds—Bobby Ammon, Cincinnati, vs. Eddie Roberts, Indianapolis; bantam.
Del Fontaine stopped Johnny Wagner of Fort Scott, Kan., here several months ago.

TECH YEARLINGS ON TOP
Finishing even at the half, 10 and 10, Tech high school first-year class rallied in the second half and defeated Washington freshmen, 24 to 15, on the east side basket court.
