

CONGRESS ADJOURNS WITH RECORD OF LITTLE DONE TO SOLVE NATION'S PROBLEMS

Inadequate Relief Granted in Areas Ravaged by Long Drought.

HOOVER EMPLOYS VETO

Insurgents Are Defeated in Greater Part of Their Program.

By Scripps-Howard Newspaper Alliance
WASHINGTON, March 4.—The seventy-first congress came to an end today.

It met in December with confident plans for preventing and relieving distress caused by the drought and unemployment, and with a program of reform legislation which the insurgents said must be enacted if an extra session was to be avoided.

After months of bitter quarreling with President Hoover, congress adjourns with this relief provided: A $45,000,000 seed loan appropriation for the drought areas, loans to be given only to those providing security, and none of the money to be used for food.

A $20,000,000 loan appropriation for rehabilitation in the drought areas, with slightly more liberal provisions, but still requiring recipients to give security.

Food Not Mentioned
This measure could be interpreted more easily to induce food loans, but does not mention food. Complaints already are being made that relief is not being granted adequately under these measures.

The veterans' bill permitting holders of adjusted service certificates to borrow 50 per cent of their face value.

A $116,000,000 appropriation for beginning work on public construction projects.

The insurgents have suffered almost complete defeat at the hands of the President on their program.

It called for enactment of the Norris Muscle Shoals bill. The bill was passed by congress, but vetoed by the President.

"Lame Duck" Bill Loses
It called for passage of the Norris amendment to the constitution to abolish "lame duck" sessions of congress.

This would have been accepted by both houses of congress had it not been for insistence on the part of Speaker Longworth that it carry a provision for automatic limitation of the second session of each congress, as at present. It died in conference committee.

The program called for enactment of anti-injunction legislation, but this was not considered by either house.

It called for enactment of the Wagner unemployment bills. The first of these was made effective by a belated appropriation. The second, for advance planning of public works, became law. The fate of the third, for a system of federal employment agencies, was left to President Hoover, after it had been approved by both houses.

Working Week Cut
Little else beside these measures has received attention at this session of congress.

In the early months, the federal farm board was given an additional $150,000,000 to carry on its operations.

Postal workers were given a 44-hour working week, and later all government employes in the District of Columbia were given a 36-hour week.

The senate refused to consider entrance into the world court. It debated, without taking action, railroad consolidation and regulation of interstate bus transportation, and branch and group banking.

It confirmed a number of important nominations, including those of four of the five federal power commissioners, and it launched court action against the fifth, George Otis Smith, who, it claims, holds office illegally. Eugene Meyer, who was confirmed as member of the federal reserve board, after a long fight.

Wickersham Report Given
At this session congress has received and discussed the Wickersham report. The senate has investigated postal cases, and the right of Senator James J. Davis of Pennsylvania to his seat.

It uncovered the "grocer boy" plot to defeat Senator George W. Norris in the last Nebraska primary campaign, and the part Robert H. Lucas of the Republican national committee played in that campaign.

It is the first session of congress since 1923 to adjourn without making a reduction in the current income tax rates. Its expenditures have exceeded those of any previous congress, and the federal treasury faces a deficit at the end of the year.

President Hoover has vetoed five measures passed at this session. His most notable victory was killing Muscle Shoals; his most notable defeat was on the veterans' loan bill.

Farm Board Created
This congress created the federal farm board, and would have provided an equalization fee for distressed farmers if Hoover had not dissipated.

It passed the census and reapportionment bill, provided relief for flood sufferers in the southeast, increased the pension of Civil and Spanish war veterans, and liberalized laws relating to disabled veterans of the World war.

It passed a rivers and harbors bill, and building programs at naval shore stations and military posts.

It ratified the London naval treaty, and passed the Smoot-Hawley tariff bill.

'Odd Man' Ire

By United Press
DENVER, March 4.—D. H. Morse believes in the law of averages.

That was why when two strangers offered to match pennies with him "just for fun" he thought that unless his luck was worse than had he at least could finish even.

"We matched 8,000 times, and I didn't even win once," he told police.

"Then," he added, "I decided something was wrong."

It made him so angry, Morse said, he attacked the men and got back $40 from one of them by force, but the other one escaped with an equal sum.

$300,000 ROAD PLAN BLOCKED

Two-Year Fight Continues in Madison County.

By Times Special
ANDERSON, Ind., March 4.—More than two years of delay have failed to clear the way for the paving of a road from Anderson to Elwood at an estimated cost of $300,000.

Authorities given Madison county commissioners to receive bids for the Dale J. Noland road, which is the south section of the proposed highway, has caused remonstrators to adopt a new line of action in an effort to defeat the project. They have engaged attorneys to start a suit contesting legality of the action of the county council declaring the Noland road of public utility and authorizing commissioners to proceed with paving plans.

Action by the council was taken at a night session. Councilmen met earlier the same day and voted against the Noland road. The complaints allege that the night meeting was not a regularly convened session within the meaning of the law as notice must be given of special meetings. Hence any action taken at the night meeting, has no legal status.

Meanwhile the county has instructed Ward Shetterly, county auditor, to accept bids on the road on April 6.

The project has twice been before the board of tax commissioners on appeals of remonstrators. The first time the board disapproved a $160,000 bond issue, but after rehearing the case several months later authorized commissioners to receive bids. However, final approval is being withheld by the tax commissioners.

Income Reports Come In

Miss Jean Hancock computing her income tax.

Clerks were busy today as the annual two-week's rush of late income tax return filers started in earnest at income tax offices in the federal building. Miss Jean Hancock, above photo, was aided by William Steinsberger, when she computed her income as Uncle Sam had ordered.

Temporary offices, Room 309, Federal building, opened to care for the rush of late filers, will remain open until Monday, March 16, last date for filing returns. Returns must be filed by personal delivery.

Air Mail Probe Voted
By Scripps-Howard Newspaper Alliance
WASHINGTON, March 4.—Congress has at last voted for an air mail investigation.

No definite date has yet been set for the opening of hearings, but the plan is to conduct them during the congressional recess. Such things as the manner in which air mail contracts were made, the working of them, the schedules that have been adopted, and so on will be investigated.

A number of airline operators who have failed to obtain air mail contracts have for some time been demanding an investigation into the methods of the postoffice department in awarding its contracts.

Pigeons Beat Plane
OSLO, March 4.—Even though the modern airplane has attained a very high speed, it is slow compared with the flight of pigeons.

In a race from this city to Jessheim between an airplane traveling 105 miles an hour and six carrier pigeons, five of the birds beat the plane to the goal. The sixth finished in a dead heat with the plane.

Air Mail Growing
WASHINGTON, March 4.—Planes carrying air mail in the United States last year set a new record for mail carried, according to the United States postoffice department.

Total weight of mail carried on all United States lines during 1930 was 7,719,698 pounds, as compared with 5,645,680 pounds carried in 1929.

When Your Cough Hangs On, Mix This at Home

The best cough remedy that money could buy, can easily be mixed at home. It saves money and gives you the most reliable, quick-acting mixture you ever used. The way it takes hold of stubborn coughs and chest colds, giving immediate relief, is astonishing.

Any druggist can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and fill up with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. It's no trouble at all to mix, and when you once use it, you will never be without it. Keeps perfectly and tastes good—children really like it.

It is surprising how quickly this loosens the germ-laden phlegm, and soothes and heals the inflamed membranes. At the same time, part of the medicine is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes, and helps the system throw off the whole trouble. Even those severe coughs which follow cold epidemics, are promptly ended.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form. Nothing known in medicine is more helpful in cases of severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

SENATE VOTE BACKS HOOVER SHOALS VETO

49-34 Count to Override Action Far Short of Two-Thirds.

By United Press
WASHINGTON, March 4.—Disposition of the perennial Muscle Shoals problem has been passed on to future congresses as a result of the senate action Tuesday night in voting to sustain President Hoover's veto of the modified Norris bill.

The measure, the second government-operation bill approved by congress during the more than ten years of controversy over the Alabama power and nitrate plant, was killed despite the fact its supporters polled a majority of the senate. The 49 to 34 vote to override the veto was far short, however, of the necessary two-thirds.

In vetoing the bill earlier in the day, the President also disclosed his position on the power issue as he went beyond the merits of the bill to take a strong stand against government ownership or operation of any competitive business.

Sensor Glenn (Rep., Ill.), was the only senator to speak in support of the veto. He denied President Hoover had violated his campaign promises and praised his courage for vetoing the bill.

Sixteen Republicans and one Farmer-Laborite joined with thirty-two Democrats in voting to override the veto. Three Democrats were aligned with thirty-one Republicans in support of the President.

The roll call follows:
To Sustain the Veto (34)
REPUBLICANS (31)
Bincham, Carey, Metcalf, Morrow, Capper, McNary, Gillette, Patterson, Phlips, Reed, Sherridge, Smoot, Thomas (Idaho), Hale, Vandenberg, Walcott, Keweenaw, Keyes, Tydings

Chairman J. Clyde Hoffman (Rep., Marion), and the majority members of judiciary A committee recommended that the bill be postponed indefinitely.

RECEIVER WILL NOT ESTIMATE BANK PAYMENTS
Misunderstanding Would Be Result, Says Washington Company Official.

Any attempt now to prophesy the date or amounts of money that will be available to depositors of the Washington Bank and Trust Company would result only in misunderstanding and disappointment, Brandt C. Downey, receiver, declared in a preliminary report to Circuit Judge Harry O. Chamberlin today.

Since becoming receiver for the defunct institution, Nov. 15, Downey said he had examined available evidence of ownership of assets listed by bank commissioners, and assumed charge of them.

Complicated Situation
"When the transfer to me was completed I found myself controlling as receiver, total assets of approximately $3,800,000, and a condition of about $4,600,000 as trustee for others," his report stated.

"Of the assets roughly one-half were pledged to secure certain liabilities, leaving assets of the book value at $1,900,000, against $2,100,000 for unsecured liabilities. Of the total liabilities of $3,400,000, about 75 per cent, or $2,550,000 was in the form of deposits."

The situation was complicated by the fact that the company during late years was surrounded by a group of more than twenty companies closely linked with its affairs, said Downey.

Discusses Real Estate
Discussing liquidation of investments on real estate Downey pointed out he assumed the receivership during a depression in which real estate values were shrunken, and said he would investigate each piece of property.

On taking charge of the property, Downey said he found an indebtedness to the Fletcher American bank of $190,000, with $450,000 of its better assets pledged as collateral. This debt was retired Dec. 31, to prevent further expenditure for interest and possession of important assets by a third party.

Call for Fair Play Wins Public Support

The appeal of the railroads for equality of competition in transportation has won the support of the public.

From press, platform, mail and personal interview has come approval of the aggressive declaration of the railroads.

This response shows that the American people realize that:

No other transportation set-up can permanently supplant the railroads;

Without subsidies or other unfair advantages much of the railroads' competition could not survive;

A square deal in transportation is the only way in which the interest of the public itself can be fairly served.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.
