Indiana Art Development Is Described in Club Address

Wilbur Peat, director of the John Herron Art Institute, traced the development of Indiana art to the work shown in the present exhibit for members of the art department of the Woman's Department Club and their guests, Tuesday afternoon at the art institute.

He said the exhibition was not a modernist exhibition, but a contemporary exhibition, which included the work of moderns.

He sketched the development of art from the early days of the new ideas expressed in oil and water color on canvases because the work is done as sincerely as that of the early artists.

"It might be called a laboratory experiment in working out problems in modern technique, which will express to the public the artists' feelings, moods and emotions."

Mrs. W. D. Hamer, chairman of the art department, received with Mrs. Harry G. Leslie; Mrs. Everett M. Schofield, president of the Woman's Department Club; Mrs. John Allee, Greenacres, president of the Indiana Federation of Art Clubs; Mrs. H. B. Burnett and Mr. and Mrs. Peat.

More than fifty out-of-town guests attended the exhibition.

The tea in sculpture court followed the gallery tour. Art students in Russian costume presided at the table, which was centered with a plateau of spring flowers and lighted by pastel tapers in antique glass candelabrae. Samovars stood at each end of the table. Hostesses included:

Mesdames Paul T. Payne, chairman; R. Wayne Bott, Charlton N. Carter, Willard Clay, Alvin T. Coate, J. F. Edwards, Charles F. Field, F. P. Russell, W. J. State, L. H. Sturges, O. C. Wilcox and F. C. Albershard.

Just Every Day Sense

BY MRS. WALTER FERGUSON

THIS Dr. Lorene Pruette, psychologist, who, in a Ft. Worth speech advocated the chloroforming of all the men, goes too far, I believe. Psychologists are likely to do that.

Discussing the general nuisance of the male, this New York woman professor is quoted as saying, "He (the man) may be delightful to have around and he often is amusing and ornamental, but what a price we have to pay for him!"

Tut, tut, Doctor, speak for yourself, please. But don't pretend to represent the sex with any such sentiments. The majority of women want not fewer, but more, men hanging around. How blank would be our days, how empty our lives without that sort of trouble!

Women may make a great show of independence, but chloroform the men and we'd all go jump in the lake. The average woman has but two real interests in life, no matter what her business or profession—men and children. Everything else is a side issue.

As for the bother they give us, why we take to that like a cat to cream. Every wife enjoys holding forth upon the peculiar delinquencies of her husband. Every mother sighs with delight as she recounts the wild ways of her sons.

Every sister is ready to fight to the death for her brother. And working girls secretly adore their bosses. We are, in fact, quite ravished by that fine nonchalance that men assume toward life.

And the woman who rails most against men invariably likes them best. That's logical. She has ideals to which she wishes them to measure. She gets upset when they disappoint the perfectness of her dream for them.

It is the agreeable and complimentary lady who really dislikes men. She uses them for her own interest. To her they are not individuals, but possessions, gold mines to be exploited. Secretly she despises them.

I'll bet Dr. Pruette, who is said to be married, has a spoiled and pampered husband.

Beta Tau to Meet

Beta Tau sorority will meet at 8 tonight at the home of Miss Evelyn Ross, 6138 Crittenden avenue.

NEW IDEA SAVES SILK HOSE

Expensive at best, silk hose and undergarments are made doubly so by improper washing. A fashion expert has found a new, simple way to correct this.

She adds a tablespoonful of Engerine to every quart of lukewarm, soapy water. Then she washes and rinses the articles as usual. The addition of Engerine removes all the body excretions that soften and rot silk.

The results are amazing. Not only does this method give new cleanliness and freshness with original color revived but actually gives longer life to hose and undergarments. Try this new method. It's easier and quicker than just soap and water alone, means less rubbing and insures extra wear that will surprise you.

Engerine is unexcelled, also, for quickly removing all dirt and grease spots from dresses, hats, gloves, shoes, etc. Large can 35 cents at any drug store.—Advertisement.

WHAT'S IN FASHION?

All Kinds of Bow Trimming

Directed By AMOS PARRISH

NEW YORK, March 4.—Have you a bow this season? (And we don't mean bow!) Somewhere in one of your costumes you must be sure to have one.

Because fashion-knowing women are wearing them—in dozens of ways and dozens of places. From hats to shoes—literally—you'll find bows—feminine, interesting, decorative.

These bows can be perky and saucy . . . or soft and dignified—depending on what mood you want to express.

They can be an actual part of the costume—like a sash that ties in a bow—or something extra, such as a clip or pin.

Real Bow is Good

And they can be a real bow—something actually tied—or a trimming in the shape of a bow, like bow-knot shaped applique on a sleeve, for example.

There are bows on hats—lots and lots of them. The way the one is put on the hat in the sketch—right in the middle of the forehead—is effective, isn't it?

You won't see as many hats with bows in this spot as you will on the side or under the brim—because everybody couldn't wear a hat trimmed as this one is.

And—to go to the other extreme—there are bows on shoes. Flat little tailored bows of leather, and appliques in tiny bow shapes. Not on all shoes, naturally. But on many of them.

Scarfs are Popular

Coats have scarfs that can be tied in bows. So can some of the wide sash-like belts on coats.

Dresses, too, have their scarfs and ties. And they often have little bows on sleeves, bigger ones at one side of a draped neckline, and neat tailored ones on the front of the bodice.

And of course blouses go in for bows, too. Lots of blouses actually tie around at one side with a bow. Others use them for purely decorative purposes, like the print blouse with plain colored bows that's illustrated.

Separate scarfs are about the most important single item in the fashion bow in bows. There's the good, old-fashioned sailor knot sketched.

Bow-Tied Scarfs are Chic

Regular looped bow-knots with long ends to hang down the front are another favorite way of tying scarfs. Or in a big single loop caught over at one side.

We've had sketched a few illustrations of the fashion for bow trimming in contrasting leather.

Next a new pin—bow-knot shape—in rhinestones. Then a printed blouse with plain color bows or decoration.

On the figure you can see the hat with bow trimming and a scarf tied like a sailor's knot. Add the bow-trimmed shoes, and you have just about enough bow trimming for one smart costume.

Next: The new lengths in gloves are described by Amos Parrish.

CLUB ADDRESSED BY I. U. PROFESSOR

"The influence of Paul Verlaine, French vagabond poet of the nineteenth century, was strong among his contemporaries, and is felt to the present day," said Professor Ernest J. Leveque of Indiana university, in a lecture before the Alliance Francaise Tuesday night at the Spink-Arms.

Professor Leveque pointed out that Verlaine is known at the Villon of the nineteenth century, and that there is a great similarity between the lives of the two poets. The art of Verlaine, according to the speaker, is best expressed in his "Art Poetique" and "Romance Sans Paroles."
