

SUCCESSOR TO CASEY JONES QUILTS HIS CAB

Completed Run on Which Engineer of Famed Song Was Killed.

By United Press

CHICAGO, March 12.—Announcement of the retirement of Harry A. Norton, 70, the engineer who completed the run on which Casey Jones was killed, is made in the current issue of the Illinois Central Magazine.

When the veteran engineer left his cab for the last time recently, he did so, he admitted, a bit less briskly than he did when he completed the run on which Jones, who later was made famous by a popular song, was killed at Vaughan, Miss., in 1900.

Casey Jones

"I've been with the Illinois Central for almost forty years," Norton said. "It's nearly thirty years since I climbed in Casey's cab to finish his run after the accident. And I've been on this run ever since."

There are other old timers who recall Casey Jones as a fearless engineer rather than as the hero of a song.

They remember that he was assigned to his last route—Jackson, Tenn., to Water Valley, Miss.—because he was not afraid to pilot a fast train and get it in on time.

Jones died when his engine plowed into the caboose of a stalled freight train on the morning of June 1, 1900.

B. J. Feeny, an official of the Illinois Central System, told at a recent dinner that Casey's real name was John Luther Jones, and that his nickname was derived from his home town, Cayce, Ky.

"When the world's fair of 1893 closed in Chicago," Feeny said, "Casey came here to receive locomotive 638 which was on exhibition, and this was his regular engine for several years."

Sim Webb, Casey's Negro fireman, who saved his own life by jumping before the crash, recalls that Jones stayed with his engine.

Mrs. Casey Jones, widow of the engineer, now lives in Memphis, Tenn.

RETIRED ACTRESS DIES AT HER HOME IN CITY

Mrs. Margarette Breyer to Be Buried at Crown Hill Saturday.

Funeral services for Mrs. Margarette Breyer, 66, retired stage and screen actress, will be held at 2:30 Saturday at the Wilson funeral home, 1230 Prospect street. Burial will be in Crown Hill cemetery.

Mrs. Breyer died Wednesday night at her residence, 917 Prospect street, following a short illness.

She had her first stage experience in Indianapolis with the Metropolitan stock company. Later she played the part of Matilda in "The Old Homestead," with the Denman Thompson company. For a time she conducted her own company, featuring "East Lynne" and "Fanchon, the Cricketer." She also appeared in several early motion pictures.

Her husband, also an actor, died forty-five years ago. Survivors are a son, Avon Breyer, with whom she lived, and a sister, Mrs. Lillian Ford of New York.

MYSTERY NOVEL HAS UNIQUE BEGINNING

Elizabeth Holloway in "Cobweb House" Has Pass Christian as the Scene of a Strange Crime.

BY WALTER D. HICKMAN

THE thing that strikes one on starting to read "Cobweb House," by Elizabeth Hughes Holloway is that the author has hit upon a unique as well as a satisfactory means of starting a murder mystery.

You first meet "a lean, rather dark, rather young, rather studious-looking man" riding in a Pullman bound for Pass Christian from New Orleans.

He has before him many letters written by the woman he is going to marry, Anna Sue Yancy. The man in the Pullman has the name of James Vorbin.

The entire first part of this novel is devoted to these letters of Anna Sue telling about her horrible suspicions of her aunts and others.

These letters terminate in a telegram received by Jim, stating that Anna's grandfather, Captain Jasper Yancy, had died suddenly in the night during a terrific storm.

From then on, Jim and Anna Sue start to work out the mystery of the "murder" of Captain Yancy. There is another point of difference in this murder mystery from others, that is the reader is not a bit sympathetic with Captain Yancy.

He was a tyrant of the old school and certainly made life miserable for the two aunts of Anna Sue in the house.

Did Aunt Aurelia or Aunt Maude kill Captain Yancy in his bed? Did the strange Voodoo chant and powers of Veechie, the only servant in the house, kill the old man?

Several others could have killed Captain Yancy and all of them had a motive.

And a "small, grimy calico bag" had a lot to do in solving the mystery.

Another difference with this novel is that no detective, no great brain, is employed to solve the mystery. A voodoo something had a lot to do with the solution.

As usual, I will not give away the plot or the solution. You may tell me that the many letters used to open the story is not new.

I know that, and I remember that Bram Stoker used nothing but letters to give the terrible details of Count Dracula in "Dracula."

You will agree with me that there is a different type of a murder mystery, and it is difficult to find the guilty person. Makes enjoyable reading.

U. S. CLOSES TESTIMONY IN DENISON CASE

Defense Motion for Judge to Direct Not Guilty Verdict Fails.

By United Press

WASHINGTON, March 12.—Justice Peyton Gordon of the District of Columbia supreme court today overruled a motion for a directed verdict of not guilty in the trial of former Representative Edward E. Denison of Illinois, charged with possessing liquor in his office.

Defense attorneys moved for a directed verdict after the government had concluded its case.

The motion was made on the grounds of "no continuity of evidence because of suspicions" and that Denison was not aware of the content of the trunk containing the liquor in his office.

The government, closing its case, had difficulty in establishing as evidence two bottles of Spey Royal Scotch whisky, which it claimed were seized from the trunk in Denison's office Jan. 19, 1929.

When the government attorneys presented their exhibits, William E. Leahy, chief counsel for Denison, succeeded in having barred as evidence a suitcase which had been found leaking in the express office here, a bottle of gin, and a number of whisky labels, baggage receipts and way-bills.

Through freight service linking Europe to Asia will be established by the railroads of Germany, Soviet Russia and China, and Japanese steamship companies.

Best Sellers

The following is a list of the six best sellers in fiction in Brentano's New York stores:

"The Sophisticates," Gertrude Atherton (Liveright). The epitome of a brilliant woman's soul.

"Shoe the Wild Mare," Gene Fowler (Liveright). A novel about the urge for power, love and excitement.

"Grand Hotel," Vicki Baum (Doubleday Doran). The author of New York's greatest dramatic hit.

"Festival," Struthers Burt (Scribner). Another brilliant novel of modern life by the author of "The Interpreter's House."

"The Good Earth," Pearl S. Buck (John Day). A powerful novel of the soil with a Chinese setting.

"Reader, I Married Him," Anne Green (Dutton). The author of "Selby" writes a new story of Americans in Paris.

Two Held on Boozie Charges

Willie Jackson, 39, and Frank Hunter, 31, Negroes, 716 Darnell street, were arrested today on blind tiger and vagrancy charges after Sergeant Dan Cummings and squad said they found five gallons of alcohol in a car in which the men were riding.

Several others could have killed Captain Yancy and all of them had a motive.

And a "small, grimy calico bag" had a lot to do in solving the mystery.

start right now to REBUILD YOUR STRENGTH

the new strength that comes with taking S.S.S.

... particularly is this IMPORTANT in the spring, after colds, flu and sickness

MANY are weakened by the epidemics of colds and flu in winter and the body therefore has less resistance against further disease attacks.

When your vitality is low—you feel weak—have lost your appetite, the chances are that cold or the flu or some other sickness has destroyed many of your red-blood-cells and your body has not the strength to properly assimilate and use the food you eat.

When your red-blood-cells are reduced to 80% you are not yourself. 60% is dangerous. Your body may be demanding more red-blood-cells. You need these health-building and health-sustaining cells to build and repair tissue and give you strength.

S.S.S. is famed for its ability to increase the red-blood-cells. This is why for over 100 years it has been popular for toning up the system—especially in the spring. And being purely vegetable, S.S.S. has no harmful effects upon the system.

Every spring countless thousands take S.S.S. to build back their red-blood-cells so that they may have that new strength which makes for a keen appetite, firm flesh, a clear skin and greater resistance against infection and disease. You, too, will want to take S.S.S. for this very reason. Select the larger size as it holds double the quantity and represents a price-saving.
