

S. America Is Described by Traveler

Edward Tomlinson, world traveler and well-known lecturer, took members of the Women's Department Club on a long and interesting airplane tour of South America, Wednesday at the monthly meeting, with eloquent description and subtle humor.

He described his trip over the longest air mail route in the world starting from Florida and going over Central America, down the coast of South America, Colombia, Ecuador, Peru and Chile, then across the Andes in a breath-taking air run to Argentina, thence to Brazil and home.

United States statesmen should not think, he said, of a South American policy, but of separate policies for each individual country, for they can not be considered alike.

"Peru, for instance, is essentially a black republic; Argentina is all white, while Brazil is a mongrel of all the races of the world. They refuse to be treated alike by the United States."

His greatest thrill, said Mr. Tomlinson, came when he was flying in a small single motored plane at an altitude of 21,000 feet over the Andes when he looked down and was able to see the famous Christ of the Andes, erected by the Chileans and Argentines on the boundary as a pledge of perpetual peace between the two countries.

In closing he said that we must remember South America not as a continent of "half Negroes and half white," as was stated recently in congress, but as of separate groups of individuals who make their own takes, but have ideals like our own.

An election of officers was held during the day. Officers elected are Mrs. Clayton H. Ridge, second vice-president; Mrs. Philip A. Keller, third vice-president; Mrs. Harry Orlipp, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Harvey Crossland, auditor; and Mrs. Frances Wands, Mrs. John Connor and Miss R. Katherine Beeson, directors.

WHAT'S IN FASHION?

Spring Suits; Shoes Stockings

Directed By AMOS PARRISH

FASHION WEEK—presenting Easter and Spring fashions in coats, dresses, suits, hats, accessories and men's clothing

YOU can wear suits this Spring. Even if you've never worn them before. Because they're as soft and easy to wear as a dress.

Full of zip...and pep...and swing. With scarfs to throw or tie. With belts to buckle and sashes to knot. With buttons to button... many buttons...or just one or two.

Nothing severe or hard about new suits. They look soft...and are soft...on the figure. Dress-like. Even the tailored suit...with its nipped waistline and wider revers.

Dress-like collars. Dress-like sleeves. Dress-like skirts. But with the comfortable feel...the convenience...the practicality...of suits!

These Are Fashion's Suits

Vionnet would approve the costume on the large figure—for she herself designed the fashionable side-closing suit with narrow roll collar.

A good fashion for the mature figure—this next suit with three-quarter coat and scarf neckline. The tailored suit, next in line, is soft enough to look well on most any one.

Younger folks like the collarless suit, shown with plain jacket and plaid skirt. (But it's smart with plain skirt, too.)

And last the uniform suit...a swanky affair for swanky youth.

Fashion Facts About Fashion's Shoes

Smartest shoes are trimmed. But quietly. With narrow strappings...pipings...perforations. Combinations of two leathers and two shades are in fashion. But harmonious combinations.

Pumps are in fashion. Their simple lines ensemble easily with any costume. Oxfords are in fashion. Their neat, trim look goes so well with tailored costumes. One-strap shoes are in fashion. Fashion-right with fashion's feminine dresses.

Fashion Facts About Fashion's Stockings

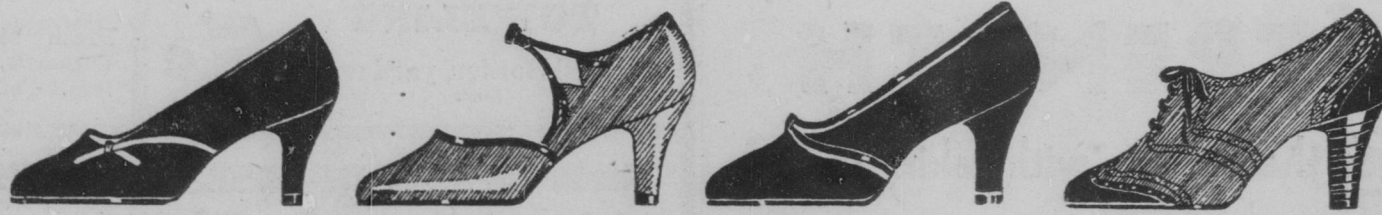

Spring's stockings a little lighter than Winter's. But dark enough to blend into the ensemble. Neutral shades of beige and taupe most fashionable. Because they look best with Spring's costume colors. Narrow heels...dull finish...sheer weights—all in fashion because they're inconspicuous.

These Are Fashion's Shoes

Is Your Home Me "LIGHTED"?

Many people expect only one thing of electric lighting—illumination. That is not enough. Lighting may be good or bad.

The basic rule of proper lighting in the home is to light the object—not the eye. There should be an adequate supply of light; there should be no glare; the illumination should be well distributed.

Improper lighting causes eyestrain, fatigue, headaches. Proper lighting not only saves the eyes, but its soft, diffused light makes the home more attractive.

Look through your home! Is the light good in some places, poor in others? An added lamp would mean convenience—even safety.

Good lighting costs no more than poor lighting
