

WOODCOCK WILL OPEN BIG DRIVE THIS SUMMER

Campaign to Eradicate All Huge Liquor Sources to Be Conducted.

By United Press

WASHINGTON, March 13.—Amos W. W. Woodcock, general of the nation's prohibition forces, is organizing his enlarged enforcement army for a test of his ability to im prove on his many ambitious pre decessors.

This test period will begin in earnest on July 1, when the rest of the 500 new agents which con gress provided will be inducted into the service and started out on the track of big bootleggers, whom it is now the government's intention to eradicate.

Already 150 have been given their preliminary lessons and are on the job.

Woodcock has been in office nine months, and believes himself ready for the big test.

He looks back upon the experiences of others who have preceded him—Roy A. Haynes, Brigadier General L. C. Andrews, Seymour P. Lowman, and Dr. James M. Doran. But this does not deter the new general of the prohibition forces.

Big Drive on by July

"By July 15 the full effort of this bureau to enforce prohibition should be well under way," he said.

He told how he intended to get some "thinking" from his administrators throughout the country by instructing them to send in plans here for spreading out the new agents under their jurisdiction.

"We want to have everybody study his own problem," he said.

"My feeling is that the bureau is getting more effective enforcement," he asserted, after telling how during the last month agents in New York had "silenced" stills with an average capacity of 30,000 gallons of alcohol a day—"quite a big dent," he said.

Woodcock told how he was going to spend $50,000 to buy light, fast automobiles for the enlarged force. They will be used to scour out upon the alarm, and get bootleggers. He expects to get about 100 cars cars for this account.

Hunt for Big Sources

The prohibition director also has found out how he can make use of the $50,000 which congress granted with the direct specification it could not be used for propaganda as formerly.

He has set up a special investigating force which will try to locate the big sources of supply.

Woodcock's will start on the 350 agents yet to be inducted into the service with a full course of in struction in their jobs.

The other 150 already have taken the course. He has summoned his twenty-four instructors here for the middle of June for a "refresher course" from him, and then they will teach the fledgling agents for two weeks.

There are 3,000 applicants from which to pick the new agents.

GIFT MOVES FRENCH TO REPAIR CHURCHES

Rockefeller's Work on Cathedral Causes Citizens to Act.

PARIS, March 13.—Through the generosity of John D. Rockefeller, the mutilated glory of Rhine Cathedral is being restored and this has caused a group of French citizens to start a movement to preserve the village churches of Normandy, Brittany, Vendee and other French provinces from ruin.

A national campaign to raise 10,000,000 francs for this purpose will start this year.

A national league for the preservation of French churches is being formed, principally to prevent the dismantling of pretty little Gothic structures and their shipping, stone by stone, to be re-erected in America.

World-famous cathedrals, such as those at Chartres and Rouen, have been classed as "historical monuments," which preserves them from being sold abroad and permits them to be kept in repair with government subsidies.

But there are thousands of other churches which are worthy of interest and there is no practical method for preventing them from going to decay.

WOMAN LEADS ARMY OF CHINESE BANDITS

Government Troops Defeat 3,000 Rebels in Battle.

SHANGHAI, China, March 13.—An army of 3,000 bandits, led by a woman—sister of the Communist general Ho-Lung, was defeated today by government troops.

The woman led her forces into the battle when they encountered government troops which were protecting the town of Lachih.

The bandits had crossed the Hu-peh-Hunan border to attack Lachih, but the government forces of the Eighth division, under General Hsu Yuen-Chan, drove them back after sharp fighting. There were many casualties before the bandits fled.

CROW ALWAYS HEARS DEATH ORDERS READ

Bird has Perched near Court House During Five Ceremonies.

SIDNEY, N. S. March 13.—Justice Hugh Ross was pronouncing death sentence on Alfred Beckett when a large black crow flew into a tree nearby.

The crow cawed raucously as the justice completed his sentence.

Then it was recalled that the same crow had appeared in the same tree during the last five death sentences in the court. The last time the crow appeared was when Justice Ross read the death sentence against "Bing" Anderson, New England skier.

LOTS OF NEW BEAUTY FOUND IN 'THE SEA'

Sokoloff and the Cleveland Symphony by Their Playing of Debussy Made a Splendid Musical Impression.

By WALTER D. HICKMAN

I FORGET how many years ago when The Teachers Federation of Indianapolis brought Nikolai Sokoloff and the Cleveland symphony to the old Caleb Mills hall.

Last night, the Civic Music Association brought back the orchestra and the same conductor, this time to the new Caleb Mills hall at Shortridge.

The six and probably some years that have passed since the orchestra was introduced to this city have brought forth many changes and improvements in both the man and the conductor.

I recall that the first time I saw Sokoloff on the conducting stand, I had the impression that he went in for much unnecessary fireworks while conducting. In other words, he impressed me as "acting" on the conducting stand.

Last night everything was changed. He took a considerate, scholarly and a modest approach to everything that I got lost in the haunting beauty of Debussy.

It takes years for members of a symphony orchestra to arrive at a high point of what I called expression. The years have brought this organization closer to that point.

This was clearly shown by the way Sokoloff directed his men through the charming and tantalizing passages of Debussy's, "The Sea, Three Symphonic Sketches," which included "From Dawn to Noon at Sea," "Frolics of the Waves," and "Dialogue of Wind and Sea."

And the titles of these parts of "The Sea" explain the entire idea. The orchestra and the director caught the great beauty of these sketches and proved their advancement toward a more commanding position in the world of music.

As you know, Brahms has never sent me soaring to the tenth heaven of musical delight. Probably I am not a Brahmsite and I shuddered when this forty-five minute "Symphony No. 1, C minor, Op. 68" was announced.

The orchestra and the conductor played this Brahms symphony with understanding and intelligence.

Even at that, this symphony again probably for the twentieth time in my experience, left me unmoved. But that was no fault of this orchestra.

It was necessary for me to leave before the final two numbers, one especially I wanted to hear, but more work in the theater called me away.
