Baker Hurls Threats of Grand Jury Action in Perjury Cases.

Warning that grand jury indictments will be returned against witnesses perjuring themselves on the criminal court witness stand was issued today by Judge Frank P. Baker.

Threatening to "put a stop to lying from the witness stand," Baker Thursday ordered a grand jury probe of the testimony of Miss Loving Franke, 849 West Walnut street, a witness in the case of Ollie Malone, Negro, 1510 North Senate avenue, charged with assault and battery and petit larceny.

Miss Franke testified recently in municipal court that Malone struck her and stole a small sum of money, but at the appeal hearing before Baker she allegedly denied this.

"You either lied in the lower court or you are lying now. I will place these facts before the grand jury to have you indicted," Baker told the witness.

Baker withheld a ruling on the case pending the grand jury probe.

By Science Service BERLIN, March 20.—Berlin visitors passing through the Natural History museum will have an opportunity to see a huge dinosaur skeleton from Africa, which has just been set up.

It represents a beast similar to the American dinosaurian genus Diplodocus though it is not quite so large. As the skeleton stands in the museum, it measures about forty-one feet in length and just under ten feet to the highest part of its arched back, and is known to science as Dicroidosaurus.

The skeleton was collected by a recent German expedition to the Tendaguru region in East Africa,

$500,000 TO BE STATE'S SAVING IN CEMENT BILL

Price Fixing Is Broken by Business Depression, Bids Show.

Depression has broken the price-fixing of Portland cement manufacturers and for the first time in years the state highway department received real competitive bids and will save $500,000 more than the 1930 prices on the annual cement contracts.

"Never before has the department been able to buy cement at such a wide price range," William J. Titus, chief engineer, declared today. "Largest spread in the past was 10 cents per barrel, while this year it was approximately twice as great, with any number of firms competing, rather than a single one breaking the price for a restricted area."

The year's supply of 1,750,000 barrels of standard cement and 20,000 barrels of high early strength cement will cost the state 29 cents per barrel less than in 1930. Net price per barrel this year averaged $1.36, as compared with $1.65 last year.

Bids were received from fifteen companies in five midwestern states. Ten companies were awarded contracts as follows:

Long Star Portland Cement Company of Limedale, 650,000 barrels of standard and 20,000 barrels of high early strength cement; Universal Portland Cement Company of Buffington, 475,000 barrels of standard cement; Leigh Portland Cement Company of Mitchell, 325,000 barrels; Medina Cement Company of Sandusky, O., 75,000 barrels; Louisville Cement Company of Speeds, Ind., 100,000 barrels; Consolidated Portland Cement Company, Toledo, Mich., 25,000 barrels; Southwestern Cement Company, Dayton, O., 10,000 barrels; Kosse's Cement Company, Louisville, 35,000 barrels; Wabash Cement Company, Stroh, Ind., 25,000 barrels, and the Marquette Portland Cement Company, La Salle, Ill., 40,000 barrels.

ROOSEVELT ON SPOT IN LIQUOR REPEAL

Legislature's Resolution Is Up for His Action at Critical Time.

*WASHINGTON, March 20.—*The leading early candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, has been "put on the spot" from a prohibition standpoint, observers here believe.

On his desk at Albany is a resolution passed by the New York legislature Wednesday urging congress to repeal the eighteenth amendment. He must sign or veto it. His friends here say he will sign it.

This necessity for prohibition action on his part comes before the shouts of southern Democrats and western Republicans for "another Roosevelt in the White House" have fairly died away.

The Democrats opposed to the Smith-Raskob wing of the party in the recent national committee meeting here leaned decidedly toward Roosevelt. Nearly all of them are prohibitionists of varying degrees of aridity.

They knew Roosevelt came out for repeal in the gubernatorial campaign in New York last year, but he was more to their taste, as did the Republicans.

The skeleton was collected by a recent German expedition to the Tendaguru region in East Africa, than either former Governor Alfred E. Smith or his ally, Chairman John J. Raskob of the Democratic national committee.

They were influenced particularly by the fact that he did not stress the prohibition issue as did Smith and Raskob.

Roosevelt's repeal view were subordinated to the power issue when the Republican independent group met here later. Outside of Wisconsin almost all the Republican party progressives are stern and unequivocal prohibitionists.

Some independents and Democrats here who are sympathetic toward Roosevelt indicate their feelings will not be changed if he signs the resolution and asks congress to repeal the amendment.

They feel the step is timely, and some even hint that Roosevelt's enemies within his own party in New York may have contributed to an effort to embarrass him.
