

Council to Convene at Bloomington

Mrs. Edna Pauley, president of the May Wright Sewall Indiana Council of Women, has called officers, committee chairmen and delegates from affiliated clubs to meet in convention April 21 and 22 in Bloomington.

Members of affiliated organizations are welcome to the meetings and may take part in proceedings, although they may not vote.

Headquarters will be at the Graham. The convention will be preceded by the meeting of the board at 1 Tuesday, April 21. The convention program will open at 3. A banquet will be held at 6:30, but the speaker has not been announced. Sessions will be held all day Wednesday and a luncheon, in charge of the Bloomington council, will be at noon.

The convention will close with a banquet, "Indiana Women Torch Bearers," written and arranged by Miss Merica Hoagland, Indianapolis, to commemorate the tenth anniversary of the council.

"The history of Indiana is intensely interesting and important, according to Miss Hoagland. 'We hear the names of the great men of our state, but hear little about our great pioneer women. This banquet will indicate the important part played by the women in the history of the state.'"

'Permanent' Time Here With Robins

When spring comes round the corner and our gay hearts cry out "Hats off to the first robin and the first crocus," we should begin to wonder how our uncovered hair looks!

Instead of wasting time being envious of the girl with natural curls, that the zephyrs lift enticingly, why not get a permanent? I am assuming that you have tried waving your own hair, or have tired of having to push a wave into it every few seconds. And I am assuming you want your hair waved.

Launching our heads on their first permanent wave involves making a decision. It costs money, the usual staple price in a big city being one dollar a curl, averaging from $20 to $35, or more.

Shun Cheap Permanents
I advise against the very cheap permanents. You can't tell what they will do to your head!

If you have dyed hair, remember this! Reputable firms test out the permanent on your head before putting it in. Once in a while the wrong dye has been used, a chemical condition exists that makes a permanent wave inadvisable until it is rectified.

Good, reliable hair dressers, usually know this without testing, but their scientific efficiency makes them take the test anyway.

Permanents are a safe, sane, flattering boon to women. The reason you keep needing permanents, every six months or so, is because your hair grows out and the new growth next the scalp is straight, throwing the permanent out of commission.

Get Your Hair in Shape
If your hair didn't grow, you would need one permanent, provided it is a good and thoroughly satisfactory one in the first place.

Now a word to the wise about preparedness for your permanent wave. If your scalp is properly lubricated, your hair in top-notch, healthy condition, naturally the permanent wave will be more successful than if it isn't.

Why not do a couple of weeks or a month, to getting your hair in glowing, shiny, beautiful condition before you have the wave? Give the old head a tonic! Rub it in. Brush it, lift it from the scalp, pull it to exercise it, take your hat off every second you can to give it plenty of air.

And treat it to an oil massage once a week, putting the oil on with a wisp of cotton or a medicine dropper so it hits the scalp without making the hair so oily you have to wash it again.

One more thing. If you are worrying about the expense of a permanent, the luxury of a permanent, if you please, why not forego all sweets or desserts or even cigarettes for awhile and put away every nickel that would have been spent in this manner? Also, don't take taxis, walk instead! It won't hurt you to have to give up something for your permanent. Moreover, if you want to be facetious, you can say you are taking your permanent right off your own avoirdupois.
