

SPRING HATS OFFER ENDLESS CHOICE IN CUT AND COLOR

Originality High Note in New Styles

BY JULIA BLANSHARD
NEA Service Writer

NEW YORK, March 30.—Easter hats have a challenging, revolutionary spirit well calculated to go to a woman's head!

They have emancipated themselves from their too-long subordinate position. They flaunt their new importance, by originality in the endless variety of cut, color, and materials and in the way they are worn.

"Up and backward" is their motto, one and all. Whether a formal evening toque with trailing plume or a stiff sailor at home on a permanent wave, new hats all join in going the same direction—up to show the hair in front, tilted back to show the left ear.

Straws to the Fore

Straws are seen and not felt, except for sportswear and on young things. New colors. Gay colors. Trimmings include plumes, quills, flowers, pert linen and piping bows, many ribbons and rich velvet bangles and bows.

Hats have contrast of color and materials. Many sizes. Many silhouettes. Hats are large, they are small, they are round, they have points, they swing out on the side, they turn up in the back, they are irregular.

Choosing the right one may be difficult. But stimulate and more interesting than it ever has been before.

They're Just Your Type

If there is any classifying this year, it's hat crop, the division of types is this:

1. Provocative tricorn and bicorns, with upward-sweeping brims using their own discretion about how and where to point.

2. Demure and elegant toques, of lacy straws, flattering in their softness, their trim.

3. Wide-brimmed capes lines with shallow crowns and wide brims balanced just right on shining tresses.

4. The tiny unfurled cloche, a cute little hat, when the right woman picks the right one.

5. Novelty cuts, like the sailors, reminiscent of Gibson Girl days, the 1931 Wataqua hat, the romantic shepherdess hat, the "stovepipe" and the "square crown."

Gives Personality Variety

By selecting different varieties of hats, a woman can show a lot of different sides to her personality this spring. For the first time in years, hats have such definite character that they suggest in their own make-up what type of costumes they properly belong with.

Some have a rather elegant formality about them, made to go with afternoon ensembles, they would have you know. Others have just the right dash of nonchalance suitable for the soft tweed frock or the smart one-piece dress when warmer days dispense with coats.

One and all, they demand to be put on right, worn with suitable apparel and contrasted nicely with a costume.

The day of limp hats that took whatever character they had from the woman who put them on her head is gone.

Panamas Shot With Metal

New straws include a dozen panamas, some shot with metal, others lacy openwork; baku de chambre, perlina, pedaline, pailleton, picot, shining bengal, horsehair, basket weaves, crocheted hemp, pellophane and straw jerseys.

New colors run from vivid reds, billiard greens, penetrating blues to soft, dull plum tones and to the baby blue and light pink combinations.

Trimmings add more color, usually. The fashions with which two unusual tones are united in a single hat determines its sophistication. Big hats are worn with suits, small hats with chiffon dresses.

Each hat has its own individual contribution to make this Easter. It is one year when nobody can tell anybody else what to wear!

Your own type of beauty, your individual preferences in color, your own individuality in taste—decide what's to be worn on your head this spring.

CUTS SILK HOSE BILLS IN TWO

A New York fashion expert has found a simple, easy method to double the wear of silk hose and undergarments. These articles, worn next to the skin, wear out doubly fast because of the perspiration and other body exertions which soften and rot the silk.

This lady found that soap and water were inadequate for washing such articles. She recommends when washing silks to add a tablespoonful of Enerjine to every quart of lukewarm, soapy water. Wash and rinse as usual. This method not only cleans thoroughly and quickly but makes silks like new with revived colors and pleasing freshness. The difference in results over the use of soap and water alone will amaze you. It means longer life—real economy.

Enerjine is unexcelled also for quickly removing all dirt and grease spots from dresses, hats, gloves and shoes. Large can 35 cents at any drug store.—Advertisement.

PIQUANT OR DEMURE? BOTH ARE HERE

The piquant and spirited tricorn (left), in a sort of version of shiny black hemp straw, perched back on the head, is trimmed with a soft rose-colored velvet draped banding and flat bow. A delectably soft black and rose tweed frock has the new hook and eye fastenings, and a jaunty black rose striped scarf.

The modified sailor of pailleton (right) turns its back brim up and uses double bows of velvet ribbon over and under it for trimming. It is very distinctive worn with a black flat crepe frock with sleeve puffs and a gump of hand-tucked white chiffon. Both costumes are from Birke and Birke, New York, and both hats are from Ferle Heller, New York.

WOMEN LIONS WILL ENTERTAIN GUESTS

Woman's Lions Club will hold a guest day luncheon and meeting at 12:15 Wednesday at the Spink-hills!

WOMEN do love to make mountains out of mole hills! "My 25-year-old daughter is engaged to a very nice boy," said a worried mother, "but he is six months younger than she and somehow I always have felt that it is better for the husband to be several years the wife's senior."

That is only another of those hoary traditions that have been handed down as sacred. The quicker we explode them, the better.

It used to be the fashion for men to 30 to marry girls of 16. Economic and social conditions made that a good policy. The husband was supposed to be satisfied and wish to act as guide and mentor for his mate and inexperienced spouse.

These marriages turned out well, so far as the outsider could see, because all marriages did that. Divorce was a scandal and brought disgrace on the family in those days, so the merry maiden became old over-night and nobody worried about whether she was happy or not. She was married, Mrs. Oscar W. Hanson, vice-president; Misses Christine Dietrich, secretary; Lenna Barker, treasurer, and Leatha Wood, editor.

Miss Dietrich was chosen delegate to national convention of the society to be held at Trousdale-in-

It's impossible, I admit, for a young girl and an older man to be congenial. You can't make set rules for selecting mates for other people. But it's surely only good sense to admit that two individuals nearer the same age would have better times together and be more likely to hit it off.

So far as I can see, there's no particular point in insisting that a wife always be younger than her husband. We outlive the men two to one these days, anyway.

The country is cluttered up with good-looking, lively, middle-aged widows whose dead husbands were eight or ten years older than they were. We keep our health and our looks better than men do, and we have a good deal more leisure in which to preserve our beauty.

We have, in fact, completely
