

'Occasional' Room Easy to Arrange

By NEA Service
CHICAGO, April 1.—There is no spring tonic for the whole family quite so efficacious as fixing up the home.
If you have an inclosed sun parlor, a little den that isn't used as much as it should be, an alcove under the stairs, or a card room, why not treat the family to a brand new place to lounge and play?
Families are staying home more. This is the spring to capitalize that fact and make home a place pretty enough to encourage it.
It is possible now to furnish an occasional room in the modern furniture for a sum within reason. And the new modern furniture is comfortable, personified, balanced and lovely to look at, pretty in its new colors and, above all, easy to clean.

Modern Furniture Now Staple
The metals, woods, leathers, compositions, textiles and cork that go into them create the most pleasing appearance plus utility and comfort. No wonder the new modified modern furniture is becoming staple in many homes.

In planning a lounge, playing room for the family, you may do well to get a little color into it. Not overdo it. But enough color to make it rather stimulating.

The walls may be a gay yellow, not too deep, or if you prefer it, one of the pretty pastel greens, with a hint of spring in them, against which almost any color is good.

Rust red, yellow and green go very well together for a color scheme. Or you can go into a gay daffodil yellow, scarlet and black, if you want it very frivolous and peppy.

Group Is Recommended
A group of furniture that would be appropriate as the fitting for any kind of lounging and playroom would include a comfortable triple settee, a deep armchair, a low day-bed, a table and a high table for flowers, to put refreshments on, or to keep magazines or games.

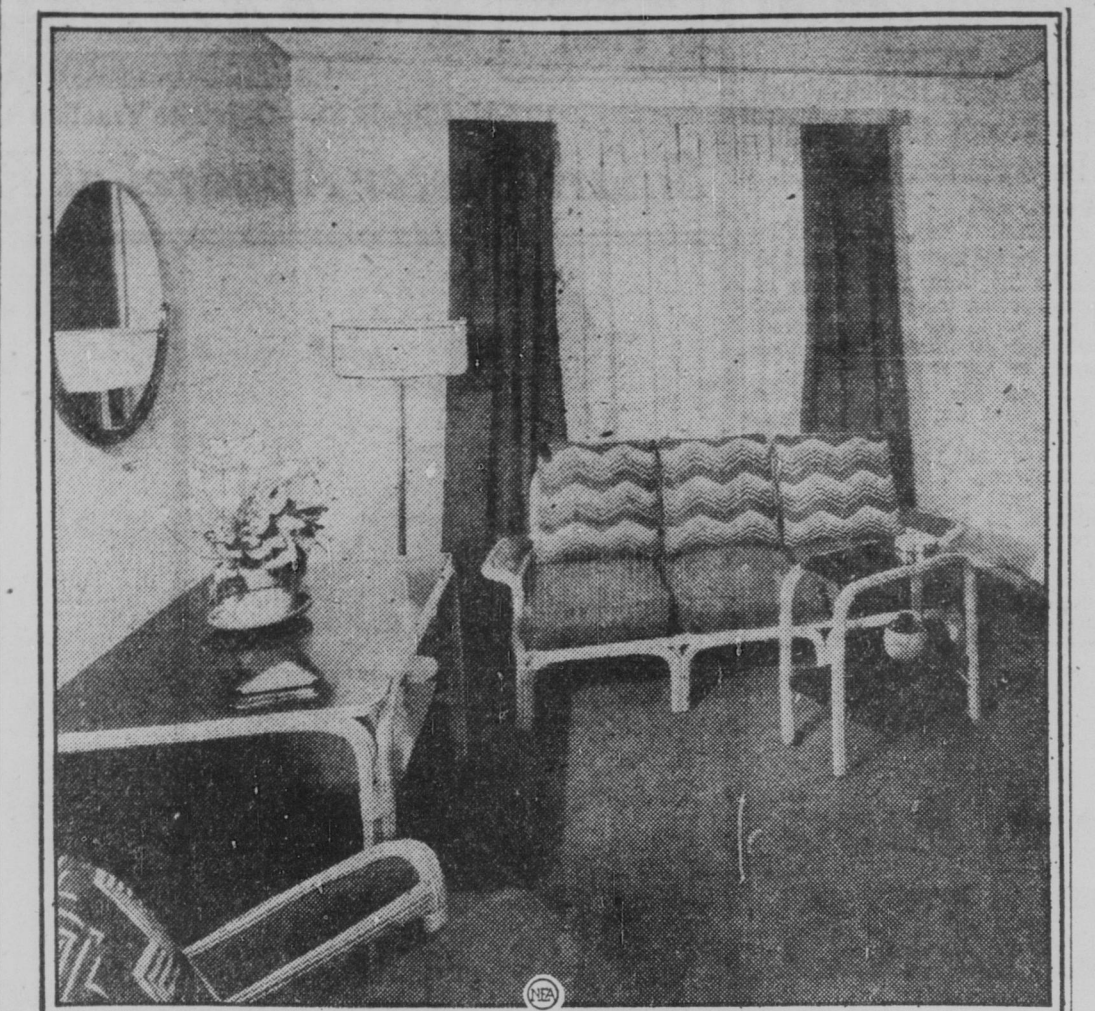

Among the new furniture, an outstandingly pretty choice is made of shiny, yellow wicker, with black composition tops to the tables, and the chairs and settee upholstered in washable fabric. The seat cushions are made of plain tones, either in rust or green, and the backs a modern design of the same tone with wavy lines of yellow.

Mirror Is Decorative
There are glass curtain materials that repeat the design of the chairs, in the same colors, too. And to set them off, linen drapes in green or rust are good.

In such a room one of the modern mirrors is decorative and desirable. These may be made plain edged so that they seem to fit right into the wall, or be framed with metal, for further decoration.
And of course you should have a lamp or two of the indirect lighting variety, with a cheery yellow shade of parchment.

Given such a room, and you need only to add a backgammon table, camelot, checkers and cards and you have enough bait to keep the family home for days on end.

WICKER, METAL AND WASHABLE FABRICS BLEND

New modern furniture for the sun room or family play room is restrained in line, comfortable to the 10th degree and pleasingly colorful. Wicker, washable fabric and metal go into this set, gay yellow rust and brown or green in color. The settee for three is very new, with arm ends. The indirect lighting is modern and pretty, with yellow parchment shades and metal bases.

SIMPLE SPORTS TYPE
Several are the schemes which will be splendid for this model. You'll find it will lend itself equally as well to silk crepe as the fashionable weight woollens.

It is pictured in navy blue flat crepe silk, enticingly smart for spring. The buttons are of self-tissues. The vest and revers collar are white crepe. A white gardenia adorns the left revers.

Its lines are slenderizing. Note the deep V of the bodice—how it narrows its width. The skirt with flat slimmess about the hips has an inverted plait at the center-front that is decidedly length giving.

Style No. 253 may be had in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46-inches bust.

Printed flat crepe silk, tweed jersey, tweed and rayon novelties you'll like immensely in this model.

Size 36 requires 3 1/2 yards 39-inch with 1/2 yard 27-inch contrasting.

Order a copy of our new Fashion Magazine. Attractive styles for women, misses and children. And instructive lessons in sewing.

Price of book 10 cents. Price of pattern 15 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred). Wrap coin carefully.

Six "inalienable" rights of the American girl were named by Mrs. Jane Deeter Rippin, former director of the Girl Scouts, in a speech before the annual meeting of the women's division, national amateur athletic federation in Detroit Tuesday.

The rights named by Mrs. Rippin are, first, the right to count in the world; second, the right of adventure; third, the right of romance, which Mrs. Rippin interprets as "anything that breaks the routine of life"; fourth, the right of joyousness; fifth, the right of affection and sixth, the right of a social and religious interpretation of life.

"Girls are important members of society," Mrs. Rippin told her audience. "They are the future mothers of the race. Through their intuitive knowledge of values, visions and standards of life are formed in the souls of men."

Mrs. Rippin urged women's division to push the movement for same sports for women and girls in this country. In the words, "The ideals for which the women's division of the N. A. A. F. stands must be made the household words in the mouths of all girls today, in order that these ideals may be lived tomorrow."

Women's Prison Chief Pleads for 250-Acre Tract of Land

A plea for a 250-acre tract of land where a rural colony for women prisoners might be established, was made Monday by Miss Margaret Elliott, superintendent of the Indiana Women's prison.

"We wouldn't need much," Miss Elliott said. "Just the plainest of brick buildings, and land that the women might cultivate; dairy herds, hog herds, and mor chickens."

"Indiana was the first state to establish a separate prison for women. This is the original building, built in 1880, that instituted a new prison movement."

Miss Elliott addressed a group of women, including board members of the Indiana Federation of Clubs, who visited the prison at the request of the community welfare department of the Woman's Department Club, which asks the co-operation of the state organization in obtaining new quarters for their less fortunate sisters.

Calls Building Fire Trap

The president building is a fire trap, she said, and over crowded. The prison is divided into two departments; penal and correctional. Correctional cases are long term cases and are given better care, for, as the superintendent believes, "to effect a reformation in a woman's character would take longer than ten days to two weeks."

In the front of the building, visitors inspected the library, where books are arranged and numbered according to the public library system.

In the rear, the dining rooms were viewed. The dining room for the "long termers" met with the approval of the women visitors. In the center of the table, covered by snowy linen, was a potted begonia, and the chairs, around the table, were upholstered in dark leather.

Cleanliness Is Feature

Many remarked that the most remarkable feature of the prison was its cleanliness. The walls were spotless, and the oak floors were scrubbed. The kitchens are large and airy, and equipped with the most modern of sanitary appliances. In the pantries are stored canned goods, some of it canned by inmates. In the baking rooms were freshly baked loaves of bread, of which they bake more than one hundred loaves daily, including rye and white.

One of the industries practiced in the institution is shoe repairs, which is done by the women at a saving of more than $140 dollars a year. Their neat blue denim dresses are made at the prison, and their shoes are manufactured by the men at the state prison at Michigan City. Everything possible that is used at the prison is made either by the women themselves or at other state institutions. Even the rugs are woven in the building.

The inmates' cells also were spotless. The only thing "cell-like" about them was the white gridded door at each entrance. The beds were white iron cots, with white spreads and lace-edged pillow slips. The women themselves make the lace. Each room had at least two beds, sometimes three.

The prison, which should have a capacity of 144, has been forced to accommodate as many as 212, Miss Elliott said.

Church services are held every Wednesday and Sunday in the chapel, with ministers of all denominations officiating. The Rev. Lewis Brown speaks on Thursday nights.

A surgery, where medical examinations are made and where operations are performed, is in charge of Dr. Rose J. Buttz.

"The girls are crazy about land," Miss Elliott said. "They love to work with the grass, and in the gardens. If our work is to be well done, and to be of lasting good, we must get to the country."

BLUE IN FASHION FOR DECORATING

Blue as a decorating color is coming back into fashion. At the Antiques exposition in New York, it was interesting to see what a large quantity of blue was used by the decorators who exhibited.

They used it in walls, draperies, furniture covers and carpeting.

Miss Helen J. Noble
