

DEFER HEARING ON LEGALITY OF BUS-TRUCK BILL

Ogden Asks Delay; Court Prayed for Injunction to Stop Printing.

Hearing on the temporary restraining order preventing Secretary of State Frank May Jr., from publishing House Bill 6, in the acts of 1931, has been changed from Thursday to 2 p. m. Monday by agreement of attorneys.

The new date was announced following a conference in the office of Attorney-General James M. Ogden, who will represent the secretary of state in the suit.

Temporary restraining order was issued by Judge Harry O. Chamberlain in Marion circuit court Tuesday. Action was brought by the cities of Indianapolis and Muncie and Clarence F. Hudson, Delaware county taxpayer.

Cities are interested in preventing the bill from becoming the law because it would abolish "home rule" in the matter of bus and truck line jurisdiction, giving absolute power to the public service commission.

In asking that the restraining order be made permanent they point out that the bill as signed by the Governor never was approved by the senate.

Should the court go into this matter, it will be the first time in the history of Indiana jurisprudence that they have gone into the enrollment of an act. Eminent lawyers, however, contend that there is nothing to prevent the court from taking such action.

BANDITS ROB COUPLE

Pair of Thieves Get Gun, Auto, Watch and Money.

Mr. and Mrs. Doyle E. Brady, Edgewood road and Arlington avenue, were robbed by two bandits near their home Tuesday night. They told police they were robbed of a revolver, automobile, watch and money.

Aged Veteran Buried

By Times Special
RICHMOND, Ind., April 8.—Funeral services were held Tuesday for John W. Loven, 82, Civil war veteran, who died Sunday.

BY BEN STERN

When L. E. York, superintendent of the Indiana Anti-Saloon League, told members of the Central W. C. T. U. that in event both major parties nominated "wet" candidates, the league would sponsor a third party or an independent "dry" candidate for the contested office, he indicated that past history on figures didn't have much meaning for him.

No matter how strong the dry sentiment in Indiana, putting over a third party or an independent candidate is a forlorn hope.

Granting the correctness of York's statement that the league has between 150,000 and 200,000 supporters in Protestant churches of Indiana, he would experience great difficulty in alienating these "drys," staunch as they may be, from the two major parties.

The dry ideal has been accomplished. Years ago when the prohibition issue was young and prohibitionists always were defeated, there really were many fanatical drys and they would and could organize. Nowadays if the layman will study closely the situation, he will find more fanatical wets than drys.

But even in those days there never could be said to have been any great outpouring of dry advocates to vote the prohibition ticket in Indiana.

The largest vote ever cast for this ticket since it first was placed on the ballot in 1876 was in the election of 1904, when 23,495 voted for its candidate for president.

Then came a gradual decline and within the last decade its record, based on the vote for secretary of states, is as follows: 1924, 3,747; 1926, 5,301; 1928, 5,496, and 1930, 7,658 votes. These out of more than 1,000,000 votes cast in every election.

York must have inside information not obtainable from the public records if he honestly thinks the drys can put over a third party or independent candidate for a major state office.

The records speak for themselves.

SPLIT FAILS TO STEM FIGHT ON LINKS LEASE

One Group Withdraws From Moves to Force City to Oust Woodstock.

Fight of the North Side Federation of Civic Clubs to force the city to cancel lease of fifty acres of park land to the Woodstock Country Club today was resumed, despite difference of opinion on the matter which developed at the federation meeting Tuesday night.

H. H. Jones, Northwest Civic League president, withdrew from the federation committee working on the Woodstock project, stating his league had gone on record opposing breaking of the lease.

The league felt a park in the locality is not necessary now, and to turn the land to public use now would depreciate property values in the community, he said. He added that canceling the lease would force the city to stand the $6,000 annual interest charge on $150,000 bond issue used to purchase the land. The Woodstock club now pays the interest charge as rental.

The city acquired the land for

Ingrown Nail Turns Right Out

A few drops of "Outgro" in the crevice of the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and so toughens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it can not penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost over night.

"Outgro" is a harmless antiseptic manufactured for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions.—Advertisement.

park purposes in 1915, building a clubhouse and leasing the land to the club for ten years. In 1920 the lease was renewed until 1930 and in 1922 the lease again was renewed until 1940.

Fight for cancellation of the lease is headed by Gustav G. Schmidt, former city councilman.

The city had no legal right to lease land acquired for park purposes to private individuals, Schmidt asserted.

"Under the present situation," he said, "I, with all other taxpayers, am forced to pay for the land for the benefit of a private golf club, and if I should enter upon this land for which I am helping to pay I could be thrown off as a trespasser."

Answering objection that canceling the lease would force the city to pay the interest on the bond issue, Schmidt declared he would pay the interest in return for concession rights on the land as a park, adding he could clear $10,000 more than the interest.

Declaring he would continue to fight for cancellation of the lease, if he had to fight and use his own money in court, Schmidt said a letter would be sent to the park board demanding consideration of a brief pointing out illegality of the lease, filed with the park board in January by Oscar F. Smith, federation president.

Suggestion that the Woodstock Club buy the land, permitting the city to use the funds to buy park lands elsewhere, was made by Mrs. B. B. McDonald.

33 N. ILLINOIS

RINK'S BARGAIN BASEMENT

"EVERY DAY A SALE DAY"

33 N. ILLINOIS

SEMI-ANNUAL

2 FOR 1 SALE

To morrow Our Greatest of all Sales

2500 DRESSES!

2 FOR $8.88

Plenty of the New Multi-Color Prints
Smart Pastel Frocks
Navy Georgette Jacket Frocks
Sunday Nite Frocks
Chiffon Frocks

You'll Marvel That Such Frocks Can Be Only 2 for $8.88.
... Just Another Rink Achievement.

Every Dress Brand New—Shown for the First Time Wednesday

A scoop for us ... a "scoop" for you, too. You've never seen frocks like these in a sale like this before! Get here as early as you possibly can, for they'll fly from their racks at 2 for $8.88.

Sizes for Everyone
Misses' Sizes, 12 to 20 Women's Sizes, 36 to 46
Large Sizes and Plenty Half Sizes

$1,000.00 IN PRIZES

Finish this Dialogue about WINGS Cigarettes

To Dialogue Contest Editor,
BROWN & WILLIAMSON TOBACCO CORP., Louisville, Ky.

First Person: "So you smoke Wings?"
Second Person: "Sure."
First Person: "How come?"
Second Person: "Well"

Name _____
Address _____

HOW'S YOUR IMAGINATION?
Good! Here's some fun for you, and $1,000 in cash prizes to shoot for. Just finish the dialogue about Wings—the popular new air-cooled cigarette.

Anyone can enter this contest, but, for the best chance of winning, make your dialogue ending brief, interesting and believable. Style and language won't count as much as what you have the second person say and the reasons why others should prefer Wings.

So begin jotting down ideas. Write your suggestion on the coupon above or a copy of it and send it to the Dialogue Contest Editor, Brown & Williamson Tobacco Corporation, Louisville, Kentucky.

Which Prize Will You Win?

| | |
|---------------------|-------|
| 1st Prize | $500 |
| 2d Prize | $150 |
| 3d Prize | $75 |

Fifty-five honorable mention prizes of $5 each.

RULES OF CONTEST

- Contest closes midnight, April 30, 1931.
- Should two or more persons submit answers tying for the 1st, 2d or other prizes, then each will be awarded the full amount of the prize tied for. Remember the contest is open to everybody.
- Answers must not be more than fifty words long. And send in as many answers to the dialogue as you like.
- You don't have to be an author, you don't have to worry about style. Hand written, type-written, any way will do. But don't forget to sign your name and address to your dialogue. Simply send your suggestion on the coupon, or a copy of it, to the Dialogue Contest Editor, Brown & Williamson Tobacco Corporation, Louisville, Kentucky.
- All dialogues entered, together with the right to use the name of the author or contestant, will become the property of Brown & Williamson Tobacco Corporation, to be used by them in whole or part for any advertising purposes, and the final and conclusive judgment as to the prize winners will be solely in the Brown & Williamson Tobacco Corporation.