

EAST SHIVERS AS COLD WAVE TIGHTENS GRIP

New Jersey Orchard Men Build Fires to Save Peach Trees.

By United Press
NEW YORK, April 28.—Cities along the Atlantic seaboard were in the grip of a severe cold wave today after a high northwest wind sent temperatures tumbling, brought snow in parts of New York state and frost in New England and New Jersey which seriously menaced blossoming fruit trees.

Detroit and Buffalo reported low temperatures of 30 and 34, respectively, and high winds lashed Great Lakes waters. The wind of half-gale velocity, was felt as far as Pittsburgh, where freezing temperatures prevailed.

The wind swept down the coast from the Great Lakes region in the wake of heavy rain and thunderstorms Sunday. Syracuse and other upstate New York residents brought out their overcoats again as snow fell throughout the area Monday. Seven inches of snow was reported in Cooperstown, N. Y., and traffic on the Erie canal was at a standstill.

At Saranac Lake it was necessary to bring out the snow plows, which had been stored for the year, to clear the streets.

New Jersey orchardists protected their trees from frost in many places Monday night by building large fires. In southern New Jersey, however, where the peach trees had reached full bloom the high wind is believed to have prevented serious damage from frost.

Although the wind had subsided somewhat today, the forecast was for fair and continued cold weather.

HOPE IS ABANDONED FOR BOATING PARTY

Body of Woman Recovered; Craft Founders in Frisco Bay.

By United Press
SAN FRANCISCO, April 28.—Hopes of rescuing four missing members of a boating party vanished today after the discovery of the body of Mrs. Mary Loken, 28, the fifth person aboard the motorboat Chickie, when it was found.

Mrs. Loken's body was found off Yerba Buena Island near where the craft founders in the choppy waters of San Francisco bay some time after the party left Sunday on an early morning cruise.

A search by air and water continued for the four missing persons, Gilbert Loken, Jr., 31, San Francisco stock broker; Mr. and Mrs. Carl A. Jefferson, Oakland, and A. Sheridan Hubbard, Piedmont Builder and Loan Association official.

NUDE COLONY ROUTED INTO OPEN BY FIRE

Sans Garments, Cult Spurns Firemen's Aid in Hedge Blaze.

By United Press
NICE, France, April 28.—The Cult of Nudism and a large number of its exponents literally came out into the open today when a brush fire destroyed the bush-and-branch windbreak in front of a nudist camp in the suburb of Pessicard.

Inhabitants of the camp, including both sexes, were thrown into consternation as the flames rapidly leveled the hedge behind which they had been wont to gambol.

One hundred per cent practitioners of the nudist beliefs futilely fought the flames, refusing aid of firemen, and then proceeded at once—still in garments—to build a new windbreak, paying no heed to thousands of curious spectators.

Police this morning were inspecting gypsy camps in outlying districts, seeking an old sedan bearing an Illinois license plate, in which nine gypsies rode to hold up a filling station Monday night.

They stopped at the Producers' Oil Company service station, Massachusetts avenue and Tenth street, filled the tires with air and then poked a gun into the face of J. C. Crothers, 2638 East Tenth street, cashier. Crothers surrendered $75.

CHURCH UNITY TOPIC

Detroit Pastor Speaker at Wheeler City Mission.

Unification of church denominations was cited as a "useless worry" by Dr. Merton S. Rice, Metropolitan M. E. church pastor of Detroit, speaking Monday night at the twenty-eighth annual meeting of the Wheeler City Rescue Mission.

"I am not bothered at all because the churches seem reluctant to unite," Dr. Rice declared, adding that "we are getting along all right."

Annual report of the Rev. Herbert E. Eberhardt, mission superintendent, indicated heavy increases in mission activities.

Free meals given by the mission during the last year totaled 26,147 more than in the previous year. Beds were provided for 10,804 homeless persons.

PARDON ME—

*haven't we met

"MAYBE you don't recognize me in my present guise. I am Trickery. I live by making big promises for whatever I happen to be selling. Oftentimes I even look and sound sincere—sometimes I have to, to make people believe the wild claims and superlatives I use for my product. I flourish during economy waves; it is then that folks fall most easily for my 'something for nothing' bait. Born of the Weakness of Human Nature and fathered by Deception, I boast a long line of antecedents dating back from the fakers of long ago and down through charlatans of all periods.

"Sometimes I am in the guise of a salesman, sometimes I am a manufacturer, sometimes a store, sometimes an advertisement. My racket is to make you think I am a genius; I trick you into believing I have something better for the same money or something just as good for less money. Smile if you wish, but I have fooled every one of you at some time or other. And when I fool you, I fool you where it hurts most, right in your pocketbook.

"You may not recognize me if you see me tomorrow. I never stay in the same place very long or make the same appearance, but I'm sure we'll meet again. We'll meet as long as there are enough of you still around who believe that I can perform greater miracles for your money than the man who sells an honest product honestly presented and honestly priced."

Where are the miracle stores which promised you so much? Recall to yourself how many are gone... and then consider how the merchandise they sold you is standing up.

Out of Indianapolis' 400,000 population, a few people will be fooled all of the time, and a number of people will be fooled some of the time, but not by a store that wants to stay in business all of the time.

For seven years the Colonial has been engaged in selling only high-class home furnishings. It has put quality before price always. It has never resorted to bombastic, high-pressure salesmanship or advertising. It has never claimed to offer the world's greatest values... and yet it could not have been far from them and remained in business.

In the name of fair dealing to the public, we urge you to be cautious about where you buy. There is much on the market today that is distinctly not as attractive as it is represented. Do a little investigating first. Go below the surface and find out whether a so-called bargain is real or mythical. Don't buy without comparison. Check the price, and, above all, the quality, with that being offered by any reputable and well-established store. If you will do this before you buy, you can not go wrong. Any home furnishing store of character will gladly help you. Colonial extends a cordial invitation to the public to use its merchandise and its furniture for comparison purposes.

Colonial's Policy

To serve you sincerely, conscientiously and helpfully.

To be frank, direct, just, fair and courteous in all our dealings.

To esteem your confidence as our most valuable asset.

To uphold a definite Standard of Quality. All Colonial's merchandise is First Quality, Priced Amazingly Low.

To maintain one price—every dollar spent must produce the utmost.

This is the Colonial Policy and to its perpetuation we, the Colonial Organization, dedicate our minds, our hearts and our hands.
