

Slap 'Sex Unfairness' in Business

Indianapolis business women read "Time" consistently, enjoy movies, prefer the legitimate theater, play cards occasionally, feel that discrimination against women in business is prevalent, and that discrimination against women in business because of marriage is unfair.

This much was obtained from members of city business women's clubs, following a questionnaire issued by the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs working in conjunction with the social economy department of Bryn Mawr, the survey results to be used in vocational guidance work.

The majority of professional women never have been discriminated against because of marriage, but have been discriminated against because of their sex in the matter of salaries and fees.

The women's opinion is that men will not pay a woman the wage a man demands for equal or even superior work.

One prominent business woman, Miss Merica Hoagland, said, "There should be no discrimination because of sex or marriage. Married and single women should have equal rights. Family adjustments are their own to make, with due consideration for the rights of children and should be made within the home, not in the business world."

Mrs. Marie Bowen, former president of the Woman's Rotary Club, believes sex discrimination to be a holdover from pre-war days when a woman in business was unheard of. That it signifies lack of progress in the minds and methods of the men who practice it.

In teaching, single women are given preference, and according to recent rulings, married women no longer will be employed, although due to the teacher's tenure law, those holding licenses will be retained.

A few of the women approached on the subject thought discrimination against married women wise—in the event that the husband was receiving a living wage.

Chi Sigmas to Be Hostesses to Bride-Elect

Mrs. Ridge Will Go to Convention

Mrs. Clayton Ridge, president of the Indianapolis Parent-Teacher Association, and Mrs. James Murray, president of the Marion County Association, will leave Thursday for Hot Springs, Ark., to attend the thirty-fifth annual convention of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers.

Headquarters for the convention will be in the new Arlington hotel. The central location of Hot Springs and its natural attractions promise one of the largest registrations of years.

Family Life Topic

The national conference on parent education Friday and Saturday has been called by the United Press commissioner of education, William John Cooper, who has assurance that men and women outstanding in the field of education who have made valuable contributions to the parent teacher movement will take part in the conference. Discussions will concern the changing background of home and family life, problems of parent education at each age-level and the exceptional child.

"The Challenge of the Children's Charter" is the theme of the convention, May 3-7. Dr. Willis Sutton, president of the National Education, will be one of the principal speakers.

Directors to Confer

Beginning Monday, classes in the following subjects will be held from 8:30 to 9:25 each morning: Parent education, parietal law, social hygiene and publicity.

Monday afternoon and Tuesday morning have been set aside for conferences with national department directors. The departments of extension, education and health will hold conferences Monday and public welfare and home service Tuesday.

This year, no elections will be held. Internal business of the organization will be featured. Mrs. Hugh Bradford, president, will preside.

Mrs. Edna Hatfield Edmondson, Bloomington executive secretary, and Mrs. W. J. Hockett, Fort Wayne, president of the state congress, also will attend the national congress.

COLLEGE ALUMNAE WILL HOLD PARTY

Alumnae of Wellesley college in Indianapolis will entertain with a tea this afternoon at the home of Miss Eleanor B. Green, 2101 North Alabama street, for girls in Indianapolis who expect to enter Wellesley next year. The program will consist of a discussion of the college by various of the alumnae. Spring flowers will be used in decorating the home, and the tea table.

No woman should risk unknown substitutes for Kotex

There's health risk in cheaply-made pads of questionable hygienic purity.

THERE'S one time to be cautious—that's when you hear the expression, "just like Kotex." How do you know it's just like Kotex? Who stands back of it? Where was it made? How? By whom? Is it, like Kotex, used by hospitals from coast to coast?

Kotex is safe

Those words, "just like Kotex," mean much more, you see, than surface resemblance. It's easy to make a pad that looks like Kotex. Far, far harder to make one that meets the rigid Kotex standards of purity, of cleanliness, of perfect hygienic safety.

After all, why take chances? You know Kotex is safe. It is adjusted to deodorize. It is adjustable. Last year more than 10,000,000 pads were used by hospitals alone—their choice of Kotex should be your guide.

Kotex may cost a few pennies more than some questionable substitute, of whose makers you know nothing. But those few cents guarantee a product that meets your personal ideals of cleanliness, as well as hygienic safety. Perfect comfort

You have every possible comfort in Kotex. Careful shaping, for comfort and inconspicuous lines. Super-softness... that lasts... because Kotex is made of Cellucotton (not cotton) absorbent wadding, which absorbs scientifically, away from the surface.

Kotex Company, Chicago.

IN HOSPITALS...

- 1 The Kotex absorbent is the identical material used by surgeons in 85% of the country's leading hospitals.
- 2 Kotex is soft... Not merely an apparent softness, that soon packs into chafing hardness. But a delicate, lasting softness.
- 3 Can be worn on either side with equal comfort. No embarrassment.
- 4 Disposable, instantly, completely.
