

NEW BRIDESMAID DRESSES ARE RAVISHINGLY BECOMING

One-Color Wedding Is Innovation

BY JULIA BLANCHARD
NEA Service Writer

NEW YORK, May 6.—Any smart girl should be willing to risk the threat "three times a bridesmaid, never a bride," just to wear one of this June's bridesmaid's dresses.

They are so femininely alluring, so ravishingly becoming, it almost looks as if they were out to outdo the bride, or at least put her on her mettle to look absolutely perfect.

Three outstanding style points assail the eye in the pre-wedding of this June's wedding procession. First and newest is the all-white wedding. Dress the maid of honor, the bridesmaids and all the wedding attendants in the same chalk white of the bride's gown.

Sheer, delicate, exquisite materials are used for the attendants. The bride may or may not wear satin, but the bridesmaids never do. They have either clinging, alluring chiffons, nets, laces, mousseline de sole, or else crisp, fresh organdie, standing out in prim manner.

One-Color Wedding Arrives

In all white weddings, the bridesmaids carry vivid flowers, perhaps American Beauty roses or great armfuls of gay garden posies, in contrast with the bride's white. The maid of honor should mix her bouquet, some of the bride's white and some of the bridesmaid's colorful flowers.

The second outstanding style innovation this year is the one-color wedding, with the bride in ice blue, pastel green, pale pink or ivory yellow.

Three tones of the color are used for this type of wedding procession. If the bride's gown is delicate green, the maid of honor is apt to wear a tone at least two shades deeper in green, with the bridesmaids wearing the green just between the bride and the maid of honor's. Some rich, wonderful effects can be achieved.

They Wear Jackets

The third style point and one that everybody's paying attention to, regardless of the color angle, is that little necessary article called the bridesmaid's jacket.

Everybody's wearing one who lines up to help the bride and bridegroom through with this promise. Not the maid of honor. She is distinguished by her lack of one.

But the bridesmaids all have them this year. Often they are trifles in contrasting colors, boleros, bell-hops, fitted, flaring, peplum, tied at the waistline with sash ends.

One of the prettiest wedding parties planned for this June will see the bride in pale pink, the bridesmaids in printed pink chiffons, with pink tulips in their printed gowns, and the maid of honor in a much deeper version of the same print. They can, you see, wear any costumes they want, just so the whole procession makes a perfect picture.

White Marquessette for Costume
For an evening all-white wedding, a perfectly adorable and of honor's costume is made of the sheerest white marquessette, with a slim silhouette achieved by pleating the marquessette to a very low skirt line, from which it flares, and using narrow pleated ruffles at the waistline and at the hipline.

There is a round neckline, outlined with this pleating and the rear has a deep U decolletage, also outlined with ruffles.

Something new and picturesque in bridesmaid's outfits consist of a detachable peach chiffon dress, made fuller and fuller by the use of flounces joined to one another.

There is a brand new jacket to this, a quaint, old-fashioned fichu cape effect that ties in front and can come off later to give the girl an evening dress.

The hat is the gorgeous blue of larkspur, banded in peach velvet, there is a blue velvet sash to match the hat, and the slippers are matching blue moire, with peach satin tips, in a simple cutout design.

MAXINE BROOKS TO WED JOHN CUTTER

Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Brooks, 10 North Rural street, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Maxine Brooks, and John L. Cutter, Terre Haute, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. Arthur W. Brown, president of the board, and Bishop W. F. McDowell will make the principal speeches. Sunday is National Hospital day.

PALE PEACH CHIFFON FASHIONS THIS GOWN

PRETTY as a picture is this bridesmaid's dress of pale peach chiffon, made with a deeply ruffled skirt, soft blue velvet girdle and something brand new in the way of bridesmaid's jackets, a quaint fichu cape that ties in the front and is removable. The flattering picture hat is of soft blue, tied with a pale peach velvet bow. The slippers are blue moire, with peach satin tips. (Costume from Bergdorf Goodman, New York.)

Bride-Elect to Be Honored by Mrs. Cole

Mrs. Joseph J. Cole Jr. will entertain tonight at her apartment in the Marrot, with a bridge party in honor of Miss Dorothy Moore, whose marriage to Edward D. Hall will take place May 23.

Appointments will carry out the bridal colors, orchid and blue. Sweet peas in those shades will center the table at serving time.

Guests with Miss Moore and her mother, Mrs. L. M. Moore, will include: Mesdames Fred Baker, Herbert Binninger, John Kissinger, Herb Carlson, Misses Mary Jo Pavey, Mildred Smith, Helen McKee, Charlotte Uhl and Georgia Williams.

Sodality to Hold Party at Church

Young Ladies' Sodality of St. Catharine's church will hold a card party at 8:30 Friday at the church hall, Tabor and Shelby streets, for the benefit of the church. Miss Amy Quigley is chairman of arrangements, and is assisted by Miss Mary Hamill. Tickets may be procured from committee members or at the door. Bridge, euchre, 500, bunco and lotto will be played.

OLD WINE COOLERS

GIFT FOR BRIDE

By Scripps-Howard Newspaper Alliance
WASHINGTON, May 6.—Two fine old silver wine coolers, the gift of Secretary Mellon, are among the prized possessions of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Eskridge Saltzman of New York, now on their honeymoon.

Mrs. Saltzman was Gertrude Lamont, daughter of Mellon's cabinet colleague, the secretary of commerce. The Hoovers' wedding gift was a silver after-dinner coffee set. Presents from others of the cabinet and their wives included: Secretary Hurley, a silver candle-labrum; Secretary Adams, a parchment shaped lamp; Secretary Doak, a miniature edition of Shakespeare; Attorney-General Mitchell, an old Chinese mirror and box; Secretary Wilbur, two crystal compotes; Secretary Stimson, old English cut-glass goblets; Secretary Lamont, a chest of flat silver.

Mrs. Frank D. Symmes, president; John P. Coleman, first vice-president; C. W. Foltz, recording secretary; Charles A. Mueller, corresponding secretary, and Edna E. Pauley, treasurer.

Members voted to continue the monthly luncheon meetings next year. They will be held in various churches. Annual reports of officers and committee chairmen were heard during the morning business session.

National Church Council Will Convene in City June 9 to 12

Mrs. Byron Wilson, state president of the Indiana Council of Federated Church Women, has announced that the third annual convention of the National Council of Federated Church Women will be held in Indianapolis, June 9-12 at the Spink Arms.

She also has announced that state councils are co-operating with the national council in sponsoring Christian Mothers' week, closing with Mothers' day programs, Sunday, in churches.

Inspirational addresses presenting a world wide vision of the missionary program of the church will be given at each session of the convention. Plans, policies, relationships and programs of national and state councils also will be considered.

Mrs. John Ferguson, New York City, national president, will preside at the sessions. Dr. Charles T. Paul is scheduled to speak at the banquet.

Local and state councils and federations of church women are invited to send delegates. Local arrangements for the convention are in charge of the Indianapolis council, headed by Mrs. R. J. Huddelson, 35 East Fifty-sixth street.

The last luncheon bridge of the season, in the series sponsored by the social committee of the Indianapolis Athletic Club, was held today at the clubhouse. Mrs. R. C. Fox, social chairman, was in charge of arrangements.

These luncheons will be replaced by breakfast and swimming bridge parties, the first of which will be held June 22. Breakfasts were inaugurated last summer, with tables placed around the pool for bridge following the morning plunge and breakfast.

Reservations for tables for bridge today were made by the following: Mesdames W. J. McWilliams, Oscar Joe Jr., Arthur Overber, Marvin Hamilton, W. A. Mayes, Elmer Holtzman, M. C. Jones, Roland D. Pratt, R. C. Fox, Thomas Gillespie, C. A. Latheman, Ralph R. Reader, E. B. Shoemaker, R. J. Huddelson, P. T. Payne, Lawrence Cummins, W. C. Best, P. R. Buck, H. S. King, H. L. Freyn, Miss Irene Kelly and Mrs. Ralph Seabury, Anderson.

Luncheon tables, laid in the green and palm rooms of the club, were centered with snapdragons in pastel shades.

PLAN LUNCHEON

Mrs. Helen E. Goldman, 2001 North New Jersey street, will leave Saturday to spend two weeks with her parents in Chattanooga, Tenn.

Edwin Beauchamp and Nicholas Schmidt of Cleveland will spend the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Butler, 4845 Central avenue.

Mrs. John Tribby, Hollywood, Cal., who has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse C. Hancock, 1350 West Thirty-first street, will go this week to Toronto, Canada.

S. N. C. Holds Luncheon

S. N. C. held a luncheon today at the Indianapolis Athletic Club. Following luncheon, a theater party was to be held at English's. Members of the club who were to attend are:

Mesdames Arthur R. Vainetti, A. L. Hochman, J. T. Dobrow, Herman H. Sobol, Sam E. Rosen, Philip A. Sacks, Sam R. Alford, Miss Ethel Goldstein and Miss Selma Park.

Dinner to Be Served by Amicas

A mother and daughter dinner will be held tonight at the Lumley tearoom by the Amica Club. Mothers and daughters of the members will be guests.

Covers will be laid for thirty at small tables centered with lighted rose tapers. Mrs. Bert Everhart, vice-president, will preside in the absence of Mrs. Paul Ameter, president, and will introduce the guests. During the dinner hour each member will speak briefly on the club.

The following program has been arranged by Mrs. Earl Spiegle: Songs by the club trio, composed of Mesdames Don Stewart, Frank Richards and Thurman Washburn; a song duet by Mesdames Washburn and Stewart; songs by the girls' octet of Friend's church, which includes Misses Helen and Mabelle Hohn, Elfrida and Alberta Niemeyer, Clara and Frieda Oling, Marie Stumpf and Vera Koch, and readings by Mrs. Charles Smith and Mrs. Martin Conrad.

The social hour after the program is in charge of Mrs. Jack Salter.

Mothers who will attend are Mesdames Minnie Bradley, Isabel Fisher, Rose Johnson, Louise Everhart, Cora Johnson, W. F. Buser, F. D. Williams, and Arthur Grantham. Daughters are Misses Helen Egbert, Joan Richards, Rosemary Shank, Mary Alice Stewart, and Helen and Audrey Lee.

Child Health Ribbons Will Be Given 193

Red ribbons will be awarded to a group of 193 children at the second observance of Child Health week to be held by the Indianapolis Free Kindergarten Society at 2:30 Thursday afternoon at Brookside park community house.

The ribbons are presented annually in recognition of the achievement of the children's health standards set by the medical standards of the society. Blue ribbons represent first standards and red ribbons those slightly below.

Because of the large number of children competing this year, it was necessary to hold two meetings for the presentation of awards. Blue ribbons were given to 590 children at the fourth annual meeting on April 30.

Parents of the children receiving red ribbons will attend with them. A program which will be given includes talks by Mrs. Mrs. H. White, president of the society; Dr. Herman G. Morgan, secretary of the city department of public health, and Dr. Henry B. Morrow of Indiana Dental College.

Miss Grace L. Brown, superintendent of the free kindergartens, will preside.

ALLIANCE TO HOLD MEETING MAY 19

Alliance Française will hold its final meeting of the year, May 19. Officers will be elected, according to Professor Clide A. Aldrich of Butler university, president.

The society met Tuesday night at the Spink-Arms, and a French play, "Rosalie," was presented. Principal roles were taken by Mrs. Richard O. Papenuth and C. Severin Buschmann, and the play was directed by Mme. Yvonne Chamblivich of Tudor Hall.

Henri Bressollet of Indiana university spoke on "The French Colonial Policy in Indo-China." Bertrand Hawkins directed singing of French songs.

MISSIONARY GROUP WILL HEAR BISHOP

Bishop Francis J. McConnell, New York, will speak during the afternoon session of the semi-annual meeting of the Indianapolis district, Women's Foreign Missionary Society, of the Methodist Episcopal church Thursday at the East Tenth Street Methodist church. Miss Clementina Butler, Boston, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. William Butler, pioneer missionaries to India, will give an address.

Other speakers will be Dr. Hawthorne Davy, Manila; Miss Nelson, India; Miss Belle Overman, Korea; and Mesdames O. W. Fifer and C. E. Asbury of this city. Mrs. Ewing Shields will preside.

GUESTS ARE FETED BY STUDY CLUB

A guest meeting was held Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Theodore Layman, 29 South Audubon road, by the Irvington Home Study Club. Mrs. Paul White, president of the Indianapolis Free Kindergarten, spoke on "This Changing World."

A musical program was given by Mrs. James R. Loomis, pianist, and Mrs. Roy J. Kreipke, vocalist. The tea table was centered with lavender and white lilacs, which were also arranged about the home. Mrs. George Thornhill, retiring president, and Mrs. Frank Brown, incoming president, poured.

PRESS CLUB WILL HEAR COLUMNIST

Miss Anne Campbell (Mrs. George W. Stark), Detroit News columnist, will be speaker Tuesday at the guest luncheon meeting of the Women's Press Club of Indiana at the Columbia Club.

This will be the last meeting of the season. Mrs. Kate Milner Rabb, president, will preside. Mrs. Nell Laidler, Anderson, is in charge of arrangements. Reservations may be made with Mrs. Dorothy Reynolds Collins of the Star.

Beta Tau to Meet

Beta Tau sorority will meet at 8:15 tonight at the Antlers.

What's in Fashion? Jacket Dresses All Day Long

Directed By AMOS PARRISH

NEW YORK, May 6.—"Every dress I've bought this spring has a jacket," we heard one fashionable woman remark the other day. "If a dress has a jacket, you're set for anything."

She's just about right. And she thinks exactly as thousands of other fashionable women do. When you are in doubt, wear the dress that has a jacket.

If you don't know how formal the dinner is, wear the dinner dress with its jacket. If you find it's very formal, take the jacket off.

If it's afternoon bridge, wear the sleeveless afternoon dress with its jacket. And go to dinner afterward with the jacket folded up in your coat pocket.

Leave Off Jacket

If it's one of those daytime jaunts with its little things to do, wear the short-sleeved daytime dress with its jacket for shopping. Lunch at your friend's apartment without the jacket. Take tea next door the same way.

The jackets that go with these costumes don't always have to match in color and material. They are smart just as long as they look as though they go together. In most general daytime costumes, though, the jacket actually does match the dress. Or part of the dress. For instance, in the sketch, the dress is plain color with a yoke of print. The jacket is plain color lined with as smartly as the dress.

It could just as smartly have been plain color without the printed lining. Or it could have been all print. Or print with plain lining. (It's not a bad idea to have the jacket reversible—wearable either side out—when it's made of two materials.)

With an all plain color dress, however, the smart jacket would be plain color, too. And with an all print dress, the jacket would be all print.

Afternoon Jackets Match

Afternoon dresses of chiffon, prints, lace or flat crepe have their matching jackets, too. And some of them have their jackets that don't match.

Some of the printed chiffons are most effective with plain color chiffon jackets—the color matching one of the shades in the print.

White lace jackets over dark chiffons are a new idea. You see these in the evening, too. In fact, any white jacket worn with a dark dress is a smart afternoon fashion.

We've sketched one of these. In this particular costume, the black dress has a white yoke. So the jacket really matches part of the dress. But it could be worn with an all-black dress just as smartly.

Jackets for Evening

The plain color chiffon jacket is worn with the printed chiffon evening dress, too, and with lace dresses. Transparent velvet jackets go with lace or chiffon, too, as in the third sketch. And they're not always the same color, though they must always make a pleasant color combination.

And often you'll find that the jacket that came with one dress can be used with still another, to make an even more effective costume.

BY MRS. WALTER FERGUSON

WE are getting used to the noise of thrones crashing. Spain's picturesque monarchy is the last to fall and another royal family finds itself in exile.

King Alfonso, however, has proved himself a real democrat, as well as a wise gentleman, in his abdication, and for this reason the revolution in his country has been a bloodless one.

That's an encouraging mark of human progress. Former affairs of this kind have left the nations in which they took place bleeding and sore. The horrors of the French and Russian debacles will make black pages in the world's history for all time to come.

The most encouraging sign of the upspringing of a throne without slaughtering inhabitants is a proof that great changes have taken place in men's hearts and minds and that we are growing into something better than we used to be.

Every monarch has realized the inevitable as King Alfonso has done, and understood that his day as ruler of a people had ended because of the will of the majority of his subjects, it would have been a good thing for many nations.

The king of Spain has acted so wisely because he is the product of this and not of a past, generation, and therefore understands many things that were totally incomprehensible to Louis XVI and his ministers.

If it is possible in 1931 to have a revolution without blood being spilled, why will it not be possible in 50 or 100 years to settle international differences in the same peaceful manner?

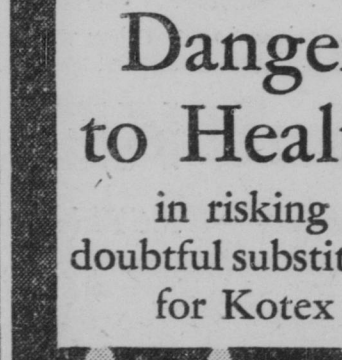

The inhabitants of a world that has believed in and discarded the feudal system, the theory of the divine right of kings and the union of church and state, one day will discard war, which is less intelligent than any of them.

TERRE HAUTE GIRL TO WED CITY MAN

By United Press

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., May 6.—Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss June Stuckwisch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Stuckwisch, to Milton K. Buckingham, Indianapolis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Buckingham.

The wedding will take place June 9 at the home of the bride's parents. The couple will live in Indianapolis.

ITS a temptation, sometimes, to save a few pennies by accepting a substitute for Kotex.

But what a costly saving it may be! What guarantee have you of the hygienic safety of this substitute, if you know nothing of its makers? Is it fit for this personal use? How was it made? Where?

When your choice is Kotex, you're backed by medical approval. The best hospitals use it. They appreciate the splendid purity of Kotex, the exacting care with which it is made.

You should never consider sanitary protection of lower standards. Insist on Kotex. Genuine Kotex. Comfort, too, is assured by Kotex. Laminated layers of Cellucotton absorb wadding absorb scientifically—away from the surface—assuring continued softness.

Symphony's Workers to Enlist 300

With the membership drive in full swing, workers for the Indiana State Symphony Society, sponsor of the Indianapolis Symphony orchestra, will hold their first report meeting at 10:30 Thursday at headquarters, 107 North Pennsylvania street.

More than 100 hundred persons have signed their intention of taking memberships. Mrs. R. W. Warkley Sherwood, chairman of the membership committee, has announced.

Mrs. Sherwood is assisted at headquarters by her vice-chairman, Mrs. Grace Watson Duckwall, who also is team captain, and has announced memberships to be divided as follows, per season: Associate, $2.50; active, $5; donor, $25; patron, $50; sustaining, $75, and supporting, $100.

The state society is made up of people over the state who will act as a body of directors and take up the reins of guiding the local orchestra to successful seasons.

Herman Wolff has been named president of the new organization and will appoint members of his executive committee within a few days.

Mrs. Jackson Will Address Alumnae Group

Mrs. Margaret Weymouth Jackson will speak at the meeting of the Indianapolis Alumnae Association of Pi Beta Phi Saturday afternoon at the home of Miss Ethel Curryer, 3348 Guilford avenue. Mrs. Jackson is a member of Pi Beta Phi.

The final party of the bridge tournament, which has been held during the winter for the benefit of a new chapter house at Butler, will be held May 23 at the home of Mrs. H. C. Gemmer, 5765 Washington boulevard.

Mrs. Ellis B. Hall is general chairman of the tournament, with Mrs. Robert S. Fitzgerald in charge of the final party, assisted by Mesdames Albert Mueller, Norman Green, L. S. Hickman, Paul V. Brown, Walter C. Hiser, Misses Martha Hawkins, Nadine Cook, Marine Jacquot, Sara Birk, Charlotte Comstock and Margaret Kellenbach. Reservations may be made until May 15 with any member of the committee.
