

'KEY' DIES, WITH DEATH MYSTERY STILL UNSOLVED

Two Riddles Are Sealed When California Woman Passes.

By United Press
LOS ANGELES, May 7.—Death apparently sealed two mysteries when Mrs. Esther Carlson, charged with poisoning her wealthy lumberman employer, died as she tried to gasp a few words that might have been a confession or a denial.

Only a mumbled word that might have been "yes" came from Mrs. Carlson's lips when she was asked if she had poisoned Carl August Lindstrom, retired Chicago lumberman.

She died Wednesday night from tuberculosis in the county hospital.

Link to Belle Gunness

The other mystery that went unanswered was whether Mrs. Carlson bore a resemblance to the notorious Belle Gunness, who disappeared after being accused as the poisoner of fourteen persons many years ago on her farm near La Porte, Ind.

Mrs. Anna Erickson, a neighbor, had gone to trial on the Lindstrom poisoning charge when Ray Stahlman, deputy district attorney, was informed Mrs. Carlson would not live another hour.

With Peter and Charles Lindstrom of Chicago, sons of the lumberman, he hastened to the hospital.

Mrs. Carlson was semi-conscious and her answers were so vague Stahlman refused to accept them as evidence.

Same Sigh Is Answer

"Did you poison Mr. Lindstrom?" Stahlman asked.

A muffled sigh which sounded like "yes" was the only response.

"You admit you gave him arsenic?" she was asked. The same sigh was given in answer.

Joseph Marchetti, defense attorney, asked:

"Mrs. Carlson, you mean you did not kill Mr. Lindstrom, don't you?"

The same sigh was the answer.

With that, Stahlman agreed that the dying woman was not aware of the questioning, and returned to the courtroom.

Donald Miller, 427 North Forest avenue, today was caring for an injured racing pigeon he found in his yard Wednesday. On its leg the pigeon bore a tag inscribed: "AU 31-W5147." He said he will keep the bird until its owner calls for it.

"KONJOLA IS A REAL MEDICINE"

Says Indianapolis Lady, Relieved Of Stubborn Ailments Through Famous Compound.

Stomach, kidney and bowel troubles, and even neuritis and nervousness, continue to yield to the proven power of Konjola. It has become a household word in many thousands of homes.

MRS. ANNIE SEDGWICK.

An idea of the power of this medicine of 29 ingredients can be had from the home of Mrs. Annie Sedgwick, 1413 West 33rd street, Indianapolis. Here is Mrs. Sedgwick's statement:

"I had terrible appetite and even the lightest meal soured on my stomach and brought acute distress. Bloating, nausea and severe stomach pains followed every meal. My kidneys were weak and the right side made sleep sometimes out of the question. Constipation kept me sluggish and rundown. My condition improved soon after I began taking Konjola. My appetite and my liver and kidneys began to do their work as they should. I gained in strength and vigor and took on a different meaning. Konjola is a real medicine and I am glad to recommend it."

It is the same glad story whenever this great medicine is put to the test.

Konjola is sold in Indianapolis at the Hook Dependable Drug Store, Illinois and Washington streets—Advertiser.

PLAN NURSES' HOME

Soldiers' Hospital Addition to Be Erected.

Construction of a nurses' home at the United States veterans hospital near Riverside park has been assured by confirmation of a $75,000 appropriation for the building, according to word received by John H. Ale, veterans bureau regional manager.

It is planned to build a two-story brick structure to house thirty nurses. Officials hope to finish the building in time to open it the same year as the hospital, on Nov. 17.

Start of the building was delayed when it was found bids for the 152-bed hospital, work on which is underway, exceeded the $500,000 appropriation.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound as a substitute for castor oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are gentle in their action yet always effective. They help bring about that natural buoyancy and tone which should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimplies a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety percent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.
