

BLouses REGISTER TRIUMPHANT RETURN IN NEW STYLES

Last Year's Suit Given Chic Touch

PARIS, May 7.—After years of neglect, the blouse has effected a triumphant reappearance in the world of fashion this season and its success already is well assured. After all, there is hardly another garment more feminine, alluring, and becoming than a blouse, and most women appreciate these qualities. It is no wonder, therefore, that fashion creators reintroduced it along with more feminine styles. A blouse is a fascinating affair. It works miracles with a last year's suit, contriving to give it a look; it lends a gay, bright touch to a black navy suit and in vivid colors it supplies just that exotic touch stressed in spring fashions. Details of cut, fit, and fabric are the object of just as much study in blouses as in dresses. It is not quite as easy as it looks to find the blouse that will harmonize perfectly with the variety of styles in suits to be seen this year.

In Three Classes Blouses are distinctly classified in three categories this season: sports of informal, semi-formal and very formal. For morning wear there are a number of fabrics to choose from, the most favored being pique, fine wool lace, linen and washing crepes. Pique is used mostly for the vest blouse, with two points coming over the skirt just like a man's vest. Most of all other informal models are made to tuck in the skirt or are gathered into a rather narrow band worn over the skirt. Many of them have short sleeves, but long sleeves are just as good if they are preferred.

Tuck-in Mode Prevails Then come the dainty, sheer and finely worked linen blouses, slightly more formal in character. Extravagant tucking and drawn-thread work are a feature of these, with perhaps a touch of real lace as an edging to a jabot, revers or forming ruffles around a collar and edging sleeves.

Georgette, voile, tulle or nylon, tulle and other sheer silk fabrics are treated much in the same way. Embroidered georgettes, organdies and chiffons are somewhat plainer as far as work is concerned, the fabric being sufficiently ornate in itself.

The tuck-in mode prevails to a large extent in this style of blouse, too. Satin is the favored medium for the very formal models, and the tunic effect is almost general. Tunic length varies from just above the hip-line to nearly reaching the knees, this in many cases being regulated by the length of the coat.

Little Trimming Needed The slim, fitted effect is maintained from the waistline down, and nearly all models are belted or drawn in to define the waistline.

Incarnations, honeycombing and shirtings decorate these models, but most of them depend on original necklines and incrustations for their effectiveness. Usually these tunics are in direct color opposition to the costume, so that little trimming is needed. Patou combines an opaline green satin tunic with a black after-noon tulle and lines the jacket with the same satin.

Worth has a very successful afternoon ensemble which combines an eggshell white satin tunic with black skirt and seven-eighths coat. Sleeves offer a great many interesting details. Some are cut well below the elbow, others are long and tight-fitting from wrist to elbow, then flaring in a semi-balance of leg-of-mutton shape.

Sorority to Meet Alpha chapter, Gamma Delta Alpha sorority, will hold its regular business meeting at 8 Monday night at the Antlers.

Fat Men Make Me Smile

They Probably Never Heard of Kruschen Salts—That's Why the BIG FRONT is Growing Bigger.

When I see a man carrying his burden of abdominal fat I have to smile—I don't smile because he presents a pathetic picture; mind you. Not at all—I smile because he makes me think of the time I was carrying my load of fat—when even my friends called me "the man with the big front."

That was before I learned how easy it is to lose fat—weeks. I got it at Kruschen Salts—a combination of 6 vitalizing salts that impart such glorious activity to the body that fat just simply burns up and is gone—and stays gone.

I wish I could walk right up to every man I see carrying his burden of useless fat—give him a friendly slap on the back and say— "Old man—don't take that offense—once I was as fat as you are, but I lost it all the safe way—the Kruschen way."

No loss fat take one-half teaspoon of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water every morning—don't miss a morning—and don't take them with the idea that they possess reducing qualities in themselves. While your fat is going help to keep it going by cutting out pastry and fatty meats and going light on potatoes, butter, cream and sugar. You'll probably feel better than you have for years—more active, vigorous, ambitious—you'll feel younger.

And best of all, Kruschen Salts costs next to nothing for an 85 cent bottle will last you for a month. Get it at Kruschen's Dependable Drug Stores or any drug store in the world with the understanding that you must be fully satisfied or money back. Millions take this daily health dose.—Advertisement.

'Politics Is Your Field,' Women Told

By Times Special

ANDERSON, Ind., May 7.—An appeal calling women into active participation in affairs of government and politics was sounded by Mrs. Nellie Taylor Ross, former Governor of Wyoming, and at present vice-chairman of the Democratic national committee, in an address here Wednesday at the meeting of the Indiana Democratic Women's Club.

"The technique of politics is something that must be learned, like everything else," said Mrs. Ross. She urged women to throw themselves into the breach for the return of stability in national life as they did during the World War. "Humanitarian service, through the generations," Mrs. Ross said, "has been a leading interest with women. They have organized to establish charitable enterprises of all kinds and have gone up and down the streets begging for funds to keep them going."

Realize Their Power "Women of vision now are beginning to see the possibility of using their political power to establish policies that will lead to the substitution of justice for charity."

"There are hundreds of thousands of women who, now are alive to their duty, earnestly wanting to make their citizenship count for the good of humanity, but they don't know how to make themselves effective."

Scores of Democratic leaders in Indiana, both men and women, attended the meeting. R. E. Peters, Ft. Wayne, was a speaker. "Strides taken by women in politics in recent years indicate their equality with men in leadership and service," he said.

"No factor surpasses in importance the activity of women, and since the last election no group has been more insistent upon a strict accounting from public officials," Peters declared.

Miss May Re-Elected

Preceding the luncheon a business session was held, and new state officers were installed. Miss Emma May, Terre Haute, was re-elected president; Mesdames Curtis Roll, Kokomo, and Mrs. Harry Joyce, Evansville, vice-presidents; Harvey Fisher, Brazil, secretary, and J. S. Bayner, Ft. Wayne, treasurer. Shelbyville, which had forty-seven delegates present, was chosen as the site for the fall meeting.

Among those who attended the meeting were Frank May Jr., secretary of state, and Mrs. May; Mrs. Earl Peters; Mrs. Sam Ralston and Mrs. Edwin Woolen, Indianapolis, and W. P. O'Neill, former Lieutenant-Governor.

Mesdames E. Wayne Esig, James Cunningham, Oscar A. Jose Jr., Ernest R. Sizemore, Lawrence E. Hess, Misses Virginia Connor, Miriam Kinn, Joan Johnson, Elizabeth Kinn, Florence Moore, Juanita Miller, Elizabeth Caroline Kinn, Josephine Likely and Victoria Kers.

—WHAT'S IN FASHION?—

Comfort on Sun Porch Directed By AMOS PARRISH

NEW YORK, May 7.—There's many a husband, well wager, who's going to spend next Saturday afternoon getting the sun porch furniture out of the storage room. And many another will be taken firmly by the hand and led to the nearest store's sun porch furniture department.

Both these ways of spending a Saturday afternoon are good ones. Because the sun porch certainly is an important room of the home just about now.

It has almost all the advantages of living outdoors—and none of the inconveniences. Instead, modern sun porch furniture being what it is—it's one of the most convenient and comfortable places any one can be.

Sturdy Fiber Kind Best

Most of the furniture that's going to spend the summer on the porch will be that sturdy, good-looking fiber furniture upholstered in cretonnes so gay they make you think you're sitting in the middle of a garden.

Three-piece sets are a good way to start if you're getting new sun porch furniture. That means a sofa and two chairs.

It's easy to add to this later. If you want, because there are tables and chairs of many kinds, all of the same general design and construction.

Some folks prefer a glider instead of a sofa. A glider, as you know, is really a sofa-swing, made of metal and canvas. And one of these with two fiber chairs is just as practical a beginning as the sofa set.

A little more expensive than the fiber furniture and just as fashionable—are the pieces made of stick reed, rattan or willow.

Rattan and Willow

Rattan is the name for those large, fat sticks with what appear to be burned spots in them. They're usually bound together with bright stripes of cane.

Willow is smaller sticks. It looks softer than rattan and isn't absolutely straight. And several sticks are bound together to make one.

Reed is the heart of rattan and is usually combined with rattan in this summer furniture.

Reed, rattan and willow furniture tend to modernistic designs. The pieces are low-slung and deep-seated. They look like some of the modernistic metal furniture.

Generally they're upholstered in modern looking fabrics—plain colors.

Stick-Reed Lounge Chair

Modern geometrics or florals, multi-colored basket weaves and frequently in waterproof materials.

Metal Furniture Decorative

Metal furniture made of tube steel or chromium in odd shaped, modern designs is both long-lasting and decorative. It's painted in gay colors or given a bright metallic shine. And much of it is rust-proof.

In addition to these three-piece sets, many sun porches, especially if they're large, can use such pieces as chaise longue or chairs with ottomans.

Tile top tables with wrought iron bases are useful for holding ash trays and glasses. Sometimes these tables have racks at the side to hold flower pots.

Three-Piece Fiber Suite

Whatever you decide on, you're sure to enjoy the comfort and convenience and good looks of this modern furniture.

Mrs. Arlo Kilpatrick to Honor Bride-Elect at Bridge Party

Mrs. Arlo Kilpatrick will entertain with a bridge party tonight at her home, 3715 Boulevard place, in honor of Miss Elizabeth Lindsay, whose marriage to Ferdinand Harry Krentler will take place May 17.

The bride will be presented with complete kitchen equipment. Her colors, shell pink and mint green, will be used in appointments, and the tables at serving time, laid with pink crystal, will be centered with lighted green tapers. Guests with Miss Lindsay and her mother, Mrs. Earl Lindsay, will be:

Mesdames Elizabeth Oon, Harry Ewing, Bessie Krentler, Irving P. Blue, Evelyn DeWese, John Galt, Wallace Jones, G. Schuyler, Blue, A. A. Steinfeld, Lloyd Shiner, Chester Gibson, Misses Wanda Carpenter, Maxine Quinn, Hazel Dickens, Martina Baker and Elsie Null.

Club Will Meet

Program for the luncheon meeting of the Altrusa Club Friday at the Columbia Club is in charge of Miss Mary Meyers, executive secretary of the Marion County Tuberculosis Association. The program subject will concern Child Health week, to be observed next week. Recognition on the program also will be given to Mother's day.

money, or to base one's likes or dislikes upon the condition of a purse.

AND what does it matter, says he, "if you miss the ecstasies of life so long as you have the luxuries?"

Well, it matters a very great deal, as he might find out if he watched the behavior of women who have married for money alone and who spend the rest of their lives seeking what they have missed.

Another flaw in this masculine reasoning lies in the assumption that there are as many rich men in the world as intelligent girls. With happy unconscious, Mr. Lincoln leads us to suppose that wealthy eligibles grow on trees, ready for the plucking, like peaches in a good season.

The smart girl these days knows better. She knows, for instance, that very often poor men become rich ones and rich ones poor ones. She knows also that marriage is not worth two whoops to any woman who is not ready to make sacrifice toward its success.

The true marriages are those in which husband and wife have climbed upward together.

Astonishing

EACH HAIR ACTUALLY AS ROUGH AS A CACTUS!

No wonder you need this special penetrating shampoo to clean your hair thoroughly

Now you know why your hair is often dull and grimy even though freshly shampooed. All the little spines on each individual hair catch the dirt and hold undissolved soap particles.

When these little points are clean they catch the light and make your whole hair shine and glimmer with new life and beauty. Can you be kept clean? Not with ordinary sudsy soaps and shampoos—no. But they can be kept immaculately clean with this marvelous new shampoo.

Because it has fine-bubble lather

Laco Castile Shampoo has been made with a fine-bubble lather just so it would penetrate to the smallest "nook and cranny" of your hair. It removes the tiniest particle of dirt.

Because it is easy rinsing

And then Laco rinses away thoroughly and completely, leaving each hair shining with new life and color. Your scalp tingles with a delightful feeling of cleanliness. Your hair is soft and lustrous, bright with all its natural beauty.

Pure Olive Oil Castile

Laco Liquid Shampoo is as pure and mild as soap can be. Its chief ingredient is pure olive oil Castile—the soap doctors have recommended for generations, especially for children's tender skin.

Get the big extra-large bottle of Laco Shampoo for your favorite toilet goods counter today. You will be delighted to see how soft and shining your hair can be.

Enlist 300 to Cause of Symphony

More than 300 memberships have been received by workers in the membership campaign being conducted by the Indiana State Symphony Society this week, according to reports of team captains and members at the first report meeting today at campaign headquarters, 107 North Pennsylvania street.

Season tickets for the next series of concerts to be given by the Indianapolis Symphony orchestra accompany each membership. A minimum of four concerts has been planned for the second season and may be extended to six, according to program committee members.

Each captain working in the drive has from five to ten workers on her team. Captains, named by Mrs. R. Hartley Sherwood, and who reported this morning, are Mesdames Grace Watson Duckwall, vice-chairman of the membership committee; Stuart Greene, C. A. Searcy, Isadore Kahn, Henry Schurmann, John Paul Ragsdale, Jack Tilson, Verna Palmer Sterling, Robert Falley, G. H. A. Clowes, Theodore B. Griffith, Louis Haarle, Frances B. Hunter, Earl H. Jones, Misses Flora Lyons, Audra Falkemer, Josephine Hull and Gladys Alves.
