

WOMEN CLASH OVER FIGURES IN VOTE TALK

Mrs. Jacob Baur Tosses Challenge at Nellie Tayloe Ross.

By United Press
WASHINGTON, May 8.—Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross, vice-chairman of the Democratic national committee, was accused of "misstatements and misrepresentations" in a statement issued Thursday night by the Republican national committee over the name of Mrs. Jacob Baur, Republican national committeewoman for Illinois.

Mrs. Baur challenged a statement of Mrs. Ross, made this week in a speech at Lima, O., that "504 individuals, according to government records, reported incomes averaging in excess of $2,000,000 a year."

She cited a report of the commissioner of internal revenue to show that 504 persons reported incomes "of a million or over—not two million."

Observers were predicting today that the Baur-Ross episode might rival in the female contingent the widely publicized Fess-Shouse encounter, when Chairman Fess of the Republican national committee accused Executive Chairman Shouse of the Democratic committee of telling "a deliberate falsehood."

In the Fess-Shouse case it developed that Shouse had been misquoted in press reports of his speech. In the case of Mrs. Ross and Mrs. Baur, it was pointed out that Mrs. Baur seemed to be disproving a statement which Mrs. Ross did not make.

It was noted that, while Mrs. Baur correctly quoted Mrs. Ross' speech, her counter-argument used the same figures in a somewhat different way.

Mrs. Ross said incomes of 504 individuals "averaged" in excess of $2,000,000. Mrs. Baur, on the other hand, showed that the incomes of these same 504 fortunes were in excess of one million dollars each, but she did not deal with averages.

Friends of Mrs. Ross said it would be quite possible for 504 persons to have incomes each in excess of a million, and have them average more than $2,000,000 each.

ARMY LASHED FOR 'USELESS' AIR MANEUVERS

Proposed Air Armada Is Subjected to Fierce Verbal Attacks.

By United Press
WASHINGTON, May 8.—The air armada of 672 planes which the army air corps will send swooping on the eastern half of the country late this month has been subjected to a baptism of verbal fire even before taking off.

Opposition to certain phases of the air demonstration has come from national guard units in Maryland and Massachusetts. New Jersey, New York, and California also have raised some question about taking part.

The war department said today, however, that the objections raised by these units had been met and that all would send ships to Dayton, O., to fly in the vast formation. It is estimated that the maneuvers will cost about $3,000,000.

President Hoover has invited war department officials to go to his residence this weekend to discuss possible ways in which the army may curtail expenses and thus help reduce the government's deficit.

Army officers understand that the most strenuous objection to the maneuvers has centered in the Maryland national guard. Letters to the war department from the Maryland unit contended that when 672 planes fly in formation there almost are certain to be crashes and fatalities.

The critics pointed out, also, that the proposed maneuvers would be dangerous to civilians in thickly-populated areas. Demonstrations are planned over New York City, Chicago, Philadelphia, Boston and other centers.

Other objections raised were that the maneuvers would concentrate all flying experience within two weeks, after which the guard units would have no money left for further activities.

TWO DROWNED TRYING TO SAVE DISABLED BLIMP

Army Engineers Resume Efforts to Recover Damaged Ship.

By United Press
LANGLEY FIELD, Va., May 8.—Army air corps engineers prepared to make a second attempt today to save the wreckage of the blimp

TC-10, after two soldiers had perished while trying to tow the disabled craft through the bay to the air base here.

The blimp was damaged badly in a forced landing beside the York river several miles from here late Wednesday night. Thursday, a party of six was sent with a launch to tow the TC-10 back here through the water.

On the way back here a sudden squall came up and one of the two cables by which the blimp was being towed parted. Two of the soldiers were whipped overboard by the broken cable and the lurch of the launch.

They were privates James McDonald, of Natick, Mass., and Oscar J. Bradits, of Shamokin, Pa. Their bodies could not be recovered. The blimp got into trouble Wednesday on its return from Richmond. It had completed a round trip from Richmond to Winchester, Va.
