ESCAPE FEAT SLATED

Hardini to Perform Jacket Act at Downtown Corner.

Saturday's shopping crowds will center their gaze at noon on the roof of Kline's store, Market and Illinois streets, where Hardini, pupil of the late Houdini, is scheduled to escape from a straitjacket while hanging by his heels.

He may be interviewed in the store following the exhibition. Hardini has attained a national reputation as a jail escape wizard and handcuff king.

TWO PRISONERS FLEE JAIL: DROP 3 FLOORS

Guard and Trusty Held Up With Gun; Use Bedsheet Rope.

By United Press
BRIDGEPORT, Conn., May 8.—

Two prisoners, one of them Lieut. William H. Harkins of Memphis, escaped from Fairfield county jail today after holding up a guard and a trusty with a revolver and dropping down a bedsheet rope from the third floor.

Harkins took with him Fred Santos, 17, of Boston, awaiting trial in criminal superior court for alleged theft of an automobile at Stratford. A third prisoner, Joseph Vanderpeer of New York, awaiting trial for

CARTER'S SON IS FREED

Poor Farm Head's Kin Dismissed
on Auto Assault Count.

Charges of assault and battery with an auto against Junior Carter, 17, son of the superintendent of Marion county infirmary, were dismissed by Municipal Judge William H. Sheaffer Thursday. The judge withheld judgment on a charge of driving with faulty brakes.

Carter, driving a borrowed car, struck 14-year-old Margaret Barnady, 322 Cable street, April 16. The girl was injured slightly.

HOUSING FAMINE WORRIES RENO; HUNDREDS OUT

Depression Is One Thing
Not Bothering the
'Wide-Open Town.'

BY EARL H. LEIF
United Press Staff Correspondent

RENO, Nev., May 8.—The sudden influx of gamblers and divorce seekers from all parts of the world attracted by the lure of quick money and quick divorces, brought Reno face to face today with a housing famine.

Reno smiles at thoughts of depression, but is wondering what is going to be done with all the people who have come to town and can't find places to live. A constant procession numbering into the thousands has been swarming to the "biggest little city in the world" since the enactment of wide-open gambling laws and the six-weeks residence law for divorce.

Gamblers, divorce seekers, tourists, "free spenders" and plain unemployed, made up the biggest crowds in Reno's history, bringing unprecedented business activity and prosperity.

And despite $750,000 spent for new housing facilities this year, hotels and apartments are overcrowded and houses are at a premium.

Every vacant room, automobile camp and flat within a radius of twenty miles is filled to overflowing, and it is estimated that at least three hundred persons expected for this week-end will not find accommodations.

The early overflow went to Sparks, three miles away, but soon everything there was taken and tourists had to go thirty miles to the state capital at Carson City for a night's lodging.

Dozens of new gambling casinos have been opened and all the established halls were increased in size. Gigantic signs and boosters make Reno's gambling rialto on Center street and Douglas alley a striking reincarnation of the old west.

ROVING SOLDIER HOME TO PROVE HE'S NOT DEAD

Amazing Adventure Story
Bared by Ex-Officer in Marines.

By United Press
ST. JOSEPH, Mo., May 8.—

Mourning as dead, Arnold Godbey was back home today, telling a strange tale of adventure and trying to prove he was legally alive.

Godbey enlisted in the United States marine corps when he was 16, won the Croix de Guerre, was gassed several times, and became a lieutenant during the World war. Mustered out in 1919, he re-enlisted, but there was no fighting, so he deserted.

The French Foreign Legion promised more adventure, and Godbey enlisted there. In 1926 his batallon engaged the Riffs in French Sudan. Two bayonets were thrust through his body, the camels stampeded, and he was left on the field for dead.

After two years in a French military hospital, he was discharged. He came home on a Spanish freighter, went to Brooklyn and surrendered to marine authorities. His records for bravery won him leniency, a dishonorable discharge to become honorable at the end of six months' good behavior.

Godbey applied for his compensation certificate in the World war to learn he was legally dead. His mother moved to St. Joseph. He came here and today was endeavoring, with his mother's support, to re-establish his true status and claim his estate, which was about to be divided in probate court.
