

SOLDIER LOANS SEEN SPUR TO TRADE IN U. S.

$400,000,000 Poured Into Business Channels by Bonus Act.

By Scripps-Howard Newspaper Alliance
WASHINGTON, May 13.—Approximately $400,000,000 has been placed in circulation since congress liberalized the loan provisions of the bonus act.

This new buying power, some economists feel, was largely responsible for the slight recovery shown in all charts for the latter part of February. Whether it will continue to help is a matter of argument, as is the subject of how the veterans are using this money.

Ralph O'Neill, national commander of the American Legion, insists the funds are going for necessities and to relieve distress. During the debate in the senate, Senator Daniel O. Hastings (Rep., Del.), argued that the ex-soldiers would waste the loans on luxuries, and that the general effect on business would be harmful.

Figures Below Predictions

The exact figures through the week of May 2 show that 1,785,593 have borrowed the 50 per cent authorized in the recent act, the total of such loans reaching $680,021,000. Since the amount that could be borrowed previously was only 22.5 per cent, $400,000,000 is a fair estimate of new borrowings.

This is far below the figures predicted by President Hoover and Secretary Mellon when they were trying to defeat the bill. It is several hundred millions short of the estimates of congressional sponsors of the measure, who predicted a total cost of between $500,000,000 and $750,000,000.

Applications Dwindle

The total borrowed since loans became available several years ago is $1,024,502,000, advanced on 4,065,293 applications. In many cases one veteran has made several applications. He may have borrowed first when the loan was limited to 8 per cent of the face value, applied again when it was raised to 22.5 per cent, and still a third time when it reached the maximum of 50 per cent.

Applications have dwindled from about 61,000 a week early in April to around 12,000, but business is still fairly brisk. More than 123,000 applications were acted on in the week ending May 2.

Full Bonus Is Aim

Next session of congress will see a bill introduced to pay the other half of the bonus to World war veterans and cancel all interest on present loans. Herman W. Weimer, national commander of the Disabled American Veterans, told members of the local post at the Lincoln on Tuesday night.

Defending the bonus already made, Weimer declared that most of the money went to pay debts and purchase necessities. Answering the charge that bonus money was spent for gambling and liquor, he said:

"Only a small percentage did this. But what of it? Who rates it any better than they do?"

National weeklies of large circulation are engaged in trying to thwart adequate provision for the disabled and their dependents, Weimer charged.

Robert B. Schuyler is commander of the Dr. W. C. Worthington chapter, under whose auspices the meeting was held.

TWO CAUGHT BY COPS AS FUGITIVE BANDITS

Fair Is Held After Driving Alleged Stolen Auto to Cumberland.

Two men are held on vagrancy and fugitive from justice charges today by police. They are charged with stealing an auto in Huntington, W. Va., Sunday night and driving to Cumberland, Ind., where they are alleged to have planned several robberies.

William Boll, alias Jack Langley, 22, of Portsmouth, O., and Arthur Smith, Charleston, W. Va., were arrested after Boll is alleged to have threatened to kill Smith after differences over purported holdups.

Both men, authorities said, confessed the auto theft and Boll has admitted robbing a filling station there, it is claimed.

AIMEE WRITES ORATORIO FOR GOSPEL GROUP

Biblical Allegory Will Be Presented at Temple in Los Angeles.

By United Press
NEW YORK, May 13.—Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson, compounder of the Four-Square gospel, is creating another inspirational work for her Angelus temple flock—a "biblical allegorical plan in seven scenes."

Despite the loss of thirty pounds during her trip around the world, which ended here Tuesday, the auburn-haired evangelist is applying herself tirelessly to the new opus, which she believes will be one of the most stuporous ever staged at the Los Angeles tabernacle.

Mrs. McPherson was inspired on the last stretch of her long voyage—that from Marseilles to New York—and began writing while the manager of Angelus temple, Fred C. Winters, described as an "oratorio."

Calls Work an "Oratorio"

She is doing the work in collaboration with C. W. Walker Jr. of Kansas City, her musical director, who accompanied her on the voyage.

Among the subjects dealt with in the McPherson-Walkers production are Elijah's adventures and the voyage of Noah and his ark during the voyage. Mrs. McPherson acquired a son-in-law, who has joined the ranks of the unemployed.

Just before the Dollar liner President Wilson sailed from San Francisco, William Bradley Smyth, the purser, was instructed to pay particular attention to the McPherson party.

Son-In-Law Out of Job

He followed instructions closely and when the ship reached Singapore Smyth married Roberta Semple, Mrs. McPherson's daughter.

At Marseilles he resigned as purser of the President Wilson and the party left the boat. They took the next Dollar liner, the President Garfield, to this country.

Smyth, who is 24, and his bride plan to visit his mother at Tenafly, N. J., before he seeks another job.

CHICAGO HOME

Drive Alleged Beer Runner
Into Police Net.

By United Press

CHICAGO, May 13.—While all Chicago celebrated today over "the end of gang rule" and the return of prosperity, police questioned James L. Quigley in an effort to learn why gangsters terrorized a southside neighborhood by spraying the Quigley home with machine gun bullets three times within as many hours.

Quigley was said by police to be a beer runner of the Edward (Spike) O'Donnell gang.

He made no report when enemy gangsters first rode past his house Tuesday night and fired a round of shots through his windows.

When the gang returned an hour later and repeated the attack, Quigley called police. Officers took him to jail.

While he was there his family called up to report that the gang had passed again and again had sprayed the house with lead.

The medal was designed by the distinguished Chicago artist, Arthur S. Thayer. The name of the dog and date of the award will be engraved on the panel at the bottom. On the back will be inscribed the story of the deed for which it was awarded.

Presentation of the medal to the dog or its owner will be made at a public ceremony in whatever city in the state the four-footed hero lives. The first medal will be awarded Dec. 1.

Send your accounts of dogs' heroic feats to The Indianapolis Times, a special Hall of Fame, however, restricted to canines.

The national organization, with The Times co-operating, will award bronze medals, suitably engraved, twice annually to the Indiana dog performing the most heroic and intelligent acts during the preceding six months.

Dogs Often Heroes

"Seldom a week passes," said Clarence E. Richard, Chicago, managing director of the National Anti-Vivisection Society, "that we do not read in the newspapers of where a dog has rescued a child, awakened sleeping occupants of a burning building, fought off bandits, or in some other way performed intelligent and heroic service, which, if done by a human being, might live now and take to their rightful places in the Hall of Fame, a special Hall of Fame, however, restricted to canines."

Where is Indiana's most heroic dog?

The Indianapolis Times and the National Anti-Vivisection Society want to know so they can present him—or her—with a medal.

Those unsung heroes—dogs which hesitatingly entered a burning building and often lost them that a human being might live now are awarded Dec. 1.
