

TWO ARE DEAD AS RESULT OF AUTO CRASHES

Year's Traffic Fatality List
Is Boosted to 73 Over
Week-End.

Death of two persons injured in accidents Friday raised the year's traffic fatality list to seventy-three over the week-end when thousands of out-of-town autos jammed city streets here.

Donald McConnell, Lafayette high school basketball star, died Saturday night from injuries suffered when two automobiles and two trucks crashed in State Road 52, three miles north of Flackville Friday night.

His was the second death resultant from the collision. Joseph Reitenrath, also of Lafayette, driver of one auto, died Saturday morning. Earl Huff, 17, of 524 West Morris street, injured Friday in an accident at State road 37 and Southport road, died Sunday in city hospital. Huff's skull was fractured when the car in which he was riding, driven by Francis Echart, 1141 South Senate avenue, crashed with another auto.

Funeral services will be held for Huff at 8:30 Thursday morning at the home and at 9 at St. John's church, with burial in Holy Cross cemetery. His mother, Mrs. Cecelia Huff, and a sister, Miss Charlotte Huff, survive him.

Joe Deutrich, 25, of 2010 Maple street, was near death today after having been knocked from his bicycle by a hit-and-run driver on U. S. 31, two miles south of Southport, Sunday night.

He was found lying beside the bicycle, suffering from brain concussion and severe cuts. Persons injured in week-end accidents included:

Miss Mary E. Bach, Bloomington; Miss Margaret Bach, Frankfort, and W. R. Rinsinger, Franklin, cut and bruised in collision at Kessler boulevard and State road 52 Sunday.

Mrs. Molly Chance, 55, of R. R. 7, Box 45, cut and bruised in collision in 2600 block West Washington street, Sunday.

Miss Margaret Burries, 15, of Franklin, and Miss Mary Hammer, 16, of 2116 North Talbot street, minor injuries in collision Sunday at St. Joseph and Meridian streets.

Eugene Malone, 24, Negro, 1731 Columbia avenue, cut on face in collision at Capitol avenue and Merrill street Sunday.

NAB TWO YOUTHS ON AUTO THEFT CHARGE

"Casual" Ride of Pair Halted by Police Squad on West Side.

Two youths motored casually on west side streets early today, three bottles of milk and a loaf of bread between them on the front seat.

To the ordinary passerby they were just a couple of 16-year-olds who had driven to a grocery for breakfast supplies.

But to motor patrolmen Charles Felton and O. B. McClain the youths were the objects of their search. At Haugh and Michigan streets, one of the officers trained a shotgun on the two boys and forced them to stop.

They had made the mistake of taking an auto from the garage of C. E. Spill, 721 West Thirty-first street, police alleged. They are charged with vehicle taking.

The new naval cruiser Louisville rescued the passengers and brought them safely to Los Angeles harbor Saturday night.

Visits City in Autogiro

Continuing her leisurely transcontinental experimental flight in a Pitcairn autogiro, a plane which lands almost vertically, Miss Amelia Earhart, trans-Atlantic flier, left Curtis-Wright hangar at the Mays Hill airport Sunday for Des Moines.

Miss Earhart landed here Saturday afternoon after a hop from Dayton, O. Her flight is being made to test possibilities of the autogiro type of plane with its "windmill" revolving overhead.

Her autogiro was the second seen in Indianapolis, the first being the Detroit News autogiro which arrived in time to perform for Speedway race fans.

When the welcoming committee reached the private railroad car in which the New York Governor arrived at 7:20 a. m. Sunday, Roosevelt, who had been ill, was in bed and his aids refused to awaken him.

Sadly these leaders in Hoover democracy returned to the Indianapolis Athletic Club to eat a carefully prepared breakfast, with scarcely any appetite.

Barrett was put on the pan. Several vowed they were going to throw all their strength (one vote) to either Newton D. Baker or Owen Young, and all that was needed was "Hearts and Flowers" played in a minor key by a long-haired violinist as the theme song.

But then came the break for Governor George H. Dern of Utah who was escorted in. He talked politics plainly and without enveloping the subject in ambiguity or disguising his meanings.

Every one enjoyed it and there immediately was talk of nominating Dern for Vice-President.

It is interesting to remember that at a meeting of Democratic state leaders Friday the question of a breakfast to Roosevelt was brought up and immediately thumbed down on the ground that at least two other aspirants for the Democratic presidential nomination were here, and it would be in the poorest taste if a breakfast was given to the New York executive and Ritchie of Maryland and White of Ohio were ignored.

But Barrett rushed in where the others were afraid to tread. Those who sacrificed their usual Sunday slumbers to honor the New York Governor were Meredith Nicholson, Evans Woolen, Carleton B. McCulloch, Judge James Gavin, R. Earl Peters, Democratic state chairman; Judge Frank P. Baker, prosecutor Herbert E. Wilson, L. Ert Slack and Henry O. Goetz, city clerk.

Oh, yes! At 10 a. m. the group went to Roosevelt's special car, where they were introduced, and Fred Barrett said that "all Indiana is for you, Governor."

Arrested by Lafayette police after they are alleged to have been armed and in possession of a large amount of money, Indianapolis authorities today prepared to return two men to this city.

According to information received here they gave their names as William (Alabam) Givington, 26, of 3550 Rockville road, and William Spoon, 26, who gave three local addresses.

Lafayette police said the men had $272 in a Joliet (Ill.) National bank sack found in their possession, in addition to a .45 automatic pistol and a rifle. They also are alleged to have had other money in coin wrappers of the Fletcher Trust Company.

Ideas.

Indianapolis boys and girls, under 14 years, have only two days after today to enter the city recreation department letter contest in competition for prizes totaling $30. The contest closes at midnight Wednesday.

The prizes will be awarded for the best letters telling what the children think could be done to make the city's forty-six municipal playgrounds most useful and enjoyable.

Should Discuss Games

In writing letters, children should tell which playground is nearest their homes, which games or activities they prefer and whether or not they should like to have instructors teach major athletics, handcraft, music, drama and pageantry, story telling, sand craft and similar courses. Also they should state preference of apparatus or equipment.

Letters must not be longer than 300 words and must be written on one side of the paper only. Neatness, punctuation and spelling will be considered by judges. First, second and third prizes will be $10, $5 and $2, boys and girls receiving separate prizes. The prizes were contributed by A. C. Sallee, park superintendent.

Devised by Sallee

The contest was devised by Sallee to obtain the children's viewpoint on playgrounds in order to make the playground attractive to the greatest number of children.

Judges will be Lieutenant Frank Owen, playgrounds safety director; H. W. Middlesworth, city recreation director; and representatives of the three daily papers.

Letters should be addressed to Playground Contest Editor, 303 City Hall, and must be postmarked before midnight Wednesday to be accepted.

MEYER-KISER BANK IN DIRECTORS' HANDS

Voluntary Liquidation Is Permitted by State Officials.

Return of the recently closed Meyer-Kiser bank to the directors for voluntary liquidation has been announced by Luther F. Symons, state banking commissioner.

Survey of the books of the institution and appraisals by responsible Indianapolis bankers have revealed that the assets of the bank have a fair value, provided they are liquidated in an economical and orderly manner over a reasonable length of time, a statement from liquidating agents declared.

Assets, if handled in this manner, are largely in excess of the liabilities shown in the inventory, the statement said.

Liquidating Agents' Named

J. J. Kiser, Fred D. Meyer and M. S. Cohn were named as liquidating agents at a meeting of the directors May 23.

The liquidating agents' statement in part declared:

The decision of the state banking department was reached after numerous letters were received from depositors, stockholders and other banking interests in Indianapolis having dependable information as to the solvency of the institution, urging that the bank be liquidated in this fashion, as all parties interested seemed to feel that the men familiar with the affairs of the bank would be in a better position to liquidate the bank's assets than parties not familiar, and at the same time that the liquidation could be accomplished at a minimum expense.

No Longer Take Deposits

"As a result of this plan, while the bank will no longer receive deposits, in order to preserve good will and thus aid in final liquidation, it will continue its investment, insurance, real estate, rental and safe deposit departments and will also continue to act in its capacity of trustee, registrar and transfer agent."

"It is expected that the earnings from these departments should more than offset all expenses of liquidation and add to the funds to be paid to depositors and creditors."

"The liquidating agents feel that with the return of business conditions to normal the assets can be liquidated with reasonable promptness and all depositors and creditors paid in full."

Ask for Co-Operation

"The liquidating agents are asking for the co-operation of the many friends of the bank, which should be of material assistance to the liquidators in declaring dividends to the depositors and creditors as rapidly as possible."

"The officers of the banks expect to stay with the bank, not only to protect its depositors and creditors, but also to look after the interests of the holders of millions of dollars' worth of securities which have been sold through the bank, and which, in their opinion, in the vast majority of instances are perfectly good, and they want to urge all holders of such securities not to sacrifice the same, but liquidate them for complete information about their holdings before taking any action in regard thereto."

RACER'S WHEEL CRUSHES BOY, 11

Tragedy Result of Crash of Billy Arnold's Car.

Spun like a huge discus over two trees, a wheel from Billy Arnold's racing car Saturday brought real tragedy to the annual 500-mile race at Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

It crushed 11-year-old Wilbur Brink, sitting in the rear of a lunch stand erected by his father, Harvey Brink, 2316 Georgetown road, killing him almost instantly.

The accident happened when Arnold's car threw the wheel on the northwest turn while the driver was far in the lead of other cars on the track.

Luther Johnson's machine crashed into Arnold's, injuring the young winner of the 1930 race, and piling both cars in a scrambled heap.

Funeral services for the boy will be held at 2 Tuesday afternoon at Speedway Christian church, with burial in Crown Hill cemetery. He is survived by three brothers and two sisters, together with his parents.
