BRIDE IS SHOT AIDING MATE IN BURGLARY

Girl in Serious Condition,
Wounded by Owner of Lizton Store.

DRIVEN BY POVERTY

Pair Forced to Crime by Need, Husband Tells Police Here.

Driven by poverty beyond the law for a livelihood, a pretty, 20-year-old bride was wounded seriously early today, fleeing from a general store in Lizton in which she and her husband were surprised at robbery by the owner.

She rode more than four hours with her husband in a stolen automobile with forty shotgun pellets in her body before she received medical attention. At city hospital, physicians fear tetanus may develop.

The bride is Mrs. Rozie McCreary, whose parents live in Jamestown, and who March 30 married James R. McCreary, then living at 107 West Tenth street.

Man Also Wounded

McCreary, who admits entering the store, but who insists his wife is innocent of any crime, also was wounded when Sol Ellis, 65, proprietor, ran from his house across the street about 1 a. m. and opened fire on the couple as they clambered into the stolen coupe.

At 5 this morning McCreary beat at the door of Dr. Joseph L. Storey, 1832 Central avenue, and begged medical aid for his wife, who, he said, had been hurt badly in an accident.

After Dr. Storey treated her at his office, 3415 North Illinois street, he slipped to a telephone and called police. Lieutenant Marshall Van Sickle's squad took McCreary into custody and sent Mrs. McCreary to the hospital, where she is charged with vagrancy.

McCreary had a story ready when police first questioned him, and it was substantiated by his young wife.

Tries to Shield Wife

Out of work for many weeks, he said, they have been forced to live in the automobile. Early today they drove into a small lane near University Heights to park for the night, and suddenly some one shot at them, he told Lieutenant Van Sickle.

Taken to the scene he described, McCreary broke down when police pointed out that no car had been driven in there during the night. He confessed the robbery, but said his wife stayed in the car while he went into the store, and was shot while trying to help him into the machine, after Ellis' shout to his son announced discovery of the robbery attempt.

When he opened his store for business this morning, Ellis did not know how true his aim had been, and when he learned a woman had been his quarry, his anger melted into sympathy.

Sorry Woman Is Wounded

"I hate that," he said. "I hope she will get well—but they should have stayed at home."

He said when he was aroused this morning he saw two persons in the store with flashlights. He called to his son Lyman, 25, only recently out of a hospital after a serious operation, picked up the shotgun, and ran into the street.

He saw two forms crowding into the car and from a distance of a hundred feet took hasty aim and fired. The son shot twice with a revolver as the car drove away.

Holding the couple on vagrancy charges pending investigation and almost certain relating, police began investigation of the stolen car. It had been reported missing in January, was found almost at once, and never had been reported stolen again.

EXILED HEDJAZ KING IS DEAD

Hussein Will Be Buried in Jerusalem Tomb.

LONDON, June 4.—An Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Assam today said Hussein, exiled king of Hedjaz, Arabia, died at dawn.

King Hussein, at one time one of the most powerful potentates in the near east, long had been ill.

Two of Hussein's sons were at his bedside when he died, the Exchange Telegraph report said. They were former King Ali and Emir Zeid, the eldest and youngest of the old monarch's offspring.

King Feisal of Iraq had returned to Bagdad the day before, believing his father would recover.

The funeral cortege proceeded to Jerusalem shortly after Hussein's death, the dispatch said. Hussein will be buried at Jerusalem, according to present plans.

Hussein, Ibn Ali of the Hedjaz, once a proud monarch and the father of three kings, died an embittered old man. He lived in Cyprus for most of the six years after his exile from his country in 1925, where he was in bad health much of the time.

EXTEND STORE KILLERS HUNT ACROSS STATE

300 Indiana Police Chiefs and Sheriffs Asked to Help Capture Gunmen.

CITIZENS' AID SOUGHT

Lafayette Jackson, Chain
Store Owner, Shot Eight Days Ago.

Through underworld haunts today, detectives sought two men suspected as slayers of Lafayette A. Jackson, wealthy owner of the Standard Grocery chain.

At the same time 300 police chiefs and sheriffs and the entire citizenry of the state were asked by Indianapolis authorities to aid in the search for two gunmen who fatally shot the grocer executive in a hold-up attempt May 27.

At least one of the bandits, and probably both, were wounded in their battle with Jackson and three detectives, police believe.

One May Have Been Slain

One of the killers is thought to have been shot in the neck, and may have been wounded mortally, Gangster fashion, Major Herbert Fletcher, acting police chief, has theorized, the body may have been thrown into some out of the way place as the others escaped.

Search of woods and valleys throughout the state was included in Major Fletcher's request to police in other cities for co-operation in the man hunt.

For information leading to arrest and conviction of the murderers, rewards totaling $3,100 have been offered by The Times and friends and business associates of Mr. Jackson.

Several Inspectors Held

Of the pair sought here today one, an ex-convict, is said to parallel in description one of the two gunmen who staged the battle in the store, detectives said.

Of several suspects under arrest since the shooting, none has been identified by employees of the firm, and Chester Jackson, son of the dead man, who were in the store during the fight.

Throughout the country Indianapolis police have broadcast the following descriptions of the slayers:

No. 1 Twenty-five to 30 years old; 5 feet 5 inches in height; weighing from 120 to 140 pounds; long nose; hollow cheeks which give the appearance of being either a narcotic addict or an anemic; wearing a brown suit with a stripe; long gray overcoat and soft brown hat pulled down over his eyes.

Third Man Also Sought

No. 2 Twenty to 30 years old; 5 feet 10 inches in height; weighing 165 pounds with dark hair; medium complexion; dark eyes; wearing dark suit and neatly dressed.

A third man also believed to be a member of the gang and who was seen around the store a few moments before the attempted robbery was described as being from 28 to 30 years old, 5 feet 5 inches in height, weighing from 145 to 150 pounds; dark complexion and wearing a light brown suit and stiff-brimmed straw hat.

CONFESSES HE HAD NO DERBY POOL TICKET

Ship Officer's Admission Clears Tangle
Over $145,000.

LONDON, June 4.—Overenthusiasm led Joseph Kennedy, a member of the crew of the steamer American Banker, to announce that he had drawn a ticket on Cameronian in the Irish sweepstakes on the English lines, officials of the United States said today.

It was explained that Kennedy was over-eager to celebrate when he read of the drawing of a ticket by a Boston man with a name and address similar to his.

The Kennedy of the American Banker is a white man, not a Negro, as erroneously reported at first. The Boston Kennedy who drew the ticket is a Negro.

SCHOOL BOY, 7, IS INJURED BY TRUCK

A truck driver, who police say passed a street car at reckless speed while passengers were being discharged, was arrested this afternoon after his truck hit a 7-year-old school boy on his way home to luncheon.

The child, Frank Barrett, son of Mrs. Hazel Barrett, 1135 East Washington street, was taken to city hospital with critical injuries. His right leg was fractured and his forehead badly gashed, but he did not lose consciousness.

The accident occurred at East Washington street and Highland avenue as the street car motorman, not knowing a truck was approaching from the rear too fast to stop, motioned the youngster to cross the street.

Witnesses said Arthur Schwengert, 19, of 1331 McKim street, driving the West Baking Company truck, skidded forty feet in a futile effort to avoid hitting the child. Motor policemen Tony De Barr and C. O. Johnson charged him with reckless driving, passing a street car, and driving without a chauffeur's license. Frank is a pupil in School 14.

DRY AGENTS STIR SOUTH BEND'S IRE

SOUTH BEND, Ind., June 4.—Battle lines for a fight to the finish over prohibition were being drawn here today as the outgrowth of charges that federal dry agents used "brutal, cossack methods" in conducting a raid at a South Bend home.

District Attorney Oliver M. Loomis, replying to the charges, said that the government "would not be intimidated by mobs and that raids would be conducted, even if an army of agents had to be used."

The Kosciuszko Civic Club held a protest meeting on the west side of South Bend at which it was alleged that violence by raiders had contributed to the death of Anselm Przybyz, brother of the dead man.

It asked Colonel J. E. Herbert, Chicago, regional director, to investigate actions of the agents, who said their work was hampered by a mob which threw stones at them.

The club charged that agents used illegal methods and that Thomas Scott, one of the raiders, was drunk and fought with Atopius Przybyz, brother of the dead man.

Other officers of the organization were re-elected. They are: E. A. Kahn of the Peoples Outfitting Company, vice-president; George Vonnegut, Vonnegut Hardware Company, secretary; F. D. Skalaker, president of the Indiana National bank, treasurer, and W. E. Balch, manager.

Directors of the association include the officers and Frederic M. Ayres of L. S. Ayres & Co.; M. S. Block of William H. Block Company; Albert S. Goldstein of Goldstein Bros., Inc.; C. A. Taylor of Taylor, Inc., and Albert Zoller of Charles Mayer & Co.

BABY TO STAY HOME WITH NURSE

Course Expected to Follow That Traced by U. S. Army Fleet in Its Round-the-World Adventure.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Charles A. Lindbergh, who won fame four years ago by making the first nonstop flight across the Atlantic, is making plans to fly across the Pacific with his wife and tour Japan and China, it was learned today at the state department.

Lindbergh outlined his plans today to the state department, explaining he would cross the Pacific by easy stages, avoiding a long over-water flight. His definite route has not been worked out, but he is expected to follow the northern route. Lindbergh told Undersecretary of State William R. Castle that he expected to use the low wing monoplane in which he established a speed record across the United States. It will be equipped with pontoons.

Lindbergh came here Wednesday and discussed his flight plans at a luncheon with Castle. He called the under secretary by telephone from New York early today and amplified the plans he had outlined earlier.

The flier asked Castle to make known his plans. Lindbergh emphasized his desire to make the trip purely for pleasure, and said he would proceed cautiously to avoid exposing Mrs. Lindbergh to danger.

He expects to leave the United States within a month and to spend about three weeks flying through Japan and China. His plans became known today when he requested the state department to secure permission for him to fly over foreign territories.

The state department said should Lindbergh find it necessary to fly over land on Siberian territory, he would have to secure permission directly from the Soviet government, due to lack of diplomatic relations with that country.

Must Get Soviet O. K.

Aviators seeking similar permission in the past have made application through the Air Corps Trading Company of New York or the Soviet Information bureau here.

Lindbergh has not yet determined, he told Castle, whether he will return from the Orient by boat or plane. Many details of the trip, he explained, remain to be worked out.

In taking Mrs. Lindbergh, the former Ann Morrow, daughter of Senator Dwight Morrow of New Jersey, Lindbergh will have a companion who is a skilled aviator. Ever since the pair married, Mrs. Lindbergh has flown with her husband and recently received a pilot's license in her own right.

Trip for Adventure

State department officials emphasized that the tour had no official significance, being merely an adventurous pleasure trip for the personal enjoyment of the Lindberghs.

The jaunt will be the third international tour the flying colonel has made since he came into the spotlight four years ago by spanning the Atlantic alone in his Spirit of St. Louis.

Following that famous journey, he flew to Mexico and later on a good-will trip around Central and South American countries.

Officials of the Soviet information bureau told the United Press that Lindbergh will have no difficulty obtaining authorization if he chooses to fly or land on Soviet territory.

Welcome in Russia

They said that the bureau has received no application for such permission, but that three permits to American fliers projecting flight across Soviet territories had been granted within the last month.

The Soviet bureau informally expressed the view that Soviet Russia would be delighted if Lindbergh flew to Soviet territory. They said that Soviet aviators have a great admiration for Lindbergh.

It was recalled that when the "Land of the Soviets" plane arrived at New York in November, 1929, Lindbergh was at Curtis field to greet pilot Semyon A. Shesakov, leader of the expedition, and his three companions.

His cordiality and friendly interest at that time was appreciated greatly in Soviet Russia, it was said. Lindbergh's infant son will remain in this country while its parents fly to the Orient, either in care

STICKERS AID LAW

Motorists Fast Learning
New Traffic Code.

Police warning stickers being placed on cars improperly parked under the new traffic ordinance, to be enforced Monday, are proving highly effective in winning obedience from motorists, Police Captain Lewis Johnson said today.

The warning stickers, coupled with newspaper stories explaining provisions of the ordinance, have resulted in 100 per cent improvement in traffic congestion, Johnson said.

"Alleys were cleaner of parked cars this morning than ever before in my recollection," he asserted.

"At 8 a. m. today there were few cars parked in the downtown area, which will be forbidden territory for parking between 7 and 9:15 a. m., starting Monday.

Starting Monday police will order all cars improperly parked to be impounded, motorists being charged from $3 to $3.50 to recover their cars.
