

REVISE YOUNG PLAN, GERMAN CHIEFS DEMAND

Nation 'at End of Rope,' Important Manifesto Makes Clear.

By FREDERICK KUH
United Press Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, June 6.—The government's first official pronouncement that the Young plan must be revised was issued today.

A manifesto, supplementing President Paul von Hindenburg's dictatorial decree drastically reducing government expenditures, declared that the reparations no longer can be paid out of foreign loans, as heretofore.

The presidential decree provided that the Reich's railways finance a gigantic project calling for the expenditure of about $50,000,000. It was estimated that this would help relieve unemployment, providing jobs for 120,000 persons.

Will Aid Unemployment

The government, in a broad move to counteract the sharp salary reductions provided for in the decree, will introduce a 44-hour week in all its own workshops in the railways. This was expected to offer employment to thousands.

Power to impose a 40-hour week in private industrial concerns also was provided in the momentous decree. However, it is understood the President does not intend to use this power at present.

The manifesto, regarded as one of the most vital documents issued since the close of the World war, pleaded for reduction of the reparations payments.

"We Have Done Utmost"

"We have done our utmost to meet the obligations arising from the last war," said one passage. "To this end, we also took extensive advantage of foreign help."

"This no longer is possible. Harnessing all our forces and reserves of the entire population gives the German government the right and obliges it to proclaim to the world 'the limit of the privations we can impose on our people has been reached.'"

The manifesto said the benefits which the Young plan, signed in May a year ago, had been expected to bring Germany had "failed to materialize."

"Commands Imperative Relief"

"The assumptions on which the Young plan was created have proved false, owing to world developments," it said. "The alleviations which the Young plan intended and promised to bring to the German people have failed to materialize."

"The government now is aware that the extremely menacing economic and financial position of the Reich imperatively commands relief from Germany from the intolerable reparations burdens. The world's economic recovery also depends on this relief."

The manifesto was signed only by the ministry headed by Chancellor Heinrich Brüning. It was issued supplementing President von Hindenburg's decree, but was not issued jointly with the chief executive's document.

Workers Are Affected

Workers and middle class families were chiefly affected by the dictatorial decree enforcing new government economies in an effort to meet a tattered deficit in the budget. The decree tended to shield big employers and others of wealth, chiefly because the government is eager to prevent an outpouring capital from the country.

Plead With England

LONDON, June 6.—A plea for revision of the Young plan for reparations payments was anticipated as the Anglo-German conversations opened at Chequers today.

Chancellor Heinrich Brüning of Germany and Dr. Julius Curtius, his foreign minister, presented their case in an effort to convince Premier J. Ramsay MacDonald and Arthur Henderson, foreign secretary, that a reduction in reparations payments is "desperately necessary" to the economic and political stability of Germany.

"Radicalism is growing in Germany," Chancellor Brüning said on arrival from Berlin. "It is not possible for us to solve our economic troubles single-handed. The solution will require the friendly co-operation of the entire world."

HIGHER EDUCATION IS NEW BUSINESS

Statistics Cited to Show Educational Schools Most Popular of All.

By United Press

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 6.—Higher education was termed the new business in the newest and most vital phase by Dr. E. H. Lindley, chancellor of the University of Kansas, in addressing 400 professional men here.

He supported his assertion with the citation of statistics to show that educational institutions of the United States have enrolled more students—approximately a million—than do the schools of all other countries.

Annual budgets of many of the larger institutions now exceed $10,000,000, Dr. Lindley said in supporting his idea of the "bigness" of education as a business.

It's "as easy as falling off a log" to use this nifty new "armchair parachute" for passengers in cabin airplanes. The chute is attached to the seat and all the wearer needs to do is jump from the plane when danger threatens and float to earth in a sitting posture—at least, that's the theory. Josephine Forbes is shown above as she demonstrated the new device at the National Aircraft show at Detroit.

PLAYLOT EVENT NEAR DEADLINE

Children Have Few Hours to Send Letters.

Children, 14 or under, today had only a few hours remaining in which to enter the city playground suggestion contest, which will close at midnight tonight.

A number of last minute entries were expected by the judges. Letters must be postmarked not later than midnight tonight to be eligible for consideration for one of the six cash prizes totaling $30.

All that is required is to write a letter of not more than 300 words telling how to make the playgrounds more useful and enjoyable for boys and girls this summer. Writers should tell what forms of recreation they enjoy most, and also what kind of apparatus they prefer, naming the playground nearest their homes.

Letters should be addressed to Playground Contest Editor, Room 303, City Hall.

PANTAGES ACCUSED

Girl, 17, Tells Court of San Diego Party.

By United Press

SAN DIEGO, Cal., June 6.—The story of a party in a local hotel at which a 17-year-old girl testified that she had been sexually abused by Alexander Pantages and three others on morals charges, will be attacked by defense attorneys when the hearing resumes Monday.

Miss Nitto, 17, cried as she told the story of the party at the hotel, which she said she had attended alone with Pantages. She faintly said she refused advances of the wealthy theater man, but admitted an incident occurred which led to the filing of delinquency charges against Pantages.

AL SMITH MAY BE 'POWER' IN PRESIDENT RACE

Single Word May Decide Democrat Candidate for White House.

By RAYMOND CLAPPER
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Republican's virtually are confident their opponent in the presidential campaign next year will be Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, New York. Democrats, on the other hand, are more in doubt.

Roosevelt appears the most conspicuous candidate at the moment, but the line of rival candidates is beginning to form on the right.

Senator James Hamilton Lewis of Illinois, the most independent figure, sartorially and rhetorically, in public life, has been endorsed as the favorite son of Illinois by Mayor Cermak's powerful organization in Chicago.

Governor Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland has the endorsement of the Maryland legislature, and his friends are at work in other states. He stepped aside for Alfred E. Smith in 1928, but this year he intends to stay in.

Both Ritchie and Lewis are for repeal of the eighteenth amendment, as is Roosevelt.

In addition, Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas, vice-presidential candidate with Smith three years ago, is expected to be an earnest contender.

Governor Harry F. Byrd of Virginia may be the favorite son of his state. His main object is to prevent a prohibition repeal plank in the next national platform.

Byrd Led in Rebellion

He was one of the leaders in the rebellion at the Democratic national committee meeting here last spring, when Chairman John J. Raskob was challenged openly in his attempt to put the committee on the anti-prohibition side.

Ohio has several possibilities—Governor George White, former Governor James M. Cox, presidential candidate in 1920, and Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war.

Baker is most talked of nationally of the three, though Cox made a strong impression when he pleaded for harmony between northern anti-prohibitionists and southern drys at the recent Democratic national committee meeting.

But towering in the background as the figures upon whom much Democratic history will depend are former Governor Alfred E. Smith and Owen D. Young.

Smith Is Big Factor

Having drawn the largest vote ever for a Democrat, Smith, though now a man of large business affairs and ostensibly out of politics, remains a factor for the simple reason that tremendous numbers of persons will do what he advises.

If he wants to run, himself, he will have the instant support of powerful groups and leaders.

If he recommends Roosevelt that will throw a tremendous strength to the Governor. Smith smiles mysteriously when asked about his plans.

Owen D. Young is another unknown quantity. He has the respect and confidence of many influential persons in the Democratic party, among business men generally, and his position as chairman of the board of General Electric makes him one of the powerful Morgan hierarchy, which is both an asset and a liability in politics.

WAR MOTHERS WILL TOUR BATTLEFIELDS

U. S. Gold Star Contingent to See Scenes of World Conflict.

By United Press

PARIS, June 6.—Another contingent of Gold Star mothers from the United States was in Paris Friday, ready for a tour of the cemeteries and battlefields as guests of the United States government.

A dramatic incident occurred on their arrival at Cherbourg Thursday night aboard the liner Roosevelt.

Mrs. Emily Kennedy of Philadelphia was embraced at the dock by Herman Weismuller, a son born of her first marriage. She had not seen him for thirty-two years.

Weismuller served in the German army during the World war. Another son, John Kennedy, died on American transport while on his way to France in the American expeditionary force.

THOSE EYES, THOSE LIPS—! Hard to Beat This Pair for Beauty

There is the third of four stories on "The Six Most Beautiful Women of the Talkies," selected for The Times and NEA Service by six famous Hollywood directors.

By DAN THOMAS
NEA Service Writer

HOLLYWOOD, June 6.—Just a few years ago a young and lovely Mexican girl arrived in Hollywood to embark on a film career.

Fifteen years ago, or thereabouts, a vivacious Mack Sennett bathing beauty was just getting her start in the movies.

Today, in a strange combination of youth and experience, these two famous actresses are among the choices of six noted directors as "The Six Most Beautiful Women of the Talkies." Each is given equal honor.

Of course, you already have guessed the name of the first one—Dolores Del Rio. And now I shall tell you the name of the second—Gloria Swanson.

Del Rio and Swanson now join Marlene Dietrich and Frances Dee as the screen's most beautiful women in the estimation of the six movie directors who are acting as judges for NEA Service and The Times. They are Mack Sennett, Josef von Sternberg, George Fitzmaurice, Mervyn LeRoy, Edward Sutherland and Allan Dwan.

Monday the names of the two remaining beauties will be revealed.

DOLORES' entrance into pictures was one of the most interesting ever made by a screen newcomer.

Brought up in exclusive circles in Mexico City, she received her first film offer from Edwin Carewe when he and his wife, Mary Akin, and Bert Lytell and Claire Windsor went to the Mexican capital to participate in a double marriage.

But Dolores' parents had heard about "wild" Hollywood and would not permit her to come here until after her husband, Juan Del Rio, visited here and decided that the town would be safe for her.

That perhaps was a bad report for Jaime to make as it was the beginning of the end of their marital happiness. Dolores soared quickly to stardom and then divorced Jaime.

Now she is married again, this time to Cedric Gibbons, fashion expert at the M-G-M studios.

THE Mexican beauty's career has been anything but a smooth one.

Her success after arriving in Hollywood was almost instantaneous. But the tumble from the pedestal upon which she had been placed was almost as rapid. Dolores' trouble was too much of the same thing.

The same type of pictures which carried her to the top also carried her back down again. Her productions ceased to make money. Then she became seriously ill and was forced to retire for nearly a year.

In good health again now, however, and more beautiful than ever, Dolores is starting her comeback.

AND now for Gloria Swanson. It seems rather needless to describe Miss Swanson's beauty. For the last fifteen years her face and figure have been seen by millions of movie fans.

Back in the days when she and the movies were much younger the glorious Gloria blossomed forth as a Mack Sennett bathing beauty.

With her were numerous other girls just getting their start in pictures. Many made good—but none could quite maintain the pace set by their leader.

With the exception of Charlie Chaplin, no other player from the old Sennett lot ever achieved and held the fame that is Gloria's.

With all her beauty, Gloria has a good business head. There was a time when she was the highest paid player in motion pictures.

Then she made the one mistake of her career. Her contract with Paramount was expiring. Executives offered her a new one calling
