

REFORM GROUP HURLS REBUKE AT W. C. T. U.

Support of Prohibition Ills Called Poor Citizenship by Women's Council.

BY DANIEL M. KIDNEY

Prohibitionists "who persist in their folly" may find themselves before the pale with the social-elect in Indiana and elsewhere.

Such taboo on ardent drunks, who push their prohibition views into the most unwelcome places, was suggested as an avenue for advancement of the program for repeal of the eighteenth amendment here Tuesday afternoon.

The occasion was a meeting of the Indiana division officers and advisory council of the Woman's Organization for National Prohibition Reform.

It was held at the home of Mrs. Jacqueline S. Holliday, 1050 West Forty-second street. Mrs. Frederick M. Alger, chairman of the Michigan division, was guest speaker.

True Temperance' Keynote

Sixty women, prominent socially in Indianapolis and the state, were present and a membership drive was planned.

A general meeting is to be held later at which Mrs. Charles H. Sabine, New York, national chairman, will speak.

"True temperance" was the keynote of the meeting—and tea was served.

In the open forum discussion, following Mrs. Alger's talk, the idea of social ostracism for ungenerous drunks was advanced.

"For years these W. C. T. U. women and their like have sneered at us because we have not joined in their cause," one of the women declared.

"Now I suggest that we return the compliment and on the very grounds that they have always taken which is good citizenship. Surely no good citizen longer can support prohibition because in doing so they are aligning themselves with the bootleggers and racketeers."

Points to Alcohol Deaths

The latter charge was based on statistics presented by Mrs. Alger regarding her home city of Detroit. While before prohibition Detroit had 1,500 licensed saloons they now have 20,000 speakeasies, she declared.

Taking up the pre-Volsteadian prohibition arguments point by point Mrs. Alger presented facts to show that the reverse of everything promised has proven true.

A case in point was the increase in the alcoholic death rate in 1929, it being six times that of 1920.

Advocates State Control

In closing her plea to support repeal of national prohibition and leave control of liquor to the individual states, Mrs. Alger painted a dire picture of the moral catastrophe the dry era has become for modern youth.

Dr. F. S. C. Wicks, pastor of All Souls Unitarian church, agreed with this conclusion and declared:

"Right here in Indianapolis we have had a Kirkland case, except the girl didn't die, and nothing is to blame but the wrecking of morals brought about by the excessive drinking of bad liquor by young men and women in these days of prohibition."

Dr. Wicks said he is leaving shortly for Scandinavia to study the Swedish plan of liquor control, which, he believes, may be the best answer to the American problem.

Invite New Members

At the close of the meeting membership cards were distributed and many were signed. No dues are demanded, and all women interested in "prohibition reform" are invited to join.

Reasons for joining the organization are set out on the membership card as follows:

"Because I believe that national prohibition has increased lawlessness, hypocrisy and corruption and because I believe that the cause of real temperance has been retarded."

Mrs. Richard Edwards of Peru is joint general chairman for Indiana with Mrs. Holliday. Other Indiana division officers are Mrs. Charles Harvey Bradley, treasurer, and Mrs. Robert F. Scott, secretary.

Cult Leader

GIRL, 23, FACES EXECUTION FOR RIVAL'S MURDER

Quarter-Breed Indian Is Convicted; Mercy Is Not Recommended.

By United Press JEFFERSON, O., June 10.—With a stoicism characteristic of her Indian forebears, Julia Maudie Lowther, 23-year-old mother, today awaited pronouncement of the sentence which will send her to die in the electric chair for the ambush slaying of her paramour's wife.

Convicted of killing Mrs. Clara Smith in a plot with the victim's husband, Tilby, the West Virginia hill girl became the first woman to face electrocution in Ohio, when a jury of twelve men found her guilty without a recommendation of mercy.

Defense counsel was to file motion for a new trial before the death sentence is pronounced Thursday.

Reputed to have been wealthy, he had sold his land and is to begin a preaching trek to Michigan to start a cult.

THE INDIANAPOLIS TIMES

Under Ohio law the girl must die within 100 days unless she wins executive clemency.

Mrs. Lowther left the courtroom without portraying any emotional reaction to her fate. She was calm, almost indifferent, as Prosecutor Howard Nazor described her plot with Smith, a trucking contractor, to "eliminate the one obstacle to their illicit romance."

Mrs. Smith, the prosecutor said in his final demand for the girl's life, was driven to a lonely road near Ashtabula by her husband, and shot by the quarter-breed Indian girl on May 29, 1930.

Tilby Smith will be executed in Ohio penitentiary Aug. 17. He was convicted twice of plotting his wife's death.

TEX GUINAN IS BACK, VENTING IRE ON FRENCH

Thinks She'll Come Out to Indiana; Likes Sound of French Lick.

By H. ALLEN SMITH

United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, June 10.—Texas Guinan, who can shoot her name in a dishpan with a .45 at seventy-five yards, came back to the United States Tuesday night with a boat load of handsome girls and the conviction that Napoleon Bonaparte has turned thrice in his grave.

"The French government ought to be ashamed," said Texas, "to have permitted a company of thirty-three to cross the ocean without telling them, before they started, that they were not welcome. They ought to have their socks shot off."

Miss Guinan said that she has immense respect for the French people, "but all those ministers, priests, Sacre bleu! Mon dieu! Golly."

don't even know the French and Indian war is over. The first thing I'm going to do, if I have time, is to go to this place in Indiana called French Lick. The name sounds glorious to me. And if anybody sees me with a French fried potato in my mouth, I hope I get the hoof and mouth disease. God knows I've got the former."

Miss Guinan was resplendent in white riding breeches, rhinestones and a white fur coat when reporters reached her on board the French liner Paris late Tuesday in the lower bay.

"All I can say," she said, "is that 3,000 miles is a terrific long way to go to jail. And it's a fine reception I got in the country where Marshal Joffre decorated me—one out of fifteen women he decorated for extraordinary service during the war—back in 1918. I sang my lungs out in the trenches and in the French and American hospitals, and then they threw me out of the country. And to think, that I studied French when I was in a convent. Sacre bleu! Mon dieu! Golly."

RUM RUNNING BOSS ON AIR OVER HOOKUP

Bares Prices of Booze in Interview From 12-Mile Limit.

By United Press

NEW YORK, June 10.—A man described as captain of a rum runner outside the twelve-mile limit was interviewed by Ford Frick, newspaper man, for radio listeners Tuesday night. The broadcast, over a Columbia network, brought from the captain a statement that liquor prices, f. o. b., run raw, are $15 a case for Scotch, $17 a case for rye and $20 a case for champagne.

And for this very liquor, the captain said, the American public pays from $60 to $75 a case for Scotch, $70 to $90 for rye and about $100 for champagne.

"The difference in the market prices," he said, "must take care of his risk in running the blockade and it must cover losses."

The microphone was installed aboard the rum craft and connected with a short wave set on the yacht Alta Rocca. It then was transmitted to the shore station at Asbury park and rebroadcast through station WABC.
