

357 CO-EDS AT I. U. EMPLOYED IN PAST TERM

Maid Service Most Popular With Girls Earning Education.

By Times Special
BLOOMINGTON, Ind., June 27.—Engaging in varied occupations, 357 Indiana university co-eds last year worked while attending the university to help meet expenses. A large number of these not only earned part of their expenses, but some earned all of them including tuition, board and room, clothes, traveling expenses and doctor bills. The most popular occupation among them was maid service four hours each day in Bloomington homes in return for room and board. One hundred six students followed this occupation. Other popular forms of employment were caring for children, stenographic and general office work, ironing, sewing, house cleaning, beauty parlor work and waiting tables.

Earn $16,000
Mrs. Fannie Weatherwax, assistant to the dean of women, reports $16,456.00 was earned by freshmen co-eds during the past school year. The largest part of this amount was made by those serving as maids. The compensation of room and board was equivalent to $10,658.00 and this form of employment was used by 37 students.

Eighty freshmen co-eds came to the university on county scholarships, which provided them with a total of $5,200.00 in the form of contingent fees. Three entered on Tri Kappa scholarships and money received from this source amounted to $600. The total freshmen co-ed enrollment last year was 366, of these 40 students were from Bloomington.

Loans Aid 152 Co-Eds
During the past school year 152 women of the university were accommodated by loan funds amounting to $11,382. For the coming year a sum of $29,000 will be available for both men and women students in the form of loan funds. In 1918 only $1,700 was available.

The Indiana Federated Clubs have contributed $4,760.33 of the $29,000 available. The latest check received by President William Lowe Bryan of the university to apply on the amount of the Indiana clubs' loan funds was for $25 from the East Chicago Woman's Club.

According to the 1931 I. U. catalogue, the cost of a year at the university varies greatly with the student's manner of living. It may be said that with the present student body economy is the rule, not the exception. Probably most of the students spend, exclusive of railroad fare and clothing, from $400 to $550 a year.

MAYOR FAVORS DELAY OF LIGHT PLANT WORK

Situation at Richmond Complicated By Pending Rate Decision.

By Times Special
RICHMOND, Ind., June 27.—Richmond's municipal light plant came into the limelight again this week following a meeting of special council committee, acting as a board of works, when Mayor Windsor B. Harris announced his plan of opposing to the council's plan of awarding a contract for two new boilers.

Bids for the boilers were advertised several months ago, but no action was taken pending a decision by the public service commission on petitions of the manufacturer's association of this city, for standby service for the local plant and a revision of rates.

The commission recently ruled against a hookup with an outside utility, but has not ruled as yet on the rate reduction petition.

A consulting engineer has advised that savings of from $10,000 to $15,000 would be possible by re-advertising.

"I believe the city should not re-advertise for bids until after the public service commission has acted upon the petition of the manufacturer's association for a revision of rates," Mayor Harris stated, "for the reason that should the commission order a material rate reduction the city could not carry out its plant development program, the estimated cost of which is in excess of $850,000."

TRAGIC ROBBERY CASE NEAR END

Last of Defendants in Murder to Be Tried.

By Times Special
NOBLESVILLE, Ind., June 27.—With the return of Gerald Haygood to Indianapolis to answer a charge of conspiracy, the last chapter has been written in the Owen Crickmore murder case so far as Hamilton county is concerned.

Floyd Strange and Robert Ingersoll are serving life sentences for the murder of Crickmore and Charles McCammon a term in the Indiana Reformatory for participating in robbery in connection with the slaying.

Haygood was originally charged with murder in the first degree as were the other defendants. This charge was dismissed. Recently he was tried on the charge of inflicting a physical injury growing out of the robbery. The court instructed a jury to return a verdict for the defendant because of a lack of direct proof, there being evidence to show that Haygood protested against the robbery and left the automobile when his partners committed the crime. There was also evidence that Haygood suggested the robbery on the Indianapolis-Noblesville road where Crickmore was employed was a good place for a holdup. Now Marion county authorities will attempt to prove that he conspired to commit the robbery.

When Crickmore attempted to protect the money in the cash register, he was shot and died a few days later.

Damage to property is alleged in both suits, operation of the company's coke and gas plant being blamed. Bills for injunctions ask that the company be restrained from operating until changes are made in its plant.

In one of the actions David S. and Lela R. Vesey asks $15,000 damages. They allege that their health and that of their children was impaired to such an extent they were forced to move from a house near the company's plant.

William J. and Margaret S. Vesey asks $30,000 in the other action. They allege value of property they owned near the gas plant was reduced from $50,000 to $25,000, as a result of damage to paint and plant foliage due to smoke and dirt.

Teacher Tenure Law Assailed in Board Demurrer

By Times Special
ANDERSON, Ind., June 27.—The latest move in the suit of three dismissed married women teachers who are seeking reinstatements to their positions at Elwood is a demurrer by Ralph Daly, attorney for the Elwood school board, asking the constitutionality of the teacher tenure law.

The case is in charge of Alonzo Bales, of Winchester, as special judge.

Recently the school board attorney filed a plea in abatement challenging the jurisdiction of the court to review the action of the board. Judge Bales sustained that contention of Oswald Ryan, attorney for the teachers, that the teachers had a right to be in court because marriage was not a legal cause for dismissal under the tenure law.

The suit has attracted state-wide interest. Demurring to the complaint, Judge Daly said:

"That Chapter 97 of the Acts of the Legislature of 1927, called the teachers' tenure law, is unconstitutional; that said act was clearly class legislation, in that it places teachers of the same teaching experience in different classes and narrows the classification down to a point where it picks out a comparatively small group of members of the teaching profession and grants them certain protection and safeguards which other members of the profession of the same experience and ability and years of teaching service are denied under the provisions of the act."
