

Parties Give Chance for Fine Menus

BY SISTER MARY

NEA Service Writer

Holidays often are the inspiration for delightful informal parties, and the Fourth of July provides an excellent opportunity for summer hospitality.

Porch and garden parties may be as simple or elaborate as the hostess chooses to make them. However it is very easy to attain a happy medium that insures a good time for the guests and the minimum of work for the hostess.

A buffet luncheon or supper is a happy solution of the problem of serving. Since the guests help themselves, the hostess with one maid can manage easily.

Cold Cuts Appetizing

A buffet meal always makes it possible to make the most of beautifully prepared dishes and offers opportunity for effective table decorations.

Attractive bowls of salads and platters of cold cuts, inviting piles of sandwiches and handsome desserts appeal to the eye and add immeasurably to the beauty of the table.

The following menus feature red, white and blue as much as possible, for Independence day parties, and range from the simplest of refreshments to a substantial dinner.

Afternoon Refreshments

There should be all possible kinds of sandwiches, and in great abundance. Be sure to decorate some of them with stars and stripes cut from pimento and blue plums or use tomato and blueberry jellies piped from a tube.

Small white bread sandwiches can be decorated with a narrow strip of pimento cut like a fire-cracker with a shred of coccoanut stuck in one end for a fuse.

You also can make a festive looking sandwich loaf with this fire-cracker garnish. Cut pimento strips to look like fire-crackers and place them all around the sides and ends of the loaf, using the coccoanut as a fuse.

On the top of the loaf make a flag using pimento for stripes and blueberry jelly for stars. Against the thick layer of cream cheese which covers the loaf the red and white are most effective on his slice of the loaf.

Luncheon Menu

Blackberry soup with cherry garnish, radishes and celery, broiled sweetbreads, potato marbled in cream sauce, fresh lima beans, tomato salad with frozen dressing, ice cream sandwiches, coffee (hot or iced).

If this menu is served buffet style it is necessary to provide small tables. The dessert should be served as a separate course.

Small tables, and additional help will be found essential for replenishing dishes and serving the dessert.

Dinner Menu

Half a peach filled with a ball of red raspberry ice, baked ham with mustard and horseradish cream, platter of assorted hot vegetables, avocado and grapefruit salad, cherry cream cake, coffee.

The vegetables are dressed with butter and arrange in mounds on a hot platter. Rich cream and Hollandaise sauce are served in separate sauce boats, making it possible for each guest to choose his vegetables and their accompanying sauce to suit himself. Use care in preparing the vegetables and he sure to arrange them on the platter with regard to color. For instance, put peas between diced beets and June carrots.

Angel food cake is filled with cherry parfait, and coccoanut colored blue with blackberry juice is sprinkled over the whole.

Activity among needy and sick persons in Indianapolis during the last six months was reported by Mrs. Fred C. Noerr, district visitor for the Indianapolis Flower Mission, at the monthly meeting of the board of directors today in the Architects and Builders' building.

Mrs. Noerr told of a family which has lost eleven out of fifteen children with tuberculosis and a twelfth now has contracted the disease. Seventeen new cases were reported during June, she said, a month when ordinarily the spread of the disease is checked. She attributed the number of new cases to the fact that proper hospital facilities for isolating cases are not available.

Tired Feet Stimulated by Massage

BY ALICIA HART

or a picnic, this is an excellent treatment to give your feet before you try stepping out in the evening. Moreover, if your feet seem swollen by heat or over-exertion, this is the most relaxing treatment you can give them. It is not enough often, that you yourself lie down and rest. Your feet cry for more attention than you are giving them. Treat them to a massage at least once a week.

First of all, soak your feet a short time in tepid water, putting in some salt or soda, or just soap suds. Dry carefully, especially between the toes. Then use a good nourishing cream and begin the massage, one toe at a time. Rub it gently from the tip to the base, then in a circular movement. Pull each toe gently as you massage it, especially the big toe, which is more apt to have a bent joint.

Arch Treatment Needed

Rub the cream in briskly under the arch, from the toes to the instep, and massage up your ankles toward your knees.

This massage should be more than merely slapping on a little cream. It should be done so thoroughly that each toe tingles when you have finished and your whole foot feels relaxed and comfortable.

If you can lie down immediately after this massage and keep your feet up for at least 20 minutes, it will be even more beneficial. Wipe off any remaining cream, apply foot powder, and you are ready for your stockings.

THREATS LAID TO REBUFFED LAW-BREAKERS

Lake County Prosecutor Says Himself and Sheriff Are Targets.

By Times Special

CROWN POINT, Ind., July 2.—Prosecutor Robert G. Estill of Lake county asserts that racketeers in liquor, vice and gambling are continually plotting against himself and Sheriff Roy Holley because of their program of law enforcement.

He said that the operator of an Indiana Harbor gambling house "propositioned" him regarding a permit to violate the law with immunity and offered a share of profits. Failing to interest Estill, the man went to the prosecutor's deputy, Thomas De Pue, with the offer, warning the subordinate that unless it was accepted Estill would be involved in a scandal with a woman. De Pue ordered the gambler from his office with a threat to prosecute if he attempts to operate his resort.

Estill says another story is going the rounds that he and Holley have been seen in an Indiana Harbor resort drinking with women.

Estill is meeting the stories with the threat that "If necessary, we will even solicit the aid of the United States government in stamping them out in event we find the task too difficult for our limited resources."
