

Camp Fire Girls Hold Celebration

—WHAT'S IN FASHION?—

Athletic Costumes

Directed By AMOS PARRISH

NEW YORK, July 4.—Today lots of folks won't work. Because it's our biggest, most important holiday of the year.

But chances are that many of them will work harder at not working than though they were at their business posts.

Because they'll play. Five or six sets of tennis (or ping-pong), Thirty-six holes of golf. Swim a mile or so. Knock out some grounders and balls on the corner lot with the boys.

Yes, sir—being athletic is being in fashion . . . Whether you're man, woman or child . . . and whether you watch or play.

Closely on to 70,000 people in New York's Yankee Stadium alone will rise in the seventh today to tell you that baseball is in fashion. And lots of these baseball enthusiasts will be women in gala spectator sports attire.

The costumes they wear are the costumed well-dressed women all over the country are wearing as they watch other baseball games, or tennis matches, or horse races or any sporting event that's going on.

Lots of dresses in white or pastels or bright colors with a short box jacket to match. Lots of comfortable shantung suits in pastels with perky white blouses. Bright colored flocked suits, too.

Many one-piece dresses of a soft pastel wherever there are tennis courts.

The dresses are simple and tailored looking, but soft and feminine, too. The boucle suit is a favorite sports costume, too. The jacket is there if you want it for golf or to slip on when still heated from the game.

Sports costumes like these are the thing, too, for the deck tennis that's been transplanted from shipboard to back yards. Or for quoits and the lately revived croquet.

Fashionable swimmers on this Fourth of July—and all summer long—are wearing free-and-easy suits with deep cut holes and low-cut backs to offer the least resistance to the water.

But there's a dresser beach costume that's fashionable—the one of soft jersey instead of worsted, cut much like a dress and trimmed like a dress, with bows or appliques or contrasting insets.

Many of them have jackets, just as many dresses do and the trunks are so full they look almost like a skirt.

And if you'll notice today, you'll find all these athletic-interested women are being very patriotic in their wearing of the red-white-and-

Discrimination against women in various countries will be another topic discussed. The federation has conducted an investigation to determine how many engineering societies, chambers of commerce, medical associations, bar associations and similar organizations refuse membership to women who technically are qualified. Each country will report the results of its own investigation and discussion will hinge upon how the barriers can be removed.

The delegation from the United States will sail on the S. S. St. Louis on the Hamburg-American Line on July 11.

MISS JOHNSON AND LEE HOTTEL MARRY

Marriage of Miss Eunice Johnson, daughter of Mrs. L. F. Johnson, 2324 Central avenue, and Lee Hottel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton B. Hottel, 25 West Forty-ninth street, took place Thursday afternoon in the rectory of St. Joseph's church.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Hottel attended the couple. Mr. and Mrs. Hottel have gone on a honeymoon, and after two weeks will be at home with Mrs. Johnson.

"Sweet" Peas

If peas grow a bit tasteless and still you love them and want to eat them, use from a teaspoonful to a tablespoonful of sugar in the cooking water. Even sweet corn can be cooked with some sugar in the water.

Easily Removable

If you make your slip covers with snaps, even your sofa cushion slip covers with them, you can remove them and have them back on again in double quick time and no trouble.
