

SECOND BITING POLITICAL BOOK FLAILS HOOVER

"Merry-Go-Round" Issued
Only Day After Caustic
"Mirrors of '32,"

By United Press
WASHINGTON, July 14.—The capital was regaled today with a second anonymous and biting portrayal of its leading personages.

Only a day after publication of "The Mirrors of '32," which dissected potential presidential candidates, the firm of Horace Liveright today brought out "The Washington Merry-Go-Round." It is a caustic volume that takes its readers on a swift whirl through Washington political and social life, recounting much gossip on the way.

Its unnamed author stops here and there for detailed analyses of some figures. Others he darts at with the rapier thrust of a pointed anecdote.

Herbert Hoover might have remained a hero if he had not been elected President, the writer says. "Before the ruthless realities and the merciless tests of that office his fundamental inadequacy of character undid him and he stands today stripped of all his carefully conjured glories," it is asserted.

Has Petty Temper

"Perhaps the most important answer to Herbert Hoover's failure is the fact that deeply ingrained in his make-up are two unfortunate characteristics, fear and vacillation, which, coupled with a petty personal temper, sorely try even his most loyal friends."

The author declares the war-debt holiday plan was "put over on Herbert Hoover through the combined efforts of Charles G. Dawes, Dwight W. Morrow and Andrew W. Mellon, plus a dozen New York bankers who clamored at him in person and by long-distance phone for a month. Finally, his confidence restored by a trip to the hospitable middle west, Mr. Hoover adopted the plan and never was more surprised in his life when it was heralded as his master stroke."

Many stories are related about other characters. The reader is told for instance:

That Mrs. Stimson complained to a friend that Mr. Hoover was a "slave driver."

Given Bids to Children

That Representative Fiorella La Guardia of New York gives his White House invitations to friends' children as souvenirs.

That Mrs. Dolly Gann's husband telephoned newspapers to deny that he was "meek" or "mild."

That the wife of an administration official smokes a pipe.

That Trubee Davison, assistant secretary of war, hid himself in a mail sack and interrupted a tête-à-tête, but nearly suffocated when the lock on the sack closed and friends were slow in releasing him.

The state department letters critical of Mexico were somehow intercepted—and returned to the department by the Mexican ambassador.

SEER CAUSES SUICIDE

Terrible Prophecies, With No Grounds, Drives Mother to Death.

By United Press
CHICAGO, July 14.—Worry over a seer's prophecy that her son would go blind and her husband would leave her were blamed by police today for driving Mrs. Sarah Kostner, 26, to leap from a ninth floor window and kill herself.

Mrs. Kostner's husband, Louis, told officers his wife had been despondent since having her fortune told recently. He said there was no apparent basis for either of the seer's two prophecies.

EIGHT DIE IN CRASH

High Russian Air Official Among Dead From Plane Plunge.

By United Press
MOSCOW, July 14.—At least one high aviation official was among the group of fliers killed when their airplane crashed near Alabino Sunday, it was learned belatedly today.

Eight military aviators died in the accident. V. K. Ntrandofov, assistant commander of the aviation, was reported among the dead.

MISSIONARY KIDNAPED

American Is Captured, Held for Ransom by Chinese Bandits.

By United Press
PEIPING, China, July 14.—The United States legation today was informed that bandits had captured another American missionary, Lacey Sites, in southern China. He was held for ransom.

FIRE LOSS $250,000

Medical Plant at Nashville Is Swept by Flames.

By United Press
NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 14.—A loss estimated at $250,000 today was the result of a fire that occurred in the hospital's and physician's supply manufacturing plant of Eisele & Co. here Monday.

666

LIQUID OR TABLETS
Relieves a Headache or Neuralgia in 30 minutes, checks a Cold the first day, and checks Malaria in three days.
666 Salve for Baby's Cold.

THE
INDIANA TRUST CO.
PAYS
Interest on Savings
CAPITAL and
SURPLUS $2,000,000

Men's and Women's
CLOTHING
ON EASY CREDIT
ASKIN & MARINE CO.
127 W. Washington St.

Fire Victim

By United Press
WASHINGTON, July 14.—The capital was regaled today with a second anonymous and biting portrayal of its leading personages.

Only a day after publication of "The Mirrors of '32," which dissected potential presidential candidates, the firm of Horace Liveright today brought out "The Washington Merry-Go-Round." It is a caustic volume that takes its readers on a swift whirl through Washington political and social life, recounting much gossip on the way.

Its unnamed author stops here and there for detailed analyses of some figures. Others he darts at with the rapier thrust of a pointed anecdote.

Herbert Hoover might have remained a hero if he had not been elected President, the writer says. "Before the ruthless realities and the merciless tests of that office his fundamental inadequacy of character undid him and he stands today stripped of all his carefully conjured glories," it is asserted.

Has Petty Temper

"Perhaps the most important answer to Herbert Hoover's failure is the fact that deeply ingrained in his make-up are two unfortunate characteristics, fear and vacillation, which, coupled with a petty personal temper, sorely try even his most loyal friends."

The author declares the war-debt holiday plan was "put over on Herbert Hoover through the combined efforts of Charles G. Dawes, Dwight W. Morrow and Andrew W. Mellon, plus a dozen New York bankers who clamored at him in person and by long-distance phone for a month. Finally, his confidence restored by a trip to the hospitable middle west, Mr. Hoover adopted the plan and never was more surprised in his life when it was heralded as his master stroke."

Many stories are related about other characters. The reader is told for instance:

That Mrs. Stimson complained to a friend that Mr. Hoover was a "slave driver."

Given Bids to Children

That Representative Fiorella La Guardia of New York gives his White House invitations to friends' children as souvenirs.

That Mrs. Dolly Gann's husband telephoned newspapers to deny that he was "meek" or "mild."

That the wife of an administration official smokes a pipe.

That Trubee Davison, assistant secretary of war, hid himself in a mail sack and interrupted a tête-à-tête, but nearly suffocated when the lock on the sack closed and friends were slow in releasing him.

The state department letters critical of Mexico were somehow intercepted—and returned to the department by the Mexican ambassador.

SEER CAUSES SUICIDE

Terrible Prophecies, With No Grounds, Drives Mother to Death.

By United Press
CHICAGO, July 14.—Worry over a seer's prophecy that her son would go blind and her husband would leave her were blamed by police today for driving Mrs. Sarah Kostner, 26, to leap from a ninth floor window and kill herself.

Mrs. Kostner's husband, Louis, told officers his wife had been despondent since having her fortune told recently. He said there was no apparent basis for either of the seer's two prophecies.

EIGHT DIE IN CRASH

High Russian Air Official Among Dead From Plane Plunge.

By United Press
MOSCOW, July 14.—At least one high aviation official was among the group of fliers killed when their airplane crashed near Alabino Sunday, it was learned belatedly today.

Eight military aviators died in the accident. V. K. Ntrandofov, assistant commander of the aviation, was reported among the dead.

MISSIONARY KIDNAPED

American Is Captured, Held for Ransom by Chinese Bandits.

By United Press
PEIPING, China, July 14.—The United States legation today was informed that bandits had captured another American missionary, Lacey Sites, in southern China. He was held for ransom.

FIRE LOSS $250,000

Medical Plant at Nashville Is Swept by Flames.

By United Press
NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 14.—A loss estimated at $250,000 today was the result of a fire that occurred in the hospital's and physician's supply manufacturing plant of Eisele & Co. here Monday.

666

LIQUID OR TABLETS
Relieves a Headache or Neuralgia in 30 minutes, checks a Cold the first day, and checks Malaria in three days.
666 Salve for Baby's Cold.

THE
INDIANA TRUST CO.
PAYS
Interest on Savings
CAPITAL and
SURPLUS $2,000,000

Men's and Women's
CLOTHING
ON EASY CREDIT
ASKIN & MARINE CO.
127 W. Washington St.

Fire Victim

By United Press
WASHINGTON, July 14.—The capital was regaled today with a second anonymous and biting portrayal of its leading personages.

Only a day after publication of "The Mirrors of '32," which dissected potential presidential candidates, the firm of Horace Liveright today brought out "The Washington Merry-Go-Round." It is a caustic volume that takes its readers on a swift whirl through Washington political and social life, recounting much gossip on the way.

Its unnamed author stops here and there for detailed analyses of some figures. Others he darts at with the rapier thrust of a pointed anecdote.

Herbert Hoover might have remained a hero if he had not been elected President, the writer says. "Before the ruthless realities and the merciless tests of that office his fundamental inadequacy of character undid him and he stands today stripped of all his carefully conjured glories," it is asserted.

Has Petty Temper

"Perhaps the most important answer to Herbert Hoover's failure is the fact that deeply ingrained in his make-up are two unfortunate characteristics, fear and vacillation, which, coupled with a petty personal temper, sorely try even his most loyal friends."

The author declares the war-debt holiday plan was "put over on Herbert Hoover through the combined efforts of Charles G. Dawes, Dwight W. Morrow and Andrew W. Mellon, plus a dozen New York bankers who clamored at him in person and by long-distance phone for a month. Finally, his confidence restored by a trip to the hospitable middle west, Mr. Hoover adopted the plan and never was more surprised in his life when it was heralded as his master stroke."

Many stories are related about other characters. The reader is told for instance:

That Mrs. Stimson complained to a friend that Mr. Hoover was a "slave driver."

Given Bids to Children

That Representative Fiorella La Guardia of New York gives his White House invitations to friends' children as souvenirs.

That Mrs. Dolly Gann's husband telephoned newspapers to deny that he was "meek" or "mild."

That the wife of an administration official smokes a pipe.

That Trubee Davison, assistant secretary of war, hid himself in a mail sack and interrupted a tête-à-tête, but nearly suffocated when the lock on the sack closed and friends were slow in releasing him.

The state department letters critical of Mexico were somehow intercepted—and returned to the department by the Mexican ambassador.

SEER CAUSES SUICIDE

Terrible Prophecies, With No Grounds, Drives Mother to Death.

By United Press
CHICAGO, July 14.—Worry over a seer's prophecy that her son would go blind and her husband would leave her were blamed by police today for driving Mrs. Sarah Kostner, 26, to leap from a ninth floor window and kill herself.

Mrs. Kostner's husband, Louis, told officers his wife had been despondent since having her fortune told recently. He said there was no apparent basis for either of the seer's two prophecies.

EIGHT DIE IN CRASH

High Russian Air Official Among Dead From Plane Plunge.

By United Press
MOSCOW, July 14.—At least one high aviation official was among the group of fliers killed when their airplane crashed near Alabino Sunday, it was learned belatedly today.

Eight military aviators died in the accident. V. K. Ntrandofov, assistant commander of the aviation, was reported among the dead.

MISSIONARY KIDNAPED

American Is Captured, Held for Ransom by Chinese Bandits.

By United Press
PEIPING, China, July 14.—The United States legation today was informed that bandits had captured another American missionary, Lacey Sites, in southern China. He was held for ransom.

FIRE LOSS $250,000

Medical Plant at Nashville Is Swept by Flames.

By United Press
NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 14.—A loss estimated at $250,000 today was the result of a fire that occurred in the hospital's and physician's supply manufacturing plant of Eisele & Co. here Monday.

666

LIQUID OR TABLETS
Relieves a Headache or Neuralgia in 30 minutes, checks a Cold the first day, and checks Malaria in three days.
666 Salve for Baby's Cold.

THE
INDIANA TRUST CO.
PAYS
Interest on Savings
CAPITAL and
SURPLUS $2,000,000

Men's and Women's
CLOTHING
ON EASY CREDIT
ASKIN & MARINE CO.
127 W. Washington St.

Fire Victim

By United Press
WASHINGTON, July 14.—The capital was regaled today with a second anonymous and biting portrayal of its leading personages.

Only a day after publication of "The Mirrors of '32," which dissected potential presidential candidates, the firm of Horace Liveright today brought out "The Washington Merry-Go-Round." It is a caustic volume that takes its readers on a swift whirl through Washington political and social life, recounting much gossip on the way.

Its unnamed author stops here and there for detailed analyses of some figures. Others he darts at with the rapier thrust of a pointed anecdote.

Herbert Hoover might have remained a hero if he had not been elected President, the writer says. "Before the ruthless realities and the merciless tests of that office his fundamental inadequacy of character undid him and he stands today stripped of all his carefully conjured glories," it is asserted.

Has Petty Temper

"Perhaps the most important answer to Herbert Hoover's failure is the fact that deeply ingrained in his make-up are two unfortunate characteristics, fear and vacillation, which, coupled with a petty personal temper, sorely try even his most loyal friends."

The author declares the war-debt holiday plan was "put over on Herbert Hoover through the combined efforts of Charles G. Dawes, Dwight W. Morrow and Andrew W. Mellon, plus a dozen New York bankers who clamored at him in person and by long-distance phone for a month. Finally, his confidence restored by a trip to the hospitable middle west, Mr. Hoover adopted the plan and never was more surprised in his life when it was heralded as his master stroke."

Many stories are related about other characters. The reader is told for instance:

That Mrs. Stimson complained to a friend that Mr. Hoover was a "slave driver."

Given Bids to Children

That Representative Fiorella La Guardia of New York gives his White House invitations to friends' children as souvenirs.

That Mrs. Dolly Gann's husband telephoned newspapers to deny that he was "meek" or "mild."

That the wife of an administration official smokes a pipe.

That Trubee Davison, assistant secretary of war, hid himself in a mail sack and interrupted a tête-à-tête, but nearly suffocated when the lock on the sack closed and friends were slow in releasing him.