

DIESEL ENGINE OF NEW TYPE WILL BE MADE

Columbus Plant Will Produce Unit for Bus and Truck Use.

By Times Special
COLUMBUS, Ind., Aug. 22.—Within six months, it is expected the plant of the Cummins Engine Company here will be producing diesel engines for trucks and busses, according to Clesie L. Cummins, president, who a week ago today completed a transcontinental trip in a diesel powered truck for which the fuel cost was only $11.22.

Cummins' announcement is in direct contradiction of one a few days previously by the Indiana Truck Corporation of Marion, to the effect that diesel engines for busses and trucks would be turned out by Oct. 1.

He pointed out that his factory has not as yet produced any engines of that type, as the truck used in the cross-country trip had an engine of marine type. The trip was made for the purpose of ascertaining what changes would be necessary for truck and bus use.

Drawings for the new engine are nearly completed. Within ninety days it is expected the first machine will be on the testing block at the Cummins plant. After being run on the block, it will be placed in a truck for further testing. Two or three months will be required for this work, Cummins estimates.

FOUR BANK ROBBERS STILL ELUDE PURSUERS

Gas City Holdup Nets $5,400 After Threat to Kidnap Girl.

By Times Special
GAS CITY, Ind., Aug. 22.—Grant county authorities are engaged today in an intensive hunt for four bandits who Friday afternoon robbed the Twin City State bank here of $5,400, after threatening to kidnap Miss Florence Hundley, 19, a bookkeeper, and daughter of Frank M. Hundley, cashier.

Father and daughter were alone in the bank when three bandits entered, the other having been left in charge of an automobile in which the robbers fled.

Hundley refused to open the safe, although beaten on the head with revolver butts, giving in only when the robbers threatened to leave with his daughter their captive.

The robbery was staged an hour too soon for the good of the bandits. Otherwise they would have had access to $10,000, pay roll money for three factories.

By Times Special
ROCHESTER, Aug. 22.—Possibility that the Federal fish hatchery in Indiana will be located at Lake Manitou was increased with the recommendation of G. C. Leach, chief of the division of fish culture, that the site is the best in the state.

Leach, after spending two days inspecting the site, sent his recommendation to the United States fisheries bureau in Washington.

Definite decision on the site will be made by Secretary of Commerce Robert P. Lamont. The project is expected to cost $150,000. According to present plans it will comprise 220 acres of land extending into the city limits of Rochester. Work on the project will not begin until next spring, Leach said.

LOWER TAXES ASSURED

By Times Special
ANDERSON, Ind., Aug. 22.—Property owners in Anderson and elsewhere in Madison county are assured of relief from some of their tax burden next year.

PRISONER RELATES WEIRD LIFE STORY

Man Surrenders to Police at Anderson With Tale of Many Crimes.

By Times Special

ANDERSON, Ind., Aug. 22.—Deciding to square accounts with the law after twelve years of violating it, Cornelius McReavy, 41, surrendered to Anderson police. He told an amazing tale of swindles, frauds, and check forgeries which netted him many thousands of dollars and said the law never was close to him.

Ralph Rich, captain of detectives, has checked a part of McReavy's story and found that much of it is true. Inquiries have been sent to all of the places where the man says he operated and replies are being awaited.

Although satisfied that McReavy is telling the truth, Rich is dubious as to the motive that caused McReavy to surrender. Rich believes McReavy is either wanted for murder and wishes to remain in hiding or was identified with Chicago gangsters.

Admits Deserting Army
A telegram from army authorities confirmed McReavy's admission that he deserted July 29, 1919, while stationed at aviation field, Riverside, Cal. The army has no record of McReavy having embezzled a $60 officers' mess fund and theft of pay checks issued to three fellow soldiers. The checks were cashed at Venice, Cal.

At Seattle McReavy adopted the alias of Paul E. Barry and with a partner organized what was known as the Great Northern Fur Farms, Inc. He cleaned up between $3,000 and $4,000 on a swindle, cashed bogus checks in the amount of $300 and fled.

He worked as head waiter in the Congress hotel at St. Louis as Paul Burns. He overdraw his bank account $200 and passed bad checks before leaving St. Louis.

Posing as Ray Barnes he operated a meat market at Grayson, Okla., disappearing after leaving a bank in the lurch for about $500.

McReavy, now Paul B. Kyne, says he was married to Jewell Ansbeck, a wealthy young woman, at Easton, Pa., where he was employed by the Delaware Water Gap Fox farm and associated with aristocratic persons. After eighteen months' residence at Easton he obtained $1,000 from his brother-in-law on a fox deal and, deserting his wife, went to New York.

Sold Stolen Machines
He worked for the Charles Heath Company, makers of meat block leveling machines in New York. One night he returned to the plant, stole three machines valued at $1,200, and hauled them away in a taxicab. He sold the machines in Chicago, which was his next stopping place.

Going to Waterville, Me., McReavy assumed the alias of Paul Burke and started a silver fox farm. He sold a pair of foxes to a corporation executive. While caring for the animal he sold them several times, realizing from $1,500 to $2,000 on each deal.

He loafed around Indianapolis two weeks before coming to Anderson.

Money was always easy for me to get, said McReavy. "People seemed to trust me. I saw a chance to make a few thousand at Indianapolis, but passed it up. Most of the money was spent in riotous living. I liked to take a woman companion on a tour of the cabarets."

McReavy well dressed and educated. He says he was born in Utah.

HOLADAY FIRM INVESTORS WILL RECEIVE LITTLE

Only $4,985 Remains in Face of Million Dollar Loss.

By Times Special

MUNCIE, Ind., Aug. 22.—After passing of more than ten years, receivership of the Holaday Investment Company has been closed by the Peoples Trust Company, showing that only $4,985.63 remains for distribution among persons whose losses are said to total $1,000,000, representing money they invested in the company. It was formed by Alpha L. Holaday, now serving a term in the Indiana state prison.

Served Federal Term
Holaday previously served a term in a federal prison. Returning here to his wife and children, he soon became involved in trouble. He fled, and for several months was a fugitive from justice, finally surrendering. He was sent to the state prison for failure to provide for his family and violation of a law forbidding sale of stocks not approved by the state securities commission.

Holds Stock Worthless

Stock certificates of the Holaday company, which had a value on its books of $598,027, are worthless, the receiver's report states, and no hope is held of ever disposing of them. Assets of only $18,309.21 were found by the receiver, and these were obtained only after a bitterly contested suit. They include $8,000 derived from sale of Holaday's farm in Salem township, and $7,000 from sale of a residence property here. Expenses of the receivership were $13,323.53, leaving only $4,985.68 for distribution among the company stockholders.

While the convention proper will not open until Monday, when Brigadier-General Benjamin D. Foullos, chief of the United States air forces, and Colonel George E. Ijams, head of the United States veterans bureau, will speak, legionnaires will be entertained tonight by the Forty-and-Eight, fun-making division of the legion.

Registration and the band and drum corps contest is scheduled for Sunday with nearly forty entries competing.

More floats and special features will be in the parade, to be held Monday, than ever before, according to Ollie Davis, state adjutant. Tipton's float, resembling a huge ear of corn, will symbolize the junior corn partnership held by Herbert C. Watson, Tipton. It is planned to enter the float in a parade at the national convention at Detroit.

TERM AT DE PAUW WILL OPEN SEPT. 14

Registration for Freshmen Sept. 9 and for Upper Classes Sept. 11.

By Times Special

GREENCASTLE, Ind., Aug. 22.—Registration for De Pauw university's ninety-fourth school year will start Sept. 9 for freshmen and Sept. 11 for upperclassmen. Recitations and lectures will begin Monday, Sept. 14.

If the three upper classes return to the campus in proportion to the indication manifested by the freshmen class, De Pauw will have another large enrollment. According to Dean W. M. Blanchard, more transcripts of high school credits have been received at this time than at the same time last year. Dean K. S. Alvord's office reports both Rector and Lucy Rowland halls are filled and only six or seven reservations left in Mansfield hall.

These three halls are co-ed dormitories. Football candidates are scheduled to report for practice Sept. 8. Sept. 9 to 12 have been designated as "freshman days" when the first year students will have an opportunity to become acquainted with the campus and in an informal way learn to know members of the faculty, other freshmen and some of the traditions of the school. During this time also the freshmen will have conferences with their advisers concerning courses and will be welcomed in a special chapel the first day by President G. Bromley Oxnam, who is expected home from Europe early in September. The rector scholarship holders will meet Dr. Henry B. Longden, director of the foundation, and all members of the first-year class will take a psychological examination.

Registration for the school of music will be held simultaneously with that of the college of liberal arts. Everything will be completed in time for the first assignments Monday morning, Sept. 14. Present indications point to an enrollment comparable to last year when nearly 1,500 students were on the campus. The Edward Rector Scholarship Foundation has awarded more scholarships this year than last, setting a new high mark with 340 awards. Depression and unemployment has been found to aid college enrollment rather than detract from it. Unable to find employment, young men and women are turning to the universities for training for a period when educated men and women will be in demand with the reopening of business and industrial activities.

ATTORNEY FEES IN ROAD CASES CAUSE THREAT

Vanderburg County Bond Issues May Be Banned, Official Warns.

By Times Special

EVANSVILLE, Ind., Aug. 22.—Warned by Phil Zoercher, state tax commission member, that unless attorney fees charged in road building projects financed by bond issues are curbed, the state may interfere. Vanderburg officials are giving ear to plans for lesser charges. Appearing before the county commissioners' Norman Kniese, secretary of the Evansville tax conference committee, proposed a flat attorney fee of $250 for each project. He cited figures showing that attorneys had been paid a total of $6,303 for six projects.

Attorney Protests

Kniese's reduction plan brought a protest from James F. Ensle, an attorney. He said the tax committee had not filed a protest against improving Walnut street, despite the fact there are only seven homes on the thoroughfare, and was silent when Morgan avenue was improved for the benefit of some factories.

The committee secretary countered by saying that the body had not been fully organized at the time the bond issues for the work were floated, but admitted "we mean to sleep on the Walnut street improvement."

Fees Called Outrageous

Zoercher declared that continuance of the high fee policy will result in the state board refusing permission for future bond issues. "Attorney fees allowed here in the past have been outrageous," Zoercher said. "I understand one attorney has gotten rich off road fees and virtually does no other work. It has been brought to the board's attention that their bids were not from the county, he also collects from the petitioners for getting a road through."

ANDERSON, Ind., Aug. 22.—Suit filed in Madison county court seeks to cancel five of the contracts awarded by the advisory board of Pipe Creek township to school bus drivers.

Contracts given Floyd Etchison, Waldo Canada, Meredith Etchison and Kenneth Mays are alleged to be illegal because their bids were not awarded on the "lowest and best bids" while a contract to Scott Wayne, whose bid was equal to the low bid, is said to be contrary to a law because Wayne is not a resident of the township.

The suit was started by William A. Swart and Vernon Broyles, as taxpayers, against Edgar L. Dickey, township trustee, and Alva H. Waymire, Samuel Welborn and Virgil Bouslog, members of the advisory board.

Bids for the contracts were twice received by township officials, and the proposals first submitted being rejected. Both meetings of the trustee and board members were closed.
