'MILLIONAIRE FOR DAY' RUNS FOR FIVE POSTS
"Butch" McDevitt Wants to Be Real Boss in Wilkes-Barre.

By United Press
WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Sept. 7.—John J. (Butch) McDevitt, famed as "the millionaire for a day," is seeking five separate offices simultaneously in the primary elections here.

At least, the colorful McDevitt has issued personal publicity telling what he will do if elected mayor, treasurer, school director, and register of wills and recorder of deeds in Luzerne County.

McDevitt attracted national attention by hiring a special train to take him to New York, where he spent recklessly along the Great White Way in disposing of an inheritance. Later, he tried to present a bust of himself to congress. He is a publisher here.

JOAN MUST BE MORE CAREFUL OF STORIES

'This Modern Age' Smacks Too Much of Other Vehicles to Possess Much Novelty or Dramatic Interest.

BY WALTER D. HICKMAN
It is high time that Joan Crawford devote a little more time and consideration to her movie stories.

That was my thought after seeing Joan's latest, "This Modern Age." Even the title reminds me of other stories about the mad rush of females for pleasure.

Miss Crawford is not another Norma Shearer in acting ability. At times I think that Miss Crawford is possessed of more beauty than acting ability. On the other hand, Miss Shearer seems to grow in acting ability with each picture. Both have been fortunate in several respects, mainly that both have been given competent directors and elaborate sets as well as marvelous camera men and competent surrounding players.

This is especially true this time for Miss Crawford in "This Modern Age." I had the feeling at times that Pauline Frederick as Joan's mother was walking away with the acting honors in a most unsympathetic role.

The story is rather thin plot. Joan joins her mother in Paris after being separated for years from her mother. Mother is a bad woman, being the mistress of an impossible looking rich old man.

Daughter does not know where her mama's income is coming from and when Joan's sweetheart tells her what a "bitch" her mother is, Joan rebels and defends her mother and gives the boy friend the gate.

But mother just won't stay hitched to the straight and narrow and life in a small flat does not hit the spot.

So when mother returns to her rich companion, daughter starts on a bender all of her. Of course Joan's sweetie returns just in time to pull the cavernous stuff. Happy ending? Yes. And mother promises to trod the straight and narrow.

The story has been treated and acted much better than it deserves. Be your own judge of this one as usual. I have my own idea.

Now at the Palace.

THIS STORY IS UGLY AT TIMES
My verdict of "Secrets of a Secretary" is that the story is too much of a melodramatic muddle to deliver much of a punch.

The title throws no light on the subject matter, as the secrets of the secretary are not exposed. The secretary is a social secretary to a very rich and foolish old woman and the old woman's daughter is more of a fool than anything else.

The story gets ugly at times when a cheap dancing gigolo starts wholesale blackmail of the rich woman's daughter. Helen, the secretary (played by Miss Colbert) has already married this worthless man following a wild party. She goes to the aid of the blackmailing victim and is too late; he has been murdered. Suspicion falls on both girls.

Mary Boland better known on the stage than on the screen is splendid as the rich but foolish society woman, who insists that her daughter marry a titled man she does not love. The fact is, Miss Boland walks away from all members of the cast.

You will discover a new face, that of George Metaxa. He is the gigolo. I think he is far from being a find. He did not impress me that he knew much about acting.

Herbert Marshall who plays the role of the Englishman seems to be very human and intelligent in everything he does.

This story is too wild and even ugly at times to get me excited over it.

Now at the Indiana.

LETTING A READER TELL OF THIS ONE
Have often wondered what a reader of this department would write of Fu Manchu and the many murders that generally surround him.

And so I allowed a reader of this department to tell me of the latest Fu Manchu mystery.

I wanted to find out if I was telling too much of these mysteries and the reader certainly told me more of the plot than I generally would reveal. The reader in this case is the same one who got me interested in the stories of Sax Rohmer. The one telling me about this return of Dr. Fu was not certain whether Fu was actually killed once and for all or whether the director could bring Fu back to life on the talking screen if the public so demanded. But the idea back of the story is that Fu was killed and his daughter sworn to revenge his death. Then follows the

COUNTY GETTING $20,000 A WEEK IN BACK TAXES

Half Million Likely Figure on Delinquency for This Year.

Spurred by the passing of the tax wagon through city streets, collection of delinquent taxes is bringing $20,000 a week into the county treasury.

More than $60,000 of approximately $1,000,000 taxes delinquent has been collected since the tax wagon was sent forth three weeks ago by John D. Henderson, deputy treasurer in charge of collections.

A total of $936,000 taxes went delinquent this year, plus $153,000 unpaid last year.

County officials say the council meeting this week must provide more than $100,000 to meet a deficit on operating expenses of the county government. Minus penalties, the county gets one-third of delinquent collections, the other two-thirds going to the city and state.

"We are doing well with our collections," Henderson said, "but considering the large amount of money outstanding, collections are poor this year."

Henderson estimates that the county will fail to collect about $500,000 of its taxes this year.

Clyde E. Robinson is considering putting another tax wagon on the streets to increase collections. These wagons will seize furniture and other personal property where taxes continue unpaid, according to Henderson.

Penalties on delinquent taxes include a 10 per cent penalty, $1.50 demand fee, plus mileage cost at the rate of 10 cents a mile.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 7.—It is not necessary for a woman to tell her age when she registers as a voter.

Pending his departure for Ithaca, N. Y., Espinosa is visiting his parents at Albuquerque, N. M.

FIREBUGS ARE CAUSE OF 3,600 FOREST BLAZES
Damage Toll This Year Is Biggest in History, Survey Shows.

By Science Service
WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—The fact that a number of the most destructive forest fires in western states are definitely known to have been started by pyromaniacs—fiends who deliberately set fire to timber—has made significant figures from the United States forest service here which show that 1,300 of the 3,600 conflagrations in national forests last year were of incendiary origin.

Up to the latter part of last month, more than half of the total number of this year's fires in these forests, 3,600 out of 6,322, were due to man's action, whether careless or on purpose. Lightning is held responsible for the remainder of the number.

The present season is turning out to be one of the worst fire years in the history of the forest service. A total area of 335,163 acres has been burned over in the national forests since Jan. 1, the latest summary shows.

Three hundred thousand of these acres are in western states, and, of them, Idaho is at present suffering the greatest losses.

The severity of conditions this past summer is brought out in a comparison with 1930, only 137,000 acres being burned for the whole year.

CHICAGO, Sept. 7.—Patrolmen Katzenheimer, Schultz, Boeckel and Schroeder sniffed the byways of Chicago today, hunting a truck load of sauerkraut stolen from the Kugavski sauerkraut factory.

So far this year, Henry Wold of the United States forest service told Science Service, more money has been spent in national forests for fire control—$2,100,000 up to Aug. 20—than was spent all last year, and the situation is worse than in 1929, which was considered an extremely bad fire season.

Reports of the field indicate, Wold stated, that the present fires are harder to suppress than those in 1910, the worst year on record for acres burned and lives lost. The fire-fighting organization is better now, however, than at that date.

GIANT GERMAN RADIO STATION NEARLY READY
Plant to Contain 40 Receiving Sets for Many Programs.

By United Press
BERLIN, Sept. 7.—One of the finest radio receiving stations in the world at present is nearing completion at Beetz.

The plant will be equipped with the most up-to-date devices, and will work in conjunction with the great transmitting station at Nauen.

The main building was completed in 1929. It contains a large hall, with room for forty receiving sets and additional apparatus.

The huge directional aerials for reception are the most striking feature. When finished, they will consist of a number of horizontally arranged dipoles oscillating in the same phase and intensity.

Many of the aerials are in place. Others will be ready shortly for the reception of the night waves from New York, Buenos Aires, Cairo, Manila, Japan and Java.

The new wireless telephony lines to Buenos Aires, Rio de Janeiro, Java and Siam already have begun to function, and the image telegraphy service with Buenos Aires has been operating for some time.

On completion of the plant, forty aerials and as many super receivers will be available for short wave reception.

"They speak my language!"

...and it's no "namby-pamby" talk, —either!

Words can mean lots of things —but you can always trust your taste. If a cigarette tastes right, if it satisfies you right down to the ground, then it is right. There are all kinds of tobaccos—some good, some not so good. And there's the Chesterfield kind—the best Turkish and the best Domestic that grows. Full-ripe, sun-cured, aged in Nature's thoroughgoing way—and as mild and smooth and sweet as sun-ripened fruit. Chesterfields taste right — because they are right. And something you can't taste—that's important too! The finest cigarette paper—so pure it burns without taste or odor! And behind this unchanging good taste, all the resources of a great organization—men, money, science, experience. It takes them all to make a great cigarette, and they're all behind Chesterfield. Your taste is dead right. Chesterfields do satisfy.

GOOD...they've got to be good!
