

SKIRT FULLNESS IS FASHION'S OUTSTANDING CHANGE

Elongated Hip Yoke Is Abandoned

BY JEAN PATOU.
PARIS, Sept. 8.—If you stop to analyze the mode you will invariably find that there are some features liable to increase or decrease in importance from one season to another or even in the course of a few weeks.

The most important point in fashions this season is unquestionably that of skirt fullness.

This question of fullness in dress, its volume and distribution has always been a matter of considerable study to any fashion creator.

Hitherto most of the interest and attention was centered on where the waistline would be placed and the skirt length. Both these features are more or less out of the picture in the new winter styles, having undergone a process of stabilization.

Last Season's Out of Date

There being no drastic change to record in this direction, it might be deduced that the new offerings are lacking in new ideas, but I think there is a sufficient number to place on record to make last season's creations completely out of date.

The old theme of a form-fitted, more or less elongated hip yoke, with the fullness introduced around the knees, seems to have been pretty generally abandoned in favor of the new formula of a more equalized distribution of fullness.

Practically all the gowns in my winter collection have a shallow hip yoke or are cut in such a fashion that the fullness starts just below the hipline. I have avoided excessive fullness, as well as all "sudden" flaring effects, preserving a moulded hipline gently increasing in width toward the hem.

New Bodies Fuller

This skirt formula evidently could not be combined with the form-fitted, somewhat scanty bodices seen on the sheath type of dress. The new bodices are therefore a little fuller and generally more supple in effect.

So far as evening styles go, I believe we are entering a period of simplified dress for ordinary wear. Most of the evening gowns in my collection show a regular, even hem all around reaching just below the ankle and leaving the top of the shoe uncovered.

I have come to the conclusion that this formula finds favor with nearly all women. Obviously it is by far the most practical length for an evening gown, and suitable to nearly all circumstances.

Of course, the sumptuous evening ensemble will continue to figure in the smart woman's wardrobe. These, however, are meant to play a very definite part and although certain features enhancing their formality will be brought into play, you will still find they have been created on the same theme as the more informal models.

TWO CROWNS A DAY FOR PRINCESS

Princess Eugene hats that have created a furore in milady's style program this year, today had enlivened Indianapolis beauties at the Indiana state fair.

For each day at 10 a. m. and 2 p. m. the coronation of Princess Eugene will take place as a feature of the annual fair style show of L. S. Ayres & Co. at the fairgrounds.

WHAT'S IN FASHION?

Hats Inspired by History

Directed by AMOS PARRISH

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—Whom do you want to look like this fall? Yourself? Good for you, if you do! That's the smart way to look.

But in looking like yourself—in expressing your own individuality—the chances are even-Stephen that you're going to look like somebody else. Some historical personage.

Because never has that old saying "History repeats itself" been more thoroughly demonstrated than in the costumes of this new fall season. Especially in the hats in fashion.

Designers have gone back as far the first half of the 1500's for their inspiration and picked a hat from every century that followed, too, right up to just a few years ago.

And as for Rembrandt

But perhaps you'd rather look artistic instead of regal. In the famous portrait of Rembrandt, painted by himself, this celebrated artist of the middle 1600's, was wearing a hat much like the one illustrated at the right.

So today we call this hat the Rembrandt toque. It has something of the feeling of the beret women liked so well last year, draped over to the right side and pulled forward over the right eye.

In soft felt with gay feather, this is a hat that's youthful and a bit romantic.

Roaming the highlands of Scotland in the late 1700's and early 1800's and making a name for himself as a freebooter, was a gay gentleman by name of Rob Roy. You've read about him in Scott's novel of the same name.

So if you have a desire for adventure, try his hat, in fashion this fall. It's sketched at the right.

It's cut over the left eye and dips down over the right, as most fashionable hats do. Especially smart if your profile is clear cut.

Jumping to the 1800's—around 1860 to be exact—you can look like the Empress Eugenie by donning the sailor she wore.

It sits up high on the head, tilted to the right. And if you don't think it's sophisticated, just look at the illustration at the right.

Lots of women will remember the next historical hat. Many of you even wore it. Because it comes from the gay 90's, when hats were perched at precarious angles atop the pug of hair and upstanding feathers nodded in the breeze.

The modern 1890 hat fits the head more safely—because fewer pugs are worn.

But the feathers still nod, and give this hat a look of formality that goes well with many of the formal new fall costumes.

And the most modern of all these hats inspired by history dates back only fourteen years.

It's copied from the soldiers' fatigue cap worn by the doughboys in the World War. It's a soft little thing—made of velvet or knitted fabric and a great hat to wear with informal types of costumes.

Next—Amos Parrish describes some good types of dresses to wear without a coat in the early fall.

Freshman Are Paid Honor at Garden Party

Alpha Delta Pi sorority at Butler university entertained with a garden party from 2 to 6 this afternoon at the chapter house, 545 Berkeley road, for freshman girls.

Miss Mary McCormick of the faculty, presided at the tea table. During the afternoon a musical program was provided by Mrs. Warren Bosworth and Mrs. G. W. Rubush. Mrs. Harriet Eitel Wells and Miss Hilda Schmidt headed the receiving line.

Decorations and appointments were carried out in blue and white and flower corsages were given the guests as favors. Mrs. Wittich, professional tea leaf reader, was a feature of the entertainment.

Arrangements were in charge of Miss Catherine Thurston, assisted by Miss Elaine Schmidt and Dorothy Baldrige.

Daily Recipe
LOUISIANA STYLE SHRIMPS

Cook 1 teaspoon chopped onion in 2 tablespoons butter 5 minutes, stirring constantly. Add 2-3 cup canned shrimps (1 small can), broken in pieces, 2-3 cup hot boiled rice and 2-3 cup heavy cream. When thoroughly heated, add 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon celery salt, few grains of cayenne and 3 tablespoons tomato sauce. Turn on a hot serving dish and garnish with toast points and parsley.

Handiwork of Patients Is Displayed

Work done in occupational therapy by patients at Indiana university hospitals is being exhibited in the University building at the state fair by the hospital committee of the Indiana League.

Mrs. Edwin M. McNally, hospital chairman, heads a group of fourteen members of the committee who are in charge of the booth. Eleven prizes for competitive displays of articles which include samples of basketry, weaving and woodwork. Those in the booth include:

Mesdames Joseph J. Daniels, Horace Nordyke, Gaylord Millikan, Charles Weiss, Gordon, Oscar J. Tronard, Jesse Fletcher, Misses Helen Sheerin and Elizabeth.

Miss Winifred Conrick, head of the department of occupational therapy at the university hospitals, and her assistants, Misses Jane Myers, Mary Britton and Maude Plummer, explain the exhibit.

City Girl Scout Board Leaders Are Selected

Mrs. Charles E. Cole, Girl Scout commissioner of Indianapolis and Marion county, announced the appointment of the following committee chairman for the year at a meeting today of the council at headquarters, 512 Board of Trade building:

Mesdames Maxwell Droke, publicity; Harold B. Tharp, Court of Awards; Paul G. Moffett, camp; Edward A. Gardner, finance; and Cecil K. Calvert, activities.

Delegates to the national Girl Scout convention, Oct. 14-17, in Buffalo, N. Y., also were appointed. They are, with Mrs. Cole, Mrs. Gardner, Miss Jean Adams, local treasurer, and Miss Clara Foxworthy, field captain.

Mrs. Cole and Mrs. Gardner will specialize in council membership training courses, and Miss Adams and Miss Foxworthy in troop training.

Announcement of a Brownie training course, to be conducted by Miss Julia Williamson, national head of Brownies, from Nov. 4 to 7 in Indianapolis, also was made by Mrs. Cole. There will be morning and afternoon sessions.

Mrs. Moffett, local Brownie director, will be in charge of arrangements for the course.

Classes for training leaders in Girl Scouting again will be conducted this year at headquarters. Classes will start in October and will include training for tenderfoot, second class and first class Scouts. Members of the council, with Mrs. Cole, include:

Mesdames C. F. Voyles, first deputy commissioner; Thomas A. Wynne, second deputy commissioner; Edward A. Gardner, treasurer; and Theodore Vonnegut, secretary. Miss Jean Adams is Girl Scout director.

League Group to Meet

Entertainment committee of Junior League will meet at 2 Sept. 15 at the home of Mrs. Elias C. Atkins, 4344 North Pennsylvania street.

Sorority to Gather

Omega Chi Tau sorority will meet Wednesday at the home of Miss Gertrude Henn, 531 Lincoln street. Pledge service will be held for Misses Maxine Dule, Frances Flier and Helen Nayrocker.

Alpha Tau to Meet

Alpha Tau chapter, Alpha Zeta Beta sorority, will entertain fifteen rushers at a bridge party and buffet supper tonight at the home of Miss Blindine Bell, 610 Ambassador apartments. Miss Martha Simmons is in charge of arrangements.

Table Color Scheme

Use mulberry-colored tumblers with pink and white dishes on a pink and white tablecloth for an effective luncheon table. A mulberry glass bowl filled with white flowers makes an attractive centerpiece.

Bright Background

If you have a secretary desk with a high back for bric-a-brac instead of books, give it a bright colored lining. A reproduction of an old map, a bit of old silk or attractive wallpaper will serve this purpose.

Covered Cooking

Liquids which have been thickened with cornstarch should be covered after the mixture needs no more stirring. This prevents the evaporation of the moisture and the forming of a skin on top.

Trust no Substitute because it "looks like Kotex"

MANY substitutes look like Kotex. But few offer anything like the strict, hygienic purity of Kotex. . . . the fact that's bought by hospitals in enormous quantities.

This health protection should be your first concern in selecting a sanitary pad. You have it in Kotex. But how about those unknown substitutes, of whose makers you know nothing? How are they made? Where? Would hospitals sanction them? Would you, if you knew their origin?

Why take chances, ever? Kotex is available everywhere . . . just insist on genuine Kotex.

Kotex is wonderfully soft. It is treated to deodorize. Adjustable. Disposable. Wear it on either side.
