

PUBLIC SCHOOL
NIGHT CLASSES
TO OPEN OCT. 5

Lip Reading Is New Course
Added to Curriculum
This Year.

Nightly classes sponsored by the Indianapolis public schools will begin Monday, Oct. 5, according to announcement made Thursday by Paul C. Stetson, superintendent.

Courses will be given at Arsenal Technical school, Enmerich Manual Training high school, Crispus Attucks high school, Commercial building at 17 West Morris street, and at elementary schools 8, 23, 24, 26, 42, 52, 63, 64 and 83.

Any regular high school subject, for which there is sufficient enrollment, will be offered at the high schools. New to the curriculum this year will be a course in lip reading, commercial, academic and technical and industrial courses will be offered also in the high schools.

Grade schools will offer work in arithmetic, language, geography and history, with drill in spelling and penmanship.

Classes in English for foreigners will be held at Manual Training high school, at the Commercial building and at School No. 52, Walnut street and King avenue. The course at the Commercial buildings will be presented in the afternoon, time to be decided on later. At other places classes will be held at night. Tuition in all night classes is free. Each person enrolling, however, is required to make a deposit, which will be refunded if attendance is satisfactory. In some courses a fee is charged for use of machines and materials.

Classes will be in session Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights of each week. At high schools, meetings will be from 7:30 to 9:30, while at grade schools, classes will be held from 7 to 9.

Last year, 2,861 persons took the regular night school courses, in addition to 200 who took the courses in English for foreigners.

Comedian and Saint Meet

Religious leader of millions—and a man who has made millions laugh... A striking study in countenances is this picture, taken as Mahatma Gandhi and Charlie Chaplin met by pre-arrangement in a tiny house in London's East End. The meeting was at the seeking of the little Indian leader who, until he arrived in London recently, never had heard of Chaplin. Though their argument over the place of the machine in modern life was serious, their attitudes were good-humored, as seen here.

Speakers Are Named for Teachers' Session Here

Oct. 22-23.

Announcement of the programs for twenty-seven of the forty-three sections of the Indiana state teachers' convention, to be held in Indianapolis Oct. 22 and 23, was made today.

Notable among the speakers at the different meetings are C. E. Parmenter of the University of Chicago, who will talk to the modern language section on "Recent Trends in Modern Language Teaching"; Dr. E. E. Lewis of Ohio State university, who will discuss "The Place of Mathematics in the High School Curriculum" before the mathematics meeting, and Dr. Jean Betzner of Columbia University, who will talk before the kindergarten section on handling of small children.

Paul C. Stetson, Indianapolis superintendent, will speak on "Some Aspects of the Junior High School Problem" to the intermediate school section.

The home economics meeting will hear "Home Making as a Profession," by Dr. C. G. F. Franzen of Indiana university, and "Three Thousand Years of Women's Dress," by Minna Schmidt, costumer, historian and lawyer, of Chicago.

Featuring the meeting of economics and sociology teacher will be the speech by Dr. Thomas V. Smith of the University of Chicago, on "Social Intelligence and the Russian Experiment."

Dean Agnes Wells of Indiana university will lead the discussion among deans of women.

Two Are Injured in Crash

Two persons were injured when their cars crashed Thursday night at the intersection of Highland avenue and Market street. Mrs. Lena Evans, 33, of 30 South Grace street, sustained cuts and bruises, and Thomas Marsella, 5501 Broadway, was cut slightly.

EVANS TO CONVENTION

High School Journals to Hear Talk on News Writing.

W. A. Eans, director of public relations for the Indianapolis public schools, today accepted an invitation to conduct two sessions of news writing at the tenth annual convention of the Indiana High School Press Association, to be held at Franklin College Oct. 22, 23 and 24. More than 500 high school journalism students and teachers are expected to attend the meeting.

In charge of the convention is R. E. Blackwell, executive secretary of the association.

POLICE SNARE
KIDNAP SUSPECT

Wounded Gunman May Be
City Youth's Abductor.

While Indianapolis detectives continued investigation, word was received here today that Chicago authorities held a man believed to be one of a pair of gunmen who kidnapped a Shortridge high school student here Sunday night.

The bandits forced Burns Fitzpatrick, 18, of 2625 Central avenue, to drive them to Chicago, and en route they held up a roadhouse, and staged a gun battle with an intended holdup victim, Archie Gilmore of Brookton, near Lafayette.

Held in Chicago today was Ernest Bevington, 31, an ex-convict on parole from the state prison. Bevington was wounded, dispatches from Chicago said, and it is suspected he received his wound in the battle with Gilmore.

Fitzpatrick returned to Indianapolis from Chicago Monday, he says, under threat of death if he revealed his adventure.

Bevington, who also has a criminal record in Mansfield, O., probably will be brought to Lafayette for identification by Gilmore, and the Fitzpatrick youth also may be asked to identify him, police said.
