Deadly Powder

MORRIS, Ill., Oct. 7.—The pink and white box that lay on a chair beside Thomas Cassidy's crib intrigued the curiosity of the 14-month-old baby. He paused in his gurgling and kicking to regard it. Then straining forward he managed to touch it with his chubby hands. A little more straining and he pulled it over into his crib. The box opened as it fell. Baby Thomas was enveloped in a cloud of talcum powder and choked to death.

ganizer of the unemployed, will discuss "The Significance of the Fourteenth Anniversary of the Russian Revolution, Nov. 8."

B. Ayers will give an address, "The Unemployed Movement in Indiana," Nov. 15.

Later it is expected to bring the following speakers to Indianapolis: Sender Garlin, editor of Labor Defender; Gertrude Brown of the Chicago Workers' school; William Z. Foster, national secretary of the Trade Union Unity League; Theodore Dreiser; William Dunn, Butte, Mont., and Julia Stuart Poyntz, New York City.

Are YOUR CHILDREN getting enough?

Sunshine vitamin-D is the vital health element so necessary to help build strong bones, firm, even teeth, and happier health. Science has proved the absolute need for this powerful health factor. But ordinary foods don't contain vitamin-D in large enough quantities. Other vitamins, yes! But the problem that has baffled the scientists has been, "How can enough sunshine vitamin-D be provided in every day's meals?"

as HOT as you please

or COLD if you please

If the autumn morning is crisp and clear, serve Shredded Wheat Hot. It's simple enough. Just pour hot milk over the biscuits instead of cold. You can't serve a better way. It doesn't cool while you're serving it—hot milk holds its warmth.

If the day promises the warmth of Indian Summer, serve Shredded Wheat with cool-milk. Just heat the biscuits to retain their crispness, and add bananas or other fruit, if you like, then serve with milk or cream.

Which ever way you serve Shredded Wheat, the result is the same. A delicious, healthful breakfast, easily served and warmly appreciated by every member of the family.
