

Hoover Plan Is Lauded in Club Speech

Lauding President Herbert Hoover, Dr. Herbert Adams Gibbons, student of world politics, in an address before members of the Woman's Department Club Wednesday, termed the President's credit plan for industrial recovery the most remarkable document ever issued by a President of the United States. Of remarkable clearness and precision, "it is the remedy that probably will relieve the present economic condition, the most serious the world has ever known," Gibbons said.

"The world today is a bundle of nerves," he said. "It is a sadder but wiser Hoover who issued his plan to bring order out of international chaos, realizing that the failure of his war debt moratorium came from America's 'tell-the-world' attitude."

This crisis can not be compared with any other in the history of the world, because instead of involving only one or two countries, it involves the entire world, Dr. Gibbons explained.

"We must see the world differently than in the past," he said, citing as factors changes in communication, sanitation and medical science, universal strife, and the socialistic influence in nearly every government.

Dr. Gibbons just has returned from a tour of the world in which he studied economic conditions and nationalist movements in the various countries of Europe, Asia, Africa and South America.
