THEY'RE COMFY FOR FANS

Raisin, Nut Breads Rich in Calories

BY SISTER MARY
NEA Service Writer

* Fancy breads always are popular, and when they can be used for tea sandwiches they are a boon to hostesses.

It's well to keep in mind the food value of breadstuffs when they are to take an important part in meals. All breads are energy foods, for their main ingredient—flour—is of great calorie value.

The yeast breads are good sources of vitamin B, but the quick breads made with eggs, milk, molasses, fruits and nuts add mineral salts and additional calories.

Good for Children

Very often a raisin or nut bread precludes cake in the menu. A vegetable salad accompanied by raisin bread sandwiches and followed by a dessert of fresh fruit makes cake or cookies quite unnecessary in the menu.

Undernourished children find these breads an excellent source of fat, since an extra amount of butter can be carried by the slice of bread.

If you have a good basic rule for quick bread you can vary it in many ways. Dates, nuts, raisins and prunes can be used as wanted. Various combinations of flours can be worked out.

BROWN BREAD

Two eggs, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/2 cup granulated sugar, 1/2 cup molasses, 2 1/2 cups graham flour, 1 1/2 cups white flour, 2 cups buttermilk or sour milk, 1 cup seeded raisins, 2 teaspoons soda.

Beat eggs until light with sugar and salt. Add molasses and mix well. Mix raisins with white flour. Add graham flour to mixture and 1 cup sour milk. Mix thoroughly and add remaining sour milk with soda dissolved in it. Add flour raisins and beat hard for about thirty seconds. Turn into oiled and floured cylindrical tins and bake 50 minutes in a moderately hot oven.

Sandwich bread made with sweet milk.

The latest and smartest protection against the icy winds that sweep the football field are the heavy blanket coats shown in the picture above. The heavy striped wool material is cut to slip over the head and wraps snugly around the arms and knees. It is much less cumbersome than the usual makeshift of steamer rugs and is favored by men as well as women fans.

More Than 150 Attend Annual Needlework Guild Luncheon

More than 150 persons, of whom a number were from over the state, attended the annual publicity luncheon of Indianapolis branch, Needlework Guild of America, held Friday in the roof garden of the Indianapolis Athletic Club. Publicity week is being observed by branches of the organization throughout the country.

Major Reginald Sullivan, his sister, Miss Mary Sullivan, and Paul Stetson, superintendent of Indianapolis public schools, were special guests.

Mrs. Reba Barrett Smith, Alexandria, Va., recently elected vice-president of the national organization and general superintendent of national Florence Crittenton Home, was guest speaker, and told of the welfare work of the guild.

Mrs. A. Hartley Sherwood, local president, presided and introduced Mrs. Smith. Mrs. Oscar L. Pond is state president.
