

Quince Can Be Put to Many Uses

BY SISTER MARY NEA Service Writer

When you taste the raw fruit of the quince, it hardly seems possible that really delicious sweets can be concocted. So much for the culinary art!

A cousin of the apple, it may be cooked in almost any way in which the apple is cooked. Its adaptability and delicious flavor make it deserving of a high place among our fruits.

Plain canned quinces are excellent in winter fruit salads. They have a pleasant tang that combines well with other fruits and their firm texture prevents them from crushing and becoming mushy.

At the last call for fall canning and preserving, if you feel you a little short on your winter provender, it will pay to try some of the quince goodies and fill up the empty spaces on the preserve cupboard shelves.

Quince honey is decidedly old-fashioned. You will find many uses for it.

Combined with cream cheese in sandwiches or served plain with hot rolls or toast are two popular ways to use it, but a few spoonfuls added to jellied fruit salads and desserts give an unusual and intriguing flavor.

QUINCE HONEY

Pare and core quinces. Grate or put through food chopper. Measure. To three cups of grated quince add 1 cup of water and cook until fruit is tender. Slowly sift in four cups of granulated sugar and cook 15 or 20 minutes longer. Pour into sterilized jelly glasses and cover with paraffin when cold.

Quince chips were another favorite with our grandmothers.

QUINCE CHIPS

Six pounds quinces, 10 cups granulated sugar, 1-1/2 pounds crystallized ginger, 3 lemons.

Pare and cut quinces in very thin slices, removing core. Cover with water and cook until fruit is tender and water is evaporated. Wash lemons and remove seeds.

Cut ginger in paper-thin slivers. Add lemons, sugar and ginger to juices, and cook until mixture is thick. Pour into sterilized jelly glasses and cover with paraffin when cold.

This is a very rich preserve particularly good with cold meats.

Good for Desserts

There are also many delectable desserts usually associated with apples that are equally good made with quinces.

Baked quince dumplings, quince roly-poly, quince tarts, quince whip and baked quinces are a few seasonal desserts. Quince sauce is made just like apple sauce and serves as the foundation for many desserts.

Remember that sugar added after the fruit is cooked always makes a more delicately flavored sauce than if sugar is cooked with the fruit. This rules holds with quinces, apples or any stewed fruit.

Girl Scouts

Troop 21 will spend the day at Camp Dellwood Friday, Oct. 23. Opportunity will be given to pass requirements for second class, including fire building, cooking, and signaling. Mrs. Jack Deutscher, troop captain, will assist the Girl Scouts in passing tests. The girls will cook their lunches out-of-doors.

At the next meeting of Troop 22, the high school patrols will meet from 4:30 to 5:30 on account of a party to be held at Shirobridge high school. The troop met at the First Presbyterian church. Mrs. Henry Ballmann, captain, has announced that the party will not meet Friday, Oct. 23, because of the teacher convention. Mrs. Phillip Deutscher and Mrs. Louis Schlesinger, both last year, will be to see a model troop meeting. Mrs. Ballmann assisted the Girl Scouts with the formal dress. Mrs. Bell, Mrs. John Rice, color sergeant, assisted Virginia Christens, and Leolla Bell Johnson with color guard. The closing meeting will be an investiture service when Constantine Fierman was given her tenderfoot pin. Girls in the high school patrols are working as a group on the summer camp. The group is now passing its requirements for sewing by making garments for St. Margaret's Guild. Another patrol is working on signaling.

First meeting of Troop 24 was held last week at the Schlesinger home. The above patrols were organized and a new system inaugurated. Attendance and dues will be taken first, then the patrols will work together. There are to be clubs for the first class girls instructed by Helen Collins and Anna Marlene Voss. There are to be two classes in second class and tenderfoot work club for tenderfoot badges. The conclusion of the program will be a picnic around the campfire. Miss Lucille Dachman is the captain of the troop.

At the last meeting of Troop 25, Mrs. Bessie Bell, captain, and the above patrols, Mrs. Charles E. Cole, the following girls transferred from Troop 40 to 25: Jane Thompson, Louise Crable and Martha Lou Sunderland. A new candidate is Edith Mack. A short program was given around the campfire. Miss Dachman, a reading, Annabel Fisher and Betty Bates a singing. The two patrols meet at Broadview M. E. church.

First meeting of Troop 22 was held last week at Third Christian church. The get-acquainted program featured games and songs. The first patrols were organized for the coming months. Immediate plans are to have a short program at the campfire at Halloway Park, the patrol leaders' plan to have a program around the campfire at a coming meeting.
