

FINAL CURTAIN IS DROPPED ON BRILLIANT SOCIAL YEAR

Weddings, Debuts in Lead of Society Events Here; Cupid Has Busy Season

WITH 1931 behind us, bring on the new year. The last one has been a brilliant year, socially, with the wolf, if any, distractingly taken care of at the back door and the depression just an excuse for hard times parties and treasure hunts.

Brides during the year have held the center of the social stage, starring both in spectacular and simple ceremonies. Brides and grooms have included members of many prominent families.

The first bride of the new year was Miss Margaret Haldy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Haldy, whose marriage to Frederick Nelson Michon was an event of last New Year's day.

On Jan. 3, the same day that Miss Antoinette Langenkamp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Langenkamp, married Robert Kirby, Mrs. C. K. Alexander announced the engagement of her sister, Miss Mary Catherine Logsdon, to Byron Stanley Moore and Mrs. Selah Hall Marmon was married to Orland Church.

Married Secretly

During the next week the marriage of Miss Kathryn Buxton to Herbert Woogder was announced by his mother, Mrs. George Buxton, and Miss Mary Louise Curran, who later was married to Chester Ridge, entertained for Mrs. John Doane Sparks (Virginia Dwyer) whose secret marriage just has been revealed.

The marriage of Miss Irma Ulrich to Dr. Harry Gresham Jones at the Little Church Around the Corner in New York, also was announced at this time.

Miss Mary Elizabeth Hume, daughter of Mrs. L. Allison Humes, came from Chicago where she had been working, to marry H. Clinton Dolan, and to sail for a few years abroad.

Evans-Kersey Wedding Held

February saw the marriage of Miss Margaret Mary Evans, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward D. Evans, to Robert Spencer Kersey of Muncey and the series of parties for Miss Betty Jane Hassler and Conrad Ruckelshaus, which culminated in their lovely wedding on St. Valentine's day.

Another "Cupid's" wedding was that of Miss Marguerite Bowers and August F. Hook, which took place at the J. A. Hook's home on Cold Springs road.

St. Valentine's blessing was bestowed upon Miss Martha Taylor, who was a member of the Ruckelshaus-Hassler bridal party before the month was ended, her engagement to Thomas Madden, one of Ruckelshaus' close friends, was announced. The wedding took place April 29.

Couple Elope

Mrs. Seth Ward, formerly Betty Prunk, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Byron Prunk, was a March bride in an elopement to Cincinnati, and the Logsdon nuptials were celebrated during the month.

Another wedding of note during March was that of Miss Mary Elizabeth Staples, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver J. Glassner of Shelbyville, to Curt Armand Leibundgut.

April's lovely bride was Miss Cecelia McDermott, who by strange coincidence didn't change her name, marrying Russell McDermott, April 25. A former Indianapolis man, Theodore Lake Sedwick, was married during the month in Detroit, to Miss Dorothy Wilson.

In May, Miss Isabel Wilkinson, daughter of Mrs. Russell Wilson and Glen Duttenhofer graduated their college romance into marriage and Dr. G. B. Jackson's daughter, Mildred, and Max Recker were married. A few days later saw the wedding of Miss Jane Farago, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Farago, and Norman Baxter.

First June Brides

First of the June brides was Miss Phillips Payne, whose marriage to Theodore Fransen Van Gestel was a social event of the season.

Others who took their vows in the bride's month were Miss Catherine Hoffman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Clyde Hoffman, and Harold B. Metcalf; Miss Norma Mueller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Mueller, to Donald L. Stone, Hanover, N. M.; Miss Marion Butler of Worcester, Mass., and Obie Smith Jr.; Miss Lillian Pierson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chiron C. Pierson, and Eugene Rush Clifford; Miss Gertrude Wysong, daughter of Mrs. Reese Wysong, and Dr. Robert A. Brown; Miss Monelle Skelton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Skelton, and Cranston Mugg; Miss Charlotte Reissner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Reissner, and Harrison Smithson, and Marcelline Matthews, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Matthews, and Robert Bemis, the last three romances having had their beginnings in Butler university.

A lovely summer garden wedding was that of Miss Jean Peterson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Peterson, and Stanley McComas, and another picture wedding was that of Miss Mary Lou Hobbs, daughter of Harry Hobbs, and William Nixon of New York.

Tarkington Relative Wed

In Terre Haute, Miss Josephine Frances Cowgill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. Mac Cowgill, and Booth Tarkington Jameson, son of Mrs. Ovid Butler Jameson, Indianapolis, were married June 27, and June 28, in Knightstown, was the wedding of Miss Dorothy Reagan and Horton Humphrey of Indianapolis.

The first day of July, Miss Eleanor Taylor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Taylor, and John Hubbard Joss of Tucson, Ariz., formerly of Indianapolis and former Yale football star were married, and another Junior League member, Miss Martha Fliton, daughter of Mrs. Harry Ribeyter Fliton and Robert Kirby Whyte were wed two days later.

Miss Lenore Roche, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Roche, chose the fourth of July for her wedding to Allen Moorehead.

Weddings in July included those of Miss Elinor Carpenter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter N. Carpenter, and Allison Verne McCullough; Miss Miriam Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Brown, and Howard M. Dirks; Miss Kathryn Falvey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Falvey, and Clarence J. Wenderschield.

Resolutions on Fashion

Directed By AMOS PARRISH

NEW YORK, Jan. 1.—Happy New Year! We wish you all the luck in the world in everything where you need it. But that doesn't include clothes. Because smart costumes are not a matter of luck. They're the result of just one thing—careful planning.

That goes whether you pay income tax on a million, or pay none at all. And one thing fashion-knowing women are doing today—Jan. 1, 1932—is writing down a fashion resolution, which, if they keep it, will certainly help make this a happier year.

Because they'll be better satisfied with their costumes. They'll know they're right. And that always makes any woman happier, doesn't it?

Consider Whole Wardrobe

Here's the resolution these women might be writing down in their diaries today:

"Resolved: that in 1932 I will be correctly dressed for every occasion. And to accomplish this be it also

"Resolved: that I first will plan my wardrobe as a whole and not buy haphazardly . . . that I will consider each hat and coat and dress and all accessories in their relation to each other and the purpose for which they are to be worn . . . rejecting those that don't fit into my plan of buying."

Don't think that to keep such a resolution is easy. It's hard!

Planning Required

It means planning your coat type and color first and building your dress wardrobe around it; then planning the hats that will go with both coat and dresses; choosing only the shoes and handbags and gloves that blend with the coat and dresses.

You mustn't be tempted by a stunning brown handbag, for instance, when your coat color is black. Nor by a black one trimmed with marcasite if you plan for an informal costume.

Forget the things that don't "fit in," no matter how much you like them. In the end you'll be happier because you'll know you look right! And you'll find you'll have more to spend for the things that suit you, if you stick to your type.

PARK ALUMNI HOLD ANNUAL LUNCHEON

Park school alumni held their annual luncheon Wednesday at the school. Harry Thompson was elected president. Other officers are John Lasher, vice-president; Joseph Wallace, secretary, and John Watson, treasurer.

Other weddings in September were those of Miss Mary Bishop, daughter of Mrs. G. W. Bishop, and Dudley Franklin Taylor, and Miss Margaret Tingler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Tingler, and James T. Royer.

In October, Miss Betty Taylor Dean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ward Hunt Dean, ended her reign as one of the most popular debs with her marriage to Andrew Jackson Daugherty.

Miss Gervais Prentiss, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Christopher J. Prentiss, also one of the popular leaders of the young crowd, married Ewing Hassell of Los Angeles.

Miss Jane Bird, daughter of Mrs. Robert F. Peeler, was married to Karl W. Harder, and Miss Estelle Sadler, who was Mrs. Moorehead's bridesmaid, followed her example and chose Halloween as the day of her wedding to George Leverette Mason.

Another Elopement

The first big wedding in November was that of Miss Martha Garahan, daughter of Francis X. Garahan, to Urban John Hodapp, baseball player. Next was the marriage of Miss Jane Robb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Robb, to Dr. Francis William Chittick of Terre Haute.

Miss Jeanette Craft and Morris Scott Wedley eloped in October, and announcement of their marriage was made in November.

During the last month three important weddings have been celebrated, that of Miss Ineva Reilly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Reilly, and Erwin F. Meyer; Miss Eunice DuPuy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Atkins, and Dennis Newell, and Miss Florence Fletcher Barrett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Clifford Barrett, and William Robert Todd, whose honor it was to usher out the calendar year on Wednesday night.

First Debutante

Miss Martha Slaymaker was the first debutante, coming out at a tea given by her mother, Mrs. Burke G. Slaymaker at the Proprietary April 4. Miss Ruth Milliken, daughter of Walter L. Milliken; Miss Marie Kittle, Mr. and Mrs. John Sheane Kittle's daughter and Miss Janet Adams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Elder Adams are holiday dams.

Miss Alice Shirk and Robert Garten, whose wedding was planned and who were to have been married June 17, stole a march on their wedding party by eloping, several days ahead of time.

STUDY CLUB IS ENTERTAINED BY MRS. BINKLEY

Mrs. Robert Binkley, 4350 College avenue, entertained members of the North Side Study Club with a New Year's luncheon Thursday at her home. A program followed the luncheon.

Tables were decorated with holly, red roses and lighted red tapers, which also were used about the home. Misses Marjorie and Josephine Magold gave a program of readings and dances.

Special guests were Miss Bernice Hesse, Chicago; Miss Marjorie Forsyth and Mrs. Clarence D. Volz.

BRIDAL PAIR TO BE GUESTS AT DINNER

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Davis, 2432 Park avenue, will entertain tonight in the gold room at the Marott with a bridal dinner in honor of their daughter, Miss Dorothy Jane Davis, and her fiance, Gilbert Guthrie Atchison, Kan., who will be married Saturday afternoon. Covers will be laid for:

Miss Davis, Mr. Guthrie, Mr. and Mrs. M. O. Gullion, Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Walter N. Carpenter, Misses Marjorie and Josephine Magold, and Mrs. Clarence D. Volz.

MANNERS AND MORALS

By JANE JORDAN

A RE you looking for light on your problems? Write your perplexities to Jane Jordon, who will answer your questions in this column just as soon as she has had time to do not?

Dear Jane Jordon—I went with a girl for a year, but did not care for her. I had heard tales about her, being wild and恣肆. Now I have had her out. At first she told me she wasn't that kind of a girl. Then she says I mustn't tell anyone about her. I have given myself to her. If she tells anyone about me, I will tell her about her. Should I tell my girl friend this before my ex-girl friend?

She has found out that I am going with another girl that I love dearly and threatens to tell her. She says I mustn't tell anyone about her. I have given myself to her. If she tells anyone about me, I will tell her about her. Should I tell my girl friend this before my ex-girl friend?

Dear WORRIED ME—I should neither affirm or deny. A gentleman never discusses his relations with one girl in the presence of another. I do not think you have much to fear from her threats, as a lady seldom tells on herself.

Dear WIDOWED ME—I am going to buy a coat this month, but I am worried about my ex-girl friend because she was away. Weren't you easy, too? And did your ex make you untrustworthy?

If you surrendered so easily to the temptation, the girl presented, would you surrender just as easily to another temptation? Can either girl trust you, the one whom you respect, or the one whom you do not?

However, I will not be too hard on you, for you only are imbued with the standard of the times, which holds that what is sauce for the gander decidedly is not sauce for the goose. If a girl yields, she is damned by all polite society, whereas her masculine partner in illicit delights retains the respect of the community.

All that I ask you to do is to consider this age old problem long and hard and see if it is just. Since you have not lost your own self respect, why should you lose respect for the girl? Why was it her fault and not mine?

Women's appetites are likely to be rather fickle. Women are inclined to stay too much indoors, neither their exercise nor rest is systematic and the close confinement to one environment tends to destroy their appetites.

For this reason alone a knowledge of food values is of constant practical use, since when appetite fails common sense must take its place.

Dear Jane Jordon—My husband has been dead for six years and life has lost its savor. I am horribly lonely. My husband and I had a happy life. Now I have to go out and do all kinds of work because I always was a great woman for my husband. I have met a man whom I think loves me and he wants me to marry him. I think he could care for me enough to marry me and get along with my husband. I don't think he would like him as I did my husband, which my husband left me which I could use to get in some sort of a home, but I don't think it would be suitable for me to do.
