THE INDIANAPOLIS TIMES

"No less than fifteen trade journals of national circulation have carried in detail the plan of the local association."

Rules adopted by Indianapolis retailers do not prohibit a return when it is legitimate and reasonable or when the store is at fault. The loss entailed by promiscuous and unwarranted return of merchandise grew to such proportions that stores actually were suffering direct cost, Balch explained.

All flagrant returns have been placed in the credit record of the customer in the office of the association and has had a favorable effect, according to Balch.

"Not only has the system curtailed abuse of return privileges in the city, but it has attracted national attention," Balch stated.

ceiver, "can save by using public transportation for all city purposes, saving their private cars for more extensive trips."

"There is no question concerning the economic need of street car operation within large cities. It must be augmented by busses extending into remote sections. Together these carriers handle about 63 per cent of all those who are daily sojourners between their homes and places of business."

Aged Woman Kills Self
By United Press

ALBION, Ind., Jan. 1.—Fear of becoming a burden to other members of the family caused Mrs. Sarah Ray, 70, to end her life at her home here, authorities believe. Mrs. Ray covered the kitchen floor with papers, placed her head on a pillow and slashed her throat with a razor. A farewell note lay nearby.
