MIAMI COUNTY HEARS TALK BY CITY JUDGE

Empty Stomachs Aid Democratic Cause, Asserts Baker.

PERU, Ind., Jan. 21.—"In biblical times, periods of fasting were set aside for concentration and true worship. With empty stomachs abounding, God knows the American people will have ample opportunity this year to think and then turn from Republican party principles of special favors for few, to democracy with its equality for all."

This was the message brought to Miami county by Judge Frank Baker of the Marion county criminal court, who delivered the principal address at the Jackson day banquet.

"After the Republican party spent a decade destroying the prosperity of Woodrow Wilson, who followed the Jacksonian principles, the people of this nation will restore prosperity by a return to Democratic leadership in the 1932 elections," Baker said.

SHIFT SQUAD CAR HOURS

Morning Personnel Will Start Two Hours Later.

No longer will police radio squad car members be "early risers." In fact, bankers' hours have been adopted for members of the day shift under an order issued today by Police Chief Mike Morrissey.

Squad officers who formerly went on duty at 6 a. m. now will report at 8, working until 4 p. m., two hours later than the old "quitting time."

The 2 to 10 p. m. shift now will go on duty at 4 and quit at midnight. Period of the third shift now will be from midnight to 8 a. m., instead of from 10 p. m. to 6 a. m.

This Is Real Courage

George Washington's crossing of the Delaware didn't take half the courage that it took his "double" in the above photo to dress like him at the graduation exercises today of school No. 12.

The "double," alongside the statue of the Father of Our Country, is Robert Swengel, 737 North Holmes street.

The fact that Robert resembles

Washington, a youthful Washington, does not prevent him from playing the aged Washington of years after Valley Forge.

And naturally Robert had to brave a bit of kidding from his playmates like "I can't tell a lie" and "don't cut your cherry tree down" when he played the role. But Robert braved it as Washington braved the Delaware's ice packs.

GOVERNMENT LOSES CITIZENSHIP CASE

Reinstatement Probable for Paul Glaser, Former Gary Attorney.

GARY, Ind., Jan. 21.—Paul Glaser, former Gary attorney, apparently has won his fight of nearly twelve years for restoration to American citizenship, lost in 1920, when Federal Judge Albert B. Anderson ruled against him because of utterances during the strike of Gary steel mill workers, whom he served as counsel.

In Gary superior court, Special Judge Benjamin Carr, who was appointed by Governor Harry G. Leslie, ruled against the government. Fred Schlotfeldt, counsel for the immigration service, after stating the government might take the case to the United States circuit court of appeals, said Judge Carr had raised some points of law which might make that course inadvisable. Unless appealed, Carr's decision will end the case and Glaser will be restored to citizenship.

A forgery conviction of Glaser, obtained in a Lake county court, is now before the Indiana supreme court on appeal. He was charged with forging the name of William Vinovich of Gary to bonds of several waitresses arrested in the Lake county election fraud case in May, 1930.

Judge Anderson's ruling against Glaser was upheld by the circuit court of appeals. Glaser waited two years, and then applied for reinstatement to citizenship. Judge Carr's ruling was on the application.

FEDERAL WAGE CUT SENTIMENT GAINS IN FAVOR

Showdown in Congress Is Expected; President
May Give In.

By Scripps-Howard Newspaper Alliance
WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—Opinion in congress is being marshaled in favor of a reduction in federal employees' salaries, with the belief rather general in cloakrooms and elsewhere that the cuts will be voted. A showdown is expected before many more appropriation bills are approved.

Opposition to the reductions proposed is loud and insistent, but the example of big business in salary cuts is being cited, along with the precarious condition of the treasury, as sufficient reason for United States workers to give up part of their pay.

If salaries are reduced it will be with President Hoover's approval, and his acquiescence would destroy the last shred of his policy for wage maintenance which was the keystone of the White House's first plan to overcome the depression.

It was reported today that some definite statement from Hoover on whether he would permit salary reductions for federal workers, and, if so, how far he would go, was being sought. Just how could not be determined.

Soon after the stock crash, in 1929, big business leaders gathered here and a policy for wage maintenance was formulated. It stood untouched for sometime, but wages were whittled down here and there with little publicity. Last summer, however, the wage and salary reduction campaign got well underway with large industrial concerns instituting cuts. The spread of wage cuts nullified the Hoover policy, and it now is reported from the White House that the administration is "weakening" in its opposition to federal salary cuts.

Opponents of reductions say government action along these lines would set a disastrous example for industry and result in general wage and salary cutting everywhere.
