

WHITES BATTLE NATIVES IN NEW HONOLULU RIOTS

Navy Officer and Brother
Attacked by Mob on Waikiki Beach.

BY DAN CAMPBELL

HONOLULU, T. H., Jan. 26.—Angry citizens charged that Hawaii's reform movement was a political "smoke screen" today after a new outbreak of trouble in Honolulu was climaxed by a near riot between white residents and natives.

A fight involving a woman, in which a prominent stock broker was seriously beaten by a navy lieutenant and the latter's brother, led to an uprising of Hawaiians, police claimed.

Lieutenant Charles Lynch and his brother, Howard Lynch, narrowly escaped a mob of unruly natives when they attempted to park their car in front of a well-known Waikiki Beach tavern last night.

Accused by Broker

The Hawaiian youths attempted to drag the brothers from their car. A crowd of several hundred was attracted to the scene, and at signs of resistance from the whites, the natives dispersed.

The two brothers just had been charged with battery by Earl Williams, Honolulu investment broker. He asserted he was attacked at a party Sunday when a woman guest asked for protection, complaining she had been choked.

The broker said he asked the brothers to apologize, whereupon they assertedly beat him with a cocktail shaker and a brass vase. Word of the fight was noised about the city and when the brothers appeared at the cafe they were met by the Hawaiians. The name of the woman was not divulged.

The incident resulted in widespread revulsion of feeling against the attempts of Hawaiian legislators, now in special session, to redraft law enforcement regulations.

Slaying Brings Action

The session was called by Governor Lawrence M. Judd, after a young native, Joe Kahahawai, recently tried on charges of attacking a navy officer's bride, had been kidnapped and slain.

Four persons were arrested on charges of murder—Mrs. Granville Fortesque, mother of the attack victim; Lieutenant Thomas H. Massey, the girl's husband, and E. J. Lord and Albert O. Jones, navy enlisted men.

The case led Washington authorities to demand an investigation of island conditions. First efforts of the legislators, wherein they adopted a bill placing the police department under control of a commission, won approval of official Washington.

But well informed citizens charged today that the bill was merely a "S. O. S." used to allay excitement in Washington.

PRESBYTERIANS OPEN COURSE IN RELIGION

Twenty Courses Offered in School; First Class Convenes Tonight.

First of a series of classes on religious subjects, sponsored by pastors and Sunday school superintendents of Indianapolis Presbyterian churches was conducted Monday night at Second Presbyterian church, Pennsylvania and Vermont streets. Another class will be held tonight.

A curriculum of twenty courses of two hours each, advised by the board of Christian Education, was organized by the training section of the International Council of Religious Education. Diplomas will be given persons completing twelve courses.

Classes will be taught by the Rev. Henry T. Graham; the Rev. R. J. McLandress, Mrs. Norman Green, Mrs. Boyd M. Gillespie, Miss Mabel Guttry, Miss Nellie Young, Miss Mildred E. Clark and the Rev. T. J. Simpson.

CHARGES ARSON PLOTS

Hogston Bares Insurance Fraud Methods in Club Talk.

How arson and insurance fraud are being resorted to as a way out of the depression for bankrupt business men was explained by State Fire Marshal Alfred E. Hogston in an address before the Irvington Republican Club, Monday night.

Lake county is the worst offender, he said, and charged that Chicago hoodlums are hired to do the burning there.

Of the $8,000,000 fire loss in Indiana last year, $3,200,000 was incendiary, the fire marshal asserted.

Plans for a club reception Feb. 8 for the new G. O. P. state chairman, Ivan Morgan, Austin, were announced.

Railroad Opens Plant

PERU, Ind., Jan. 26.—A water supply and iron removal plant, built at a cost of $40,000, has been placed in operation here by the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad.

Sensible Way to Lose Fat

Start taking Kruschen Salts today—that's the common-sense, safe, harmless way to reduce.

This is what they do—they clean out the impurities in your blood by keeping the bowels, kidneys and liver in splendid working shape and fill you with a vigor and tireless energy you'd most forgotten had existed.

As a result, instead of piling your fat in an easy chair every free moment and letting dabbly fat accumulate you feel an urge to do things that keep you moving around doing the things you've always wanted to do and need to do to keep you in good condition.

Be careful of the foods you eat—go light on fatty meats and pastry—then watch the pounds slide off!

Take one-half teaspoonful in a glass of hot water to-morrow morning and every morning and you don't change your whole idea about reducing, go back and get the small price you paid for them. Get a bottle of Kruschen Salts—lasts a week—at Hoke's Dependable Drug Store or any progressive druggist anywhere in the world—the cost is little—the benefits great—but be sure and get Kruschen for your health's sake—it's the SAFE harmless way to reduce.—Advertisement.

SOLVE 22 BURGLARIES

Police Claim 18-Year-Old Youth Has Confessed Guilt.

Burglary of twenty residences by a bicycle gunman in the south-eastern section of the city in the last two months, were laid to Herbert Johnson, 18, of 938 Fletcher avenue, today by detectives.

They claimed Johnson admitted the robberies in a confession signed Monday afternoon.

Johnson, who used a bicycle in making his getaways and was armed with a .22-caliber revolver, was nabbed after he is alleged to have obtained $1 from the residence of Mrs. Martha Woolley, 1330 Hoyt avenue, Monday.

GOVERNOR POLL FAVORS LANDIS, PAUL V. McNUTT

Thurman Second Choice of G. O. P. and Dailey of Democrats.

BY BEN STERN

Bitter battles in both Democratic and Republican state conventions in June are inevitable if tabulations of The Times secret poll of the 1932 delegates reflect accurately the situation.

Democratic delegates concentrated their votes on four major possibilities for the nomination for Governor, but Republicans scattered their votes among a field of twenty.

Possible cause of the shotgun effect is that so far there has not been an announcement for the governorship in either party, although many potential contenders have sent out scouts and have made it known that, like Barkis, "they are willing."

As was forecast by many, Paul V. McNutt, dean of the Indiana university law school and former national commander of the American Legion, took a large lead in the Democratic poll, with Frank Dailey, 1928 nominee, the second runner.

Republican delegates gave the plurality to Frederick Landis, Logansport editor and radio columnist, with M. Bert Thurman, Republican national committeeman, second, and Lieutenant-Governor Edgar D. Bush third.

Because of the fact that many Republican delegates voted for Governor Harry G. Leslie not knowing that a Governor can not succeed himself, and many other scratched for Dailey and McNutt, it was necessary to place to one side 135 Republican ballots. One hundred nineteen other G. O. P. delegates refused to make a choice for Governor and contented themselves with declaring "the Republican nominated" or "no one like Leslie."

One distinct surprise was the small vote for Frank May Jr., secretary of state, who because of the fact that he controls the major part of the Democratic state patronage was expected to make a much better showing.

The Landis strength was not surprising, as for many years he has been the standard bearer of the liberal and progressive element in the Republican party, and the sentiment expressed on many of the ballots was predominately for "a progressive."

Bush's vote was scattered through the rural districts where he has labored to build a reputation as the "farmer's friend." He received eight votes in Marion county, however.

The small showing made by Thurman was unexpected in view of the fact that he long has been an active figure in Republican politics and also because of the post he holds as national committeeman.

Yet it must be remembered that Thurman is not an orator and has devoted most of his efforts toward organization.

Frederick E. Schortemeier, former secretary of state and leader on the first three 1928 convention ballots made a surprisingly poor race considering his importance in Republican affairs.

Mayor Sullivan Supported

Marion county crashed through with 22 votes for Mayor Reginald H. Sullivan, who, from all indications, will be the dark-horse candidate in event of a convention deadlock, but he received only one other vote and that came from Morgan county.

Balloting resulted in the following: Democratic: McNutt, 323; Dailey, 107; Sullivan, 23; Mayr, 17; John Fredrick Kokomo manufacturer, and a leading 1928 contender, 7; Mayor Wood Posey of Terre Haute, 6; Mayor George Dale of Muncie, 5; Walter Myers, 4; L. Earl Slack, former mayor of Indianapolis, 2; Arthur Hamrick, 3; Mayor John McCarty of Washington, 3; Albert Stump, 3; Frederick Van Nuy, 3; Chester Montgomery of South Bend, Lee Bays of Sullivan, Seneca S. Walcott, Charles D. Charlton, B. McCulloch and Robert E. Proctor, one apiece.

McNutt obtained a surprising large vote in Marion county when it is remembered that this is the home of Duane Benson, a candidate in the gubernatorial race, and the tabulation sheet reveals that he was accorded 47, against 29 for Dailey; 22 for Sullivan, 2 for Van Nuy, 2 for Myers and 2 for Fredrick.

How Republicans Voted

Republican balloting was: Landis, 131; Thurman, 70; Bush, 42; Schortemeier, 14; Attorney-General James M. Ogden, 9; Charles Jewett, 6; George Ball, 4; Fred Funnell, 2; Ward Hiner, 3; Elsie Siebert, 3; D. Burns Douglas, 3, all from Ft. Wayne; James I. Barnes, 4, all from Logansport; Denver Harlan, 2; and a scattering of single votes for Otto G. Pfieff, Jesse Eschbach, Archie Bobbitt, Arthur Sapp, Lew Bowman, William H. Faust, Clarence Martin, Franklin Littlejohn, James Showalter, James Dunbar, Ralph Gates, Frank Ball, Will Wood, Senator John Alldredge, Arthur Gilliom, George Barnard, Eliza O. Rogers, Emmett Branch, James P. Goodrich and Will Irwin.

One difficulty besetting the Republican delegates was the absence of any focal figure upon whom to concentrate.

There was hardly a county in which McNutt did not get a vote. Reason for the small showing of Dailey is, of course, because it is unknown whether he is a candidate, together with his complete absence from political activity.

The tabulations on the major candidates together with the delegate strength of the counties in which they received votes is shown in a table on this page.

Net information to be derived from the poll on Governor is what has been set out above; the inevitability is a convention battle in both parties. Such a fray in the Democratic meeting depends, of course, upon Dailey's entrance into the field.

Hurt Scoring Grand Slam

PANA, Ill., Jan. 26.—George Casey, local newspaper man, scored a grand slam in a bridge tournament here.

He leaped from his table shouting with glee. But his shout of joy changed quickly to one of pain. In his exuberance he had dislocated one shoulder.

Rare Drug Lacking to Save Doctor's Life

By United Press

ROCK ISLAND, Ill., Jan. 26.—Dr. E. Frank Morrill, woman physician who has devoted her life to philanthropy, was dying today, with little hope that the rare drug cortin could be obtained to counteract her attack of Addison's disease.

One injection of the drug brought a rally to the physician, who is supreme medical director of the Royal Neighbors of America. But her physicians, Drs. Joseph and Edward De Silva, doubted if they could obtain a further supply.

They wired a Buffalo laboratory for more serum, but pointed out eighteen to twenty injections would be required to bring the disease under control. Because it takes 1,200 cattle to produce enough of the drug for one treatment they feared Dr. Morrill could not be saved.

INCEPTION of the disease was thought by the De Silvas to have been in hardships suffered during Dr. Morrill's years of work as a missionary for her society in southern states.

For years she traveled through sparsely settled regions of North Carolina and mountainous West Virginia coal districts. Often she rode muleback. She carried on her ministrations despite bitter weather. Before this, Dr. Morrill had worked in industrial plants in Chicago.

"These hardships," Dr. Joseph De Silva said, "have contributed to progress of the disease."

THOUGH she is herself a physician and had consulted numerous colleagues, Dr. Morrill's ailment was not diagnosed as Addison's disease until two months ago. She was believed to have contracted the malady as long ago as twenty years, and to have been suffering an acute case for three years.

Daughter and sister of physicians, Dr. Morrill went to a sanatorium in Colorado when her condition became serious last fall. She grew worse and returned here in a state of collapse.

She now is in a coma, from which only injections of cortin can rouse her.

UTILITY RATES BOOST CITY'S SCHOOL COST

Cut Would Increase Fund to Repair Buildings, Say Officials.

Utility rates cost the Indianapolis public school system $42,069.32 for the first six months of the school year, July 1 to Dec. 1, it was learned today. Of that about $18,735.55 went for electric costs.

School officials today refused to comment on the expenditures for utility rates, but admitted that a slash there possible would mean the transfer of needed funds to the maintenance and repair division, which is struggling to overcome the "unsafe and insanitary" condition prevailing in many schools.

Water costs for the school system for the first six months amounted to $13,658.40, while gas cost the schools $1,656.66. Telephone bills were $7,928.71.

Shortridge Light Bill

The Shortridge high school electric light bill totaled $1,472.89 for the six months.

Utility costs probably would be higher but for the fact that Technical high school produce part of its own electric power. The Technical bill, it is understood, was only about $700 for the first six months.

Utility bills are paid from the operating fund of the housekeeping department, and H. F. Osler, superintendent of buildings and grounds, also admitted that a rate slash "might prove a Godsend."

"A rate cut," he said, "might mean that we could get some money into our reduced maintenance fund. We certainly could use it. Our budget merely is taking care of routine repairs. We just can't get dilapidated boilers and unsanitary toilet equipment replaced."
