Sunnyside Guild Making Plans for Its Annual Formal Ball

Plans are being made for the twelfth annual formal ball of the Sunnyside guild, always a brilliant affair of the late winter season, Feb. 23, at the Indiana ballroom. A number of box parties already have been formed.

The guild was organized thirteen years ago to furnish help and entertainment for the patients at Sunnyside sanatorium, and has increased its work each year.

One of the first things the guild did was to start a loan closet from which the patients can be supplied with the necessary clothing. Then came a motion picture machine, two pianos, a radio connected with each bed in the sanatorium and the cottages, a public address system for the superintendent to reach each patient, a greenhouse so the patients may have fresh flowers constantly, porch furniture for the nurses home, entertainment and refreshments each month and all holidays.

This past year the guild contributed $2,500 toward the building fund of the nutrition camp at Bridgeport. Then, because of the economic conditions during the past year the guild has taken care of a number of tubercular families who receive a check weekly, besides clothing and food.

The guild appeals to the public only twice during the year. A card party in October and the dance in February. The dance this year promises to surpass previous ones for attendance.

Mrs. Chantilla E. White is general chairman of the dance. Mrs. Wayne O. Stone is chairman of the boxes.

Following hostesses will serve dinner after the program:

Mesdames R. A. Goldsmith, Jesse Kennedy, George Wear, Sheldon Brown, Charles Cole, Howard X. Day, C. C. Leach, George Oberholzer, Charles E. Rhoades, Monroe Shilling and H. E. Young.
