

Styles Cut Shorter in Miami Show

By United Press
MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 5.—"Short Shorts" will be more than description of a fashion mode if styles at Miami Beach continue their upward trend.

Now it's the beach pajamas that are cutting capers, and are evolving with Dutch-boy trouser-lengths, or emerging as beach dresses, with divided skirt reaching to the calves. They cover, as usual, practically nothing in the way of bathing attire, a one-piece mallow or tank suit or a brassiere model.

Styles have gone in for flagwaving, too, this being, as it is, bicentennial year. The "white with bright" idea the fashionists have advocated, has given red and blue sanction to play around together chummily, and they are making much of their liberty.

Gar Wood Watches Parade

Particular attention was paid this week to attire when the Miami and Miami Beach Women's clubs sponsored the annual sunshine fashion show in the Roney Plaza palm garden. Even Gar Wood, who had an hour or so before speeding along Indian creek at 110.73 miles an hour, found feminine styles intriguing enough to draw him there.

Constellations ordinarily have small dealings with handkerchiefs, but that was last year. What star guides you and what zodiacal influences surround you are recorded on linen handkerchiefs these days. If you are a child of Pisces, for instance, and stopping at Miami Beach this winter, you show your smartness by carrying your pictorial pocket square with two fishes printed in your favorite color on your handkerchief.

Around them parade other signs of the zodiac in natural sequence, along with the information you are sympathetic, imaginative and what-ever other what-nots you happen to be, if you're running true to your sign.

Surf Club Gives "Snow" Party

Members of the exclusive Surf Club were impressed Saturday night with the needlessness of joining the marines to see the world. All one has to do is to come to Miami Beach. This was evident when the guests of the club dinner dance arrived to see the patio and the dining rooms transformed into a scene from the Swiss Alps. Two weeks ago the rooms were a glimpse of pre-revolutionary Russia, and a few weeks hence they will exhibit themselves in Italian splendor.

Not only did the St. Moritz ball give an opportunity for the first snowfall—albeit it was artificial—in history at Miami Beach, but it gave dinner hosts occasion for elaborate decorations at their tables. A miniature St. Moritz, with mirror lakes, on which skated tiny figures, the mountain side and the village at its fashionable St. Moritz hotel on the feet, contrived to be more than the center-piece for one dinner party of sixty guests.

Daily Recipe

BAKED ONIONS
IN TOMATO SAUCE

- 10 medium-sized onions
- 3 pints canned tomatoes
- 1 1-2 bay leaf
- 1-2 teaspoon celery seed
- 3 cloves
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 3 tablespoons melted butter, margarine or other fat
- 3 teaspoons salt
- Pepper

Skin the onions, cut in half, simmer in lightly salted water for ten minutes, drain and put in a large baking dish. Cook the tomatoes with the bay leaf, celery seed and cloves for ten minutes, and strain. Blend the flour and melted fat, add to the tomato juice with the salt and pepper, and mix well. Pour over the onions, cover and cook until the onions are tender, about one hour. Serve from the baking dish. Seasoning can, of course, be varied as desired.

Luncheon speaker was the Rev. Ferdinand Q. Blanchard of Euclid Avenue Congregational church, Cleveland, O., who urged wise and intelligent judgment on the problem of birth control.

"Intelligent control of birth is not a perversion of God's will," Mr. Blanchard asserted. "Nor is birth control destined to destroy the joys of parenthood." Rather, Mr. Blanchard believes, they will be increased.

"Condemnation of the practice has come from the older view of life," he said, stating his belief that a growing, developing wisdom will solve the problem.
