

Lemon Pie Always in High Favor

BY SISTER MARY
NEA Service Writer

Lemon pie always is a popular dessert and can be varied in so many ways that it can be served often without becoming monotonous. It's a particularly happy choice at this season of the year when pie "timber" begins to be scarce and the spicy steamed puddings seem a bit too wintry.

LEMON MERINGUE PIE

One cup sugar, 1 lemon, 1 1/2 cups boiling water, 4 tablespoons cornstarch, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 egg, baked pie shell.

Mix and sift sugar, salt and cornstarch. Be sure the cornstarch is completely blended with the sugar. Add grated rind of lemon. Add boiling water, stirring vigorously. Cook and stir until mixture is clear.

Add lemon juice and yolk of egg, beat well and remove from fire. Let cool and turn into a baked pie shell. Beat white of egg with 2 tablespoons cold water and a few grains of salt until stiff but not dry.

Fold in 3 tablespoons sifted granulated sugar and spread roughly over lemon filling. Put in a cold oven for fifteen minutes to color and puff the meringue.

The meringue will not "weep" if the filling is cool before covering.

Lemon sponge pie is made rich with eggs and provides a quite nourishing dessert. It is suitable to serve with a fish dinner or for luncheon, but should not follow a heavy meat course.

Lemon Sponge Pie

One and one-fourth cups sugar, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 tablespoon butter, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 3 eggs, 1 cup water, 1 lemon, plain pastry.

Line a deep pie dish with plain pastry. Mix and sift sugar, flour and salt. Rub in butter and add grated rind and juice of lemon. Mix thoroughly and add yolks of eggs beaten until thick and lemon colored. Add water and beat with a rotary beater.

Beat whites of eggs on a platter with a wire whisk until stiff and dry. Fold into first mixture and turn into pastry-lined pie dish. Bake in a hot oven for ten minutes. Reduce heat and bake forty minutes in a slow oven.

Lemon Bavarian Pie is really a Bavarian cream served in a baked pie shell. It's a delectable dessert to serve to your bridge club. The banana can be omitted if preferred.

Lemon Bavarian Pie

One cup sugar, 1/2 cup orange juice, 1/2 cup lemon juice, 1/2 cup boiling water, 1 1/2 tablespoons gelatin, 1/2 cup cold water, 1 banana, 1 cup whipping cream, baked pie shell.

Combine lemon and orange juices and add banana cut in thin slices. Add sugar and let stand while baking pie shell. Soak gelatin in cold water for five minutes.

Add boiling water and stir until gelatin is dissolved. Add sugar mixture and stir until sugar is dissolved. Let stand until mixture begins to thicken. Beat until frothy with a rotary beater.

Fold in cream whipped until firm. Chill until mixture begins to set. Turn into baked pie shell and chill until firm before serving.

RECENT BRIDE IS HONORED AT PARTY

Miss Patricia Worthall entertained Tuesday night at her home with a miscellaneous shower in honor of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Michael A. Worthall, a recent bride. Decorations were in pink and white. The hostess was assisted by her mother, Mrs. Leon E. Worthall. Other guests were:

Mrs. E. R. Artman, Delmer Turman, John Carl Hunter, J. E. Dickerson, Misses Lucy Bailey, Jean Greenlee, Betty Bailey and Katha Larson.

Coat to Jacket

If you have a fur coat which is worn at the bottom and around the neck, cut it off and make a short, collarless jacket for spring.

Daily Recipe CURRIED FISH

- 2 pounds large fish
- 4 tablespoons butter or other fat
- 1 tablespoon chopped green pepper
- 1 small onion, chopped
- 1-4 cup chopped celery
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 2 cups liquor from simmered fish
- 1-2 to 1 teaspoon curry powder
- 3 drops tabasco sauce
- Salt to taste
- 2 tablespoons chopped parsley

Simmer the fish about ten minutes in a small quantity of water, in a shallow pan; then drain. Meanwhile melt the fat and cook the green pepper, onion and celery a few minutes; add the flour and the cooled fish liquor, with water, if necessary, to bring the quantity up to two cups. Cook three or four minutes, and add the seasonings, and stir constantly. Remove the skin and bones from the cooked fish, arrange on a hot platter with a border of flaky rice, pour the sauce over the fish and sprinkle the parsley on top.

—WHAT'S IN FASHION?—

A Rule for Well-Dressed Men

Directed by AMOS FARRISH

NEW YORK, March 3.—You've seen a man dressed in such good taste that you hardly knew what he had on, except that it all suited to a T. That didn't just happen. That man has not been afraid to study his type—and dress it.

Take a keen young business man we know. Very young, in fact. But he's caught his cue—to dress so that he looks more mature. Assured. Dependable. Which means leaving out anything trick. Conservatively cut, gray suit. A tab collar shirt, because it's a little more formal than the soft collar kind. Gives him a bit more dignity. Fine striped . . . sometimes white.

Wears Quiet Tie

Then he doesn't cancel the whole effect with a billboard tie and conspicuous shoes. A quiet, all-over design for the tie—probably in blue—and black or brown welt tip shoes go best with everything else.

When he goes to lunch, you see him slide into a fly front Chesterfield coat and top off with a flat bowler-type derby, or if not that, and up-brimmed gray soft hat.

And mind you—he's not all by himself in his idea. Count 'em sometime . . . you'll find he's one of many who are stretching twenty-year-old birthday to look like thirty, during the business day.

The Business Executive

It's when men reach the later 30 or 40 that they can afford to be a little more individual. And we really mean "afford."

For as soon as you wear more individual clothes you have to have more of them. Unless you want to be known as "the man in the striped suit."

So men of 30 to 40 show up one day in plain suits and the next in smart pin stripes or plaids.

They're likely to go in for turned-up brim felt hats and topcoats of herringbone tweed. All a little informal, because they don't have to worry about their looking like ruddy school boys.

The Professional Man

How about the banker—the doctor—the judge—any man of the older, portly professional type? We've noticed that he looks best—dressed in a dark suit with pin stripes to lead your eye up and down. He can go in for dignity in large doses . . . so he wears a plain white shirt and starched white collar.

If you're thinking, "Wonder what type I ought to dress to" . . . take a long look in the mirror . . . think what you do and what you like . . . and what you'd like to look like!

Then choose everything from hat to shoes in keeping with that type. Ten to one you'll be right.

MANNERS AND MORALS By JANE JORDAN

TALK out your troubles with Jane Jordan. She will give your case her careful personal attention and answer your questions in this column.

Dear Jane Jordan—For four years I've been going with a very nice boy, whom I love dearly and he loves me. But does a girl have to have a diamond to be considered? I am, and I have no diamond.

He gives my mother and sisters and brother provisions and fuel. He takes mother with us sometimes. She doesn't seem to understand what he has done for us and she talks very mean to us both. She seems jealous or fear I'll get married and not give her my money, but now I'm badly in need of some clothes and my mother goes with a widower who has three girls. I have four sisters and one brother. Please tell me exactly how you feel about this.

PATTY ANN.
Dear Patty Ann—I think you should pay your mother a legitimate amount for board and keep the rest of your money for yourself. If you want to marry the boy, you should do so, and live by yourselves. If he has helped your mother when it was not compulsory, in spite of her ingratitude, he is a pretty good boy and probably will do what he can for her after your marriage. Whatever you do, don't risk your happiness by living with her. No, a girl does not have to have a diamond to be engaged, as you have demonstrated.

Dear Jane Jordan—I appreciate your advice to snap out of loving a girl who has ceased to love me. I would if I could. I have tried desperately for two years and it has been a losing battle. I can not keep sweet memories out of my mind. I really do need help, for contrary to outward appearances, my night gets at times. I can not go to any one for help, because I'm a long way past 21 and would probably get laughed at.

I have only two rays of hope. One is that she comes back. The other is that some girl with a sympathetic understanding will stumble across my pain and take charge of me and treat the wound as just a woman can. Then I never would regret the year that the wound has left, for I know that for whoever here this hurt there is a broader and deeper love. Yours with a CHUCKLE.

Dear Chuckle—Your salvation lies in your second hope, which you can realize if you make the effort. I've had several letters from you, all of which were interesting, and I hope to have several more. Remember the cynic who said that love is the illusion that one woman differs from another.

Haven't you girls who doubt the fidelity and sincerity of men anything to say to Chuckle? Boiling

A Day's Menu

Breakfast—Baked bananas, cereal, cream, baked French toast, marmalade, milk, coffee.

Luncheon—Spinach souffle with mushroom sauce, baking powder biscuits, radishes, rice and pineapple dessert, milk, tea.

Savory chicken stew, twice

Dinner—baked sweet potatoes, salad of mixed greens with Roquefort cheese dressing, apricot charlotte, milk, coffee.

PECULIAR

By HELEN WELSHIMER

AND this I should call Heaven—
A little house apart,
Up the road, or down the road . . .
If it held your heart.

A FIRE-BRIGHT room for winter,
A wind lost in a tree,
Three words you have whispered
That made a world for me.

FOR it is most peculiar
That Heaven comes from this:
The thrill of arms close-clinging,
The wonder of your kiss.
