

Find the SARAH SOLOMON IS DEAD AT 94; RITES TUESDAY

Pioneer City Woman Had Ambition to Attain Century Mark.

Death Sunday claimed Mrs. Sarah Solomon, 94, 37 West Fall Creek boulevard, known to her friends and relatives as "Aunt Sally," who failed to realize her last ambition—to live to be 100.

Mrs. Solomon, who came to Indianapolis from the city was in its infancy, would have been 96 if she had lived until July 25. She was born in London, England, and was brought here by her parents when she was a baby.

Seven years ago, then in good health, she told friends she was going to have a "really big celebration" when she reached 100. She was a member of Temple Sisterhood and the Council of Jewish Women.

The funeral will be conducted by Rabbi Milton Steinberg at 11:30 Tuesday morning at the Flanner & Buchanan mortuary. Burial will be in the Hebrew Congregation cemetery.

Mrs. Harriet Stanton Dies
Illness of five months resulted in the death of Mrs. Harriet Alice Stanton, 83, in the Methodist hospital Saturday. A resident of the city for twenty years, she had been active in affairs of the Roberts Park M. E. church of which she was a member.

Last rites will be held at 1:30 Tuesday afternoon in the Shirley Brothers' chapel, 946 North Illinois street. Burial will be in Crown Hill cemetery.

William McKee, 85, resident of the city for fifty-five years and a dealer on the Indianapolis Stock Exchange for two decades, died Friday at his home, 248 North Oakland avenue. He retired in 1926.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock in the Harry W. Moore mortuary, 2050 East Michigan street. Burial was to be in Crown Hill cemetery.

Mrs. Catherine Amos Dead
Mrs. Catherine Amos, 76, native of Newport, Ky., and resident of this city seventy years, died Saturday afternoon at her home, 248 North Oakland avenue. She was a member of the First Lutheran church, of which Mrs. Amos was a member.

Last rites for Thomas E. Simpson, 73, who died Saturday in the Methodist hospital, were to be held at 2 o'clock at his home in Old Augusta. Burial will be in the Williams Creek cemetery.

UTILITIES CONTROL IS URGED BY WEISS

House Member, in Race for State Senate Seat, Cites Program.

A three-point utility control plan was outlined by Jacob Weiss, Indianapolis attorney today, when he announced for the Democratic nomination for state senator.

Weiss, who is a state representative from Marion county, declared that in order to prevent continued gouging of consumers by public utilities, the public service commission law should be strengthened. He said the commission should be granted authority over holding companies and statutes liberalized to make it easier for municipalities to own and operate utilities.

As a member of the house of representatives during the 1931 session, Weiss was in the fight to strengthen the public service commission act in order to provide for better control of the utility companies and aided in calling attention to the irregularities in the passage of House Bill 6.

He wrote and introduced the bill, which passed under suspension of the rules, giving delinquent taxpayers a one-year moratorium and also favored measures to reduce governmental expenses through consolidation of townships.

Actively concerned in social legislation, Weiss rewrote and led in the fight for passage of the measure.

ROBINSON TO SUPPORT PUBLIC UTILITIES CURB

Johnson Bill Requires Appeal to State, Rather Than U. S. Court.

Support of the Johnson bill before the United States senate, which would require public utilities to take appeals from public service commission decisions to state, rather than federal, courts, has been pledged by Senator Arthur R. Robinson, Indianapolis commission members said today.

Robinson's stand was revealed in a telegram to the commission Saturday after commissioners advocating its passage in a wired support plea last week of the senate judiciary committee, of which Robinson is a member.

Indiana commissioners supporting the measure are Frank Singleton, Howell Ellis and Harry K. Cuthbertson, with Commissioners John W. McCord and Jere West refusing to join.
