

Clubwomen Plan Spring Conventions

To the vast army of club women spring is a harbinger of their national sessions. With the approach of Easter and the windup of the winter's activities, their thoughts turn to new officers, new policies, and joint discussion of national questions of the day.

First big national convention on the horizon is the forty-first annual conference of the National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution, which will be held at Constitution hall in Washington, D. C., in April. Mrs. Russell William Magna, Holyoke, Mass., so far is unopposed candidate for president-general.

National League of Women Voters will meet in Detroit the week of April 25 for its biennial session. Miss Belle Sherwin is national president.

General Federation Hies West

June will bring the biennial convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, which will be held in Seattle, Wash. This will be the first year since 1924 that the federation has held a convention on the west coast, and a large attendance is expected.

Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole, Brockton, Mass., first vice-president, is unopposed candidate for president, to succeed Mrs. John F. Sipple, Baltimore, whose four-year administration will close with this session.

All candidates for offices have been presented formally by their state federations. Mrs. Edward Hammett, Sheboygan, Wis., is unopposed for treasurer, which office she now holds, and Mrs. Sadie Orr Durbar, Portland, Ore., is unopposed for recording secretary to succeed Mrs. Henry C. Taylor, Bloomfield, Ia.

Two Seek Vice-Presidency

Mrs. Eugene Lawson, Tulsa, Okla., second vice-president, and Mrs. Taylor are candidates for first vice-president, and Mrs. Clarence Frain of Wilmington, Del.; Mrs. Edward M. Land, North Carolina; Mrs. W. E. Minier, Oakland, Neb., and Dr. Josephine L. Pierce, Lima, O., are candidates for second vice-president.

Mrs. Thomas Brooks, Bedford, transportation chairman for Indiana, has announced that the Indiana delegation will join groups of clubwomen from Kentucky, Minnesota, Iowa and Illinois in Chicago. The Indianapolis group will leave here at 5 Sunday, June 5, for Chicago, where it will meet the Empire Builders, which will leave for the west at 10:45 the same night.

Still another important national convention will be that of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, which will meet at the Mayflower in Washington, April 12 and 13.

MANNERS AND MORALS By JANE JORDAN

If you have a personal story you would like to tell, write to Jane Jordan. She will be glad to advise you or to comment upon the things which puzzle you. Your letters will be answered in this column.

Dear Jane Jordan—I am a bride of two weeks, married to a man I love, who loves me. I am anxious to make our marriage a success. Now we are in the honeymoon stage, but I'm so afraid I can keep things the way they are now forever and ever?

Dear Bride—Not exactly. You can be happy with your husband forever and ever, but only if you do not expect to repeat the pattern of the honeymoon month after month and year after year. Even love-making grows monotonous if it never varies. Nor is it necessary to keep your emotions at fever pitch to enjoy life.

The honeymoon is unlike any other period in married life, because it is the only time when both partners are absolutely new to each other. By no possible miracle can you remain perpetually new. Merely by process of living together, the time is bound to come when you know each other like a book.

It is in the nature of things that familiarity with your husband's voice will bring you to the point where you cease to jump at his foot when you hear him speak.

Conversely, he will not always be in the mood to make perpetual love to you. The fact is that just now you are out of proportion in his life. You are over-emphasized because of your newness.

If you want your marriage to be a howling success, don't kick and scream when you drop out of the spotlight and make your normal place among his other interests.

Remember that there are times when the most devoted husband finds it impossible to make love to his wife. Men have told me that at intervals it becomes positively painful to be obliged to say "I love you," even to the dearest woman on earth. They require a relief from the role of suitor and like to rest on their laurels occasionally.

If you wisely will excuse your husband from the necessity of assuming a loveable attitude when he is not in the mood for it, you will find him nine times as ardent when his emotions arise from their rest. You would not expect him to be pleasant when sorely in need of a physical rest, so why demand him to be loving when he is equally in need of emotional quietude?

If you will share his interests as well as his kisses, if you will follow his pursuits as well as his heart throbs, if you will make yourself interesting to him mentally as well as physically, if you will recognize that he needs a change from you as well as a change from the office, you have a good chance to renew your present ecstasy from attend.

BANDITS ATTACK MEXICAN TRAIN, BUT LOSE FIGHT

Americans Escape Injury as Troop Escort Repulses Outlaw Band.

By United Press

MEXICO CITY, March 21.—An appeal for federal aid to quell an armed uprising of "fanatics" in the state of Queretaro, where soldiers fought a pitched battle with bandits, who wrecked and attacked a fast passenger train with American passengers aboard, was reported here today.

The train wrecked in Queretaro is one of the fastest operated by the National Railways. It connects with the Sunshine Special of the Missouri Pacific at Laredo, on the American border.

The military escort aboard the train repulsed the bandits after thirty minutes fighting. No foreign passengers were injured.

One bandit was killed and one soldier was wounded in the fighting. An express messenger aboard the train was killed when the locomotive, two express cars, one second-class and one first-class passenger coach were overturned where the bandits had torn up part of the track.

Three of the Americans aboard the train were from Chicago: W. E. Tingle, G. V. McCarthy and P. R. Stinson.

Bullets fired by the bandits struck the car in which the Chicagoans and others from the United States were traveling.

McCarthy said he watched the bandit attack from a window of the Pullman until the ported pulled him down and told him to lie in the aisle with other passengers.

He said only the heroic resistance of the eight soldiers, commanded by Lieutenant Pedro Ruiz, prevented the bandits, number about thirty, from looting the train.

ACCIDENT VICTIM WINS JUDGMENT FOR $5,000

Young Woman, Blind, Was Struck by Coca-Cola Company Truck.

Miss Dottie Wheeler, Marion, a former student of Indiana School for Blind, today holds a judgment for $5,000 against the Coca-Cola Bottling Works of Indianapolis and its president, James S. The machine was driven by Merle Ashley, and Yunkers was riding with him.

The judgment is the result of a jury verdict returned Saturday in Hamilton circuit court at Noblesville, where Miss Wheeler's suit for damages was heard on a change of venue from Marion county. Her counsel was Raymond Murray of Indianapolis.

Miss Wheeler, who is blind, suffered a fractured ankle and a spine injury. She is a student in Ball State Teachers college, Muncie.
