

KITE BUILDERS WILL COMPETE AT SCHOOL 20

Pupils Are Busy Preparing for Variety of Contests to Be Held Friday.

Education via kites. That's the latest thing at school No. 20, at 1125 Spruce street, where pupils and teachers, fathers and mothers are busy preparing for the big kite contest to be held Friday. From the homes in the vicinity of the school will come the entries for the honor of being the largest, the smallest, the most beautiful, the oddest, or the best flying kite. Scarcely a father in the neighborhood but must arrive home in the evening with a new consignment of string, sticks, paper or glue.

Both Boys and Girls Compete. Boys and girls alike are eligible to compete for honors. Only two conditions must be met by contestants. The kite must be proven in the air before it is entered, and no kite may be flown from the street. Preparations for the gala day have been feverish. Pupils who have been a trifle sluggish in reading their history books in the past, now anxiously can reference books on "Kites of Other Lands" or "The Development of the Kite Through the Centuries."

Reading Has Improved. Teachers at the school state that the contest has aroused interest in history, geography and social science. In addition, it has been noted that the reading ability of the pupils—their speed and thoroughness—has increased remarkably. Principal and teachers have answered hundreds of questions as to the best book on kite construction. Books describing the famous kites of history have been much in demand. They'll have a "high" time at school No. 20 Friday.

MANUAL WRITERS IN NATION-WIDE CONTEST

Twenty-Two Enter Stories, Essays or Poems in Magazine Event.

Twenty-two Manual Training high school pupils have entered short stories, essays or poems in the national scholastic contest, sponsored by the scholastic magazine. The contest is open to all high school pupils in the United States.

Pupils entering short stories are Merle Faubion, Raymond Meyer, Rachel Cohen, Victor Calderon, Eileen Davis and Herbert Neidenberger.

Those submitting essays are Elizabeth Miller, Hilda Bookatman, Louisa Paul, Oliver Stout, Irene Graham, Joe Calderon, Helen Meyer, Lucille Miller, Glen Roberts and Robert McDaniels.

Poems were entered in the contest by Adrienne Fisher, Eileen Davis, Ethel Lyons, Dick Edwards and Joe Calderon.

Winner of first prize in the contest will be awarded $50. A certificate will be given to the pupil who submits the best short story in Indiana. This award was won last year by Anna Calderon of Manual Training high school.

FIVE TECH GIRLS ARE IN LIBRARY CLASS

Cataloging and Lending Books Is Big Part of Their Work.

Five girls are enrolled this semester in the library practice course at Arsenal Technical high school. Cataloging and lending of books constitutes the majority of the work done. New girls in the course are Frances Brown, Sara Bell Wells, Adeline Walker, Katherine French and Cleo Carter.

Those who have completed the course and now are on staff duty are Mary Stevens, Mary Williams, Evelyn Shipman and Gracena Sherwood.

Dorothy Dilworth, Elva Henderson, Roberta Auble, Albert Ruffe, Helen Storer, Catherine Duke, Elaine Washburn, Kathryn Knepper, Betty Jane Burt, Josephine Miller, Grace Calverton, Kathryn, Gene Hall, Anne Abrams, Evelyn Miller, Martha Connor, Gertrude Essie, Josephine Williams and Betty Stump.

Miss Lyle Harter is librarian and Mrs. Frieda Patton is assistant librarian.

U. S. STUDENTS INVITED

Summer Courses Are Offered to Attract Americans.

San Marcos university of Lima, Peru, the oldest university in the western hemisphere, will offer summer courses especially designed to attract American students this summer.

Colleagues from the United States will be able to study Spanish, Latin American literature, Peruvian archeology and Latin American affairs.

The summer school is to be sponsored by the Institute of International Education. Dr. Stephen P. Duggan is director.

WORK FOR SWEATERS

Names of Five Girls Are Posted by Shortridge Athletic Organization.

The girl's athletic organization at Shortridge, the Philatone Club, has posted the list of names of the girls who have gained at least 500 points toward a Shortridge sweater. They are Mary Houppert, June Siebert, Evelyn King, June Wayland and Margaret Richey.

The three charter members of the club who have already worn their sweaters are Charlotte Spuh, Jeanne Spiegel and Lois Le Saulnier.

The club has also posted its new plans for admission to the club.

PLAN MAY DAY PARTY

PRINCIPAL HAS 43 ASSISTANTS

Pupils Serve Half Hour a Week at School 49.

Few are the bank presidents who have as many as forty assistants. Fewer still are the presidents with assistants who feel honored to have the job.

But practically every grade school principal in Indianapolis has forty or more assistants who attend to such office work as answering the telephone, meeting visitors, and doing errands at the building.

Miss Dorothy Pennington, principal of school No. 49, at 1902 West Morris street, has forty-three assistants who are pupils in the sixth, seventh and eighth grades. Each pupil serves as assistant for half an hour, once a week.

Eighth grade pupils who are assistants are:

Lawrence Owens, Elizabeth Leekamp, Alfred Jenkins, Marion Willoughby, Dora Miller, Clara Fox, Margaret Morris, Gladys Swinford, Bertha Jones, Robert Ford, Leola Steele, Margaret Kirk, Bonnie Wilson, Florence Beaver, Margaret Dunn, Nathan Steele, Elmer Schuchman, Harold McLaughlin and Mary Wright.

Those submitting essays are Elizabeth Miller, Hilda Bookatman, Louisa Paul, Oliver Stout, Irene Graham, Joe Calderon, Helen Meyer, Lucille Miller, Glen Roberts and Robert McDaniels.

Poems were entered in the contest by Adrienne Fisher, Eileen Davis, Ethel Lyons, Dick Edwards and Joe Calderon.

FEEDS 2,200 DAILY

Shortridge Cafeteria Head Has Held Post 14 Years.

Fourteen years of well-fed Shortridge-ites is the record of Mrs. Len Craig, 67 Whittier place, who has charge of the Shortridge high school cafeteria, with Mrs. Florence C. Porter, school dietitian.

The cafeteria feeds approximately 2,200 pupils and teachers daily. Thirteen hundred persons were fed at each of the two Parent-Teacher Association banquets in the cafeteria this year.

Fifty-one pupils and thirty adults and thirty adults assist Mrs. Craig. Twelve thousand dishes and nine thousand pieces of silverware are used daily.

Mrs. Craig's weekly order includes one-half ton of beef, five hundred loaves of bread, three thousand half-pints of milk, four hundred gallons of ice cream and seven hundred pies. She serves 6,000 sandwiches and 2,500 salads to hungry pupils every week.

Edward's mother was Lady Jane Seymour and Elizabeth's was Anne Boleyn. Prince Edward had another sister, Mary, who had still another sister, Catharine of Aragon.

Henry had six wives, two of whom he divorced, thus causing the great rift between England and Rome. Two of them he beheaded, but Edward's mother died when she gave her husband the greatest desire of his life—a son.

Edward did not greatly resemble his arrogant, self-indulgent father, who regarded his son and heir with a sort of idolatry. Holbein's picture was painted when he was only 15 months old and does not show the frail health which is so marked in later pictures.

When you realize the restraint and formality which surrounded Edward the pained look in his face as he grew older is not surprising.

Even at the time Holbein painted his baby portrait the tiny prince had his own household—a noble lady housekeeper, a nurse, chamberlain, comptroller, almoner and even rockers of the royal cradle! Later on he had a whipping boy who, if Edward misbehaved, was given a good lashing in his stead. It is fortunate for the whipping boy that the prince was well behaved.

Edward was thoughtful, studious and precocious. When he was 8 years old he wrote to Archbishop Crommer in Latin. At 9 he knew four books of Cato by heart as well as a great deal of the Bible.

He didn't have much fun and before he was 10 years old his father died and he became king of England.

ABOUT the only playmate he enjoyed, if so serious a little king could enjoy himself, was his beautiful young cousin, Lady Jane Gray. When Edward made his will, he passed over his sisters Mary and Elizabeth and named Lady Jane as his successor. Poor boy, he did not know he was condemning her to death. For the beautiful and talented girl who did not want to be queen reigned only ten days.

Then Mary, who became queen, beheaded her. King Edward had died a short time before at the age of 16 in the seventh year of his reign.

Holbein, who was born in Germany, became court painter to Henry VIII in 1532. His likeness

PLAN TREE PLANTING

Pupils to Observe Arbor Day, Honor Washington.

Dual observance of the George Washington bicentennial and Arbor day will be held April 8 at school No. 49, at 1902 West Morris street, when the pupils of the school will plant an American white elm tree.

Opening the planting ceremony will be the singing of "America," by school pupils.

John Fullen, 6A pupil, of 2013 Jones street, will recite a poem, "What Do We Do When We Plant a Tree?" by Abbey. Following this, the departmental classes will sing "Under the Greenwood Tree."

Nathan Steele, 1225 Hiatt street, president of the 8A Civics club, will make the speech of dedication, telling of the purpose and significance of tree-planting.

To close the program, the intermediate classes will sing "Trees," by Joyce Kilmer.

SCHOOLS WILL CLOSE FOR SPRING VACATION

Repairs Will Be Made to Buildings During Recess Next Week.

More than 57,000 Indianapolis school children will leave the city's schools Friday afternoon for a week of spring vacation. They will return to school April 4.

Of the 57,000, approximately 42,500 are grade school pupils. Warning is given to all motorists to use added caution in their driving will be made later in the week.

Repairs will be made to school buildings during the week's vacation, school officials announced. H. F. Osler, superintendent of buildings and grounds, is planning to replace old equipment in many buildings.

CITY WILL SEND DELEGATION TO MUSIC PARLEY

Teachers and Pupils Will Depict Indianapolis Instruction Ideas.

Indianapolis school pupils and teachers will play a prominent part in the National Music Supervisors' conference, which will be held in Cleveland, April 3 to 9.

The conference will attract approximately 5,000 persons interested in public school music education from all parts of the United States. Ralph W. Wright, director of music, will attend the conference. Others in the department may go to the conclave, but their names have not been announced.

Pupils in the Washington high school music department will go to the conference to sing in the national chorus, which will be made up of pupils from high schools in all parts of the country. The pupils who will attend have not been chosen. They will be announced later by Miss Etta Sherf of the Washington high music department.

Depict City Schools' Work

Members of the music department have been collecting material which will depict work of Indianapolis pupils in music. This will be sent to Cleveland to become part of the educational exhibit, which will aim to show what is being done in the teaching of music in the United States.

Original poems and drawings, which were stimulated by listening to music will be sent as examples of creative work.

Pictures will go to the exhibit. They will show choruses, rhythm bands, glee clubs, and other musical organizations in the schools. Programs of the Orloff trio and the Indianapolis symphony orchestra will show that school children have opportunities to hear the best of music.

Clearing House for Ideas

Radio programs which have been presented by the music department over the radio during the public schools' weekly half-hour broadcast will be shown.

Indianapolis is among the leaders in public school radio programs.

The conference aims to be a clearing house for new ideas in music teaching.

"The conference always is a great aid to those attending," Wright said. "It sums up music teaching as it is all over the country."

PUPILS' HANDICRAFT SHOWN AT LIBRARY

Billy Winningham Jr.

"Gosh, could a fellow have a good time around a place like that or not?" sighs Billy Winningham Jr., 310 East North street, Apartment 1, as he calculates with his eye the space at Mt. Vernon available for playing marbles and flying kites.

Billy Jr. is studying the miniature replica of Washington's home on display at the handicraft fair in the central public library.

The model was built by S. Dale Jay, a pupil at school No. 58. It won first prize in the 1931 realtors' home show contest.

Practically every grade school in Indianapolis is represented by an exhibit in the handicraft fair, being held this week in the Crosey auditorium of the library. Hundreds of articles, made by school children, are included in the display.

Wide Variety of Talent Is Shown in Exhibit, Open All Week.

Outstanding among the panels, wall hangings, clay models, maps and other examples of popular handicraft are a colorful map of Indiana, a group project of the eighth grade, school No. 43, to illustrate outstanding events in Indiana history.

Research for the map was done in the public library and the museum. There are molded masks of paper-mache representing different industries sent in from school No. 5; block prints and plaques in original designs from school No. 17; a miniature model of Mt. Vernon made by S. Dale Jay, school No. 58, which was first prize winner in the Realtors' Home Show contest of 1931.

There are knights and cowboys modeled in clay by Henry Ford Gaines, school No. 14; crayoned wall hangings on muslin or conventional designs from the seventh grade, school No. 47; sixth grade, school No. 2, and seventh grade, school No. 57.

Original designs crayoned on muslin have been submitted by Louise Voltrath, Mary Green, Marjorie Love and Donald Carson at school No. 34, and clever little eccentric animals from grade 4 at school No. 34, among them include giraffes, wild zebras and griffons that never were on land or sea.

There are soap carvings from schools Nos. 75, 78 and 54; tiles decorated by the fourth grade, school No. 29; colorful panels, one a Russian peasant group and interior to illustrate a geography lesson from school No. 4, another decorative medieval panel and a Greek panel from school No. 58.

A framed colored panel to illustrate European costumes and architecture comes from the sixth grade, school No. 29, and a puppet stage and puppets illustrating "The Frog Prince" has been sent in from the 8A at school No. 38.

Many other entries are in the exhibit, too numerous to mention. The fair is open to the public. Doors are open from 9 in the morning until 6 at night.

TAKE TEST ON LEAGUE

Manual Pupils Study Work in Special Class.

Seven pupils of Manual Training high school, who have been studying the history of the League of Nations for the last three weeks in a special class conducted by E. F. Moore of the history department, took a test last week at the close of the course.

The two best papers in the test will be sent to New York where they will be judged along with others from all parts of the United States.

First prize in the national competition will be a trip to Europe. Pupils at Manual, who took the course, were Margaret Bourgogne, Lola Marsh, June Nackenhof, Augusta McCray, Philip Fogle, Louis Goldman and Samuel Gordon.

Scholarship Contest Open

A $500 scholarship to any college or university in the United States is being offered by Antioch college, Yellow Springs, O., for the best essay on "What Is College For?" The contest is open to high school seniors who stand in the upper third of their classes.

MISS CROZIER WILL SPEAK ON WKBF PROGRAM

'Busybodies and Better Boys,' Topic of Physical Education Chief.

Miss Ada B. Crozier, acting head of the physical education department of the public schools, will speak on "Busybodies and Better Boys" during the twenty-fourth weekly half-hour broadcast of the public schools from 9 to 9:30 tonight over WKBF.

Tommy Wright, a pupil of school No. 41, will play three piano solos. His selections will be "Nocturne Opus 9, No. 2," by Chopin; "Bluetie," by McDowell, and "Butterfly," by Grieg.

Billy Jolly of school No. 85 will play three banjo solos, "Stars and Stripes Forever," by Sousa, and "Echoes From Dixie" and "Dixie Ruben," southern folk songs.

Alice Adella Hite, a pupil of school No. 57, will play a group of piano solos, "Hungary" by Koelling, "Mazurka" by Chopin, and "Salfeggio" by Bach.

Two elementary school pupils will give readings. Ruth Pope of school No. 40 will give "Epimondos" and Jimmy Carlin, a pupil of school No. 66, will present "Changing Places" and "Books."

The school ship of the air, which sails at 9:35 three mornings a week, will go to Wyoming Friday, to New Mexico Monday, and to Arizona next Wednesday.

PUPILS DRAMATIZING GROUP OF STORIES

Characters Are Black Cardboard Figures Moving Against Light.

Pupils in the 3A-4B grade at school No. 76, College avenue and Thirtieth street, are dramatizing a group of stories.

Characters in their dramas are black cardboard figures which move in silhouette against a background of light. Scenes are painted in black on white cloth, so that the figures controlled by wires, are
