

BUDGET APPEAL PLACES GARNER IN HERO'S ROLE

Texan Is 'Happiest Man in Washington.' He's Old Self Again.

BY RAY TUCKER
Times Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, March 30.—Speaker John N. Garner is the happiest man in the capital today. After suffering silently for two weeks from attacks holding him responsible for legislative and financial chaos, he now is the recipient of nonpartisan congratulations for his dramatic demand that the house demonstrate to the country its determination to "balance the budget."

With everybody on both sides of the aisle rising in response to his impromptu request that they signify their business-like intentions, the Speaker believes he has convinced the doubters that the wisdom and patriotism of the house over which he presides, equal its predecessors.

Regardless of the effect on his own fortunes, which he will not discuss, he thinks the psychological effect will restore confidence everywhere.

"Of course we will write a tax bill that will balance the budget, and a good one," he said later. "But most important of all is the notice the house has given, by its nonpartisan stand, that it means to preserve American credit through balancing the budget—through paying our current expenses out of taxes."

He now is more like the good-natured, grinning Garner members of the lower chamber have come to love since he entered it in 1903. Instead of secluding himself in his office, he sits on the leather lounge in the house corridor, and jokes with "the boys." He shakes hands, beams upon his colleagues with his infectious grin, and strolls through the cloakrooms to make sure he has missed no hand that wanted to grasp his.

Some political observers believe he may regain much of the presidential strength his earlier grip on the house won for him. His comeback in the face of bipartisan revolt obviously has captured the imagination of important members of the house and the Democratic party. In the gallery as "Jack" voiced his almost tearful plea was John F. Curry, leader of Tammany Hall, who already has conceived a great admiration for the Speaker. Afterward, Curry praised Garner for his courage and the skill with which he transformed a rebellious group into one which hastened to accept the ways and means committee's substitute proposal for the sales tax.

BOND GOUGE AGAINST RURAL BANKS CHARGED

Forced to Buy Securities Which Have Shrunk, Comptroller Told

By United Press

WASHINGTON, March 30.—Rural national banks in the north-west are being compelled to invest their money in bonds, thereby restricting them in making local loans, Representative Harold Knutson (Rep. Minn.) charged today in a letter to J. W. Folie, comptroller of the currency. Similar complaints are coming from other sections of the country. In a previous exchange of letters with Knutson, Folie pointed out that national bank examiners have been instructed to be as lenient with banks as circumstances would allow, but indicated that depositors' interests have to be the first consideration.

Knutson said in his letter today that throughout Folie's incumbency, "it has been the policy to compel the banks to invest their funds in bonds, and I know of a number of instances where your office made banks buy bonds which since have shown a tremendous shrinkage."

Also on the banquet program were the Butler male quartet, George Loxey, xylophonist, and Cecil Byrne, juggler.

HANDSOME LAD, GREAT ARTIST PRODUCE PAINTING OF WIDE FAME

BY ALICE ROHE
Written for NEA Service

W HAT luck! At 6 years to have a pony and go galloping over a beautiful country! No regular boy or girl can look at this picture without a twinge of longing.

And the handsome 6-year-old who sits so proudly on the sturdy pony, waving his marshal's baton with childish grace and dignity, rides straight into the hearts of grown-up people also. That is because the painter was a great artist and the boy a fine character. The combination has given us one of the most famous child portraits in the world.

The small equestrian is Prince Baltazar Carlos, son and heir of King Philip IV of Spain. How perfectly the artist has blended just the right degree of pride with childish charm!

He revealed too, the high spirit which might have saved Spain from disaster if the little boy ever had come to the throne.

Isabella of Bourbon, daughter of Henry IV and Marie de Medici, was his mother and he inherited her intelligence and understanding as well as her dark beauty. In neither character nor appearance did he resemble his father's house with the heavy Austrian jaw and dull, melancholy gray-blue eyes.

How the Spanish people loved to see him prancing by on his pony. They called him "the beloved prince" and it is safe to say no royal child was ever so adored.

260,000 VOTES ARE WON OVER FOR ROOSEVELT

State Liquor Option Also Approved at Parley of Democrats.

By United Press

DAVENPORT, Ia., March 30.—Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York today added Iowa's twenty-six delegates to the list of those supporting his candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination.

The Roosevelt endorsement came after a turbulent state convention, which also adopted a resolution favoring submission of a state option prohibition amendment to the states through constitutional conventions.

Considerable sentiment for an un-instructed delegation was present in the convention and opponents of the New York executive charged Iowa had been "railroaded" into the column of central west states, including Minnesota and North Dakota, already supporting him.

Supporters of Governor William H. (Alfalfa) Bill Murray of Oklahoma were few and no active campaign was waged among the delegates for the fiery southwest leader.

After Roosevelt had been named, a motion was made to designate Murray as second choice of Iowa delegates at the Chicago convention.

The motion failed for lack of a second. The prohibition resolution brought little discussion and was adopted almost unanimously.
