

ARMY OF CANDIDATES OUT FOR CONGRESS, STATE AND COUNTY POSTS AND BENCH

Bitter Primary Battles Forecast as 1,180 File for Major Offices, Thousands for Minor Jobs.

FACTIONAL FIGHTS IN BOTH PARTIES

Republican Insurgents Seek to Oust Coffin, While Democratic Organization Also Faces Challenge.

BY BEN STERN

The curtain rises today on what is expected to be one of the bitterest and perhaps the dirtiest primary fights in Indiana history, with thousands running for minor offices and 1,180 entered for major offices, including congress, state legislature, and judicial posts.

Marion county will be torn by factional struggles in both parties. Republican insurgents again are expected to make a desperate effort to oust George V. Coffin from control, and a group intent on grabbing courthouse offices and patronage to build up a formidable machine is out to fight the Democratic organization.

Twenty-three hundred filed for county posts in Marion county and, of this number, Democratic managers entered 421 as delegates to the state convention, which heralds a battle for this group. Approximately 900 seek the 331 precinct committeeman vacancies.

Hundreds File for Jobs

More than six hundred Republicans filed for precinct committeemen and 260 as state convention delegates. Seventy-eight seek major county posts, excluding those seeking legislative offices.

Every group demanding special privileges entered at least two candidates for the legislature. Where five from both parties sought the senate vacancy in 1930, eighteen Republicans and nineteen Democrats are contesting.

Seventy-three Democrats and sixty Republicans are seeking eleven vacancies for state representative from Marion county. This is more than double the number campaigning in 1930.

Ludlow Has Opposition

The congressional nomination fight in the new Eleventh is bound to be bitter, with six seeking the G. O. P. honor and four out for the Democratic nomination. It appeared that Louis Ludlow, incumbent congressman from the new Twelfth district, would be unopposed, but at the last minute Thomas D. McGee, several times unsuccessful candidate for other offices, filed against him. Four Republicans also are out for the nomination in this district.

Tacitly recognizing services of Herbert E. Wilson, incumbent prosecutor, no one filed against him for the Democratic nomination, and he is the only unopposed candidate on either ticket.

Damage Is Caused When Big Ship Scrapes Radio Antenna at Airport

By United Press

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, April 4.—Three holes were torn in the bag of the Graf Zeppelin early today as the huge Zeppelin scraped the airport radio antenna while starting for Pernambuco, Brazil, with eight passengers and forty-two in its crew.

Repairs on the Zeppelin were completed at noon, and it was announced that the ship was to leave for Pernambuco at 4:30 a. m. Tuesday.

A statement from the Zeppelin works said a drop in temperature prevented the ship from rising quickly enough to clear the antenna. The damage could have been repaired in flight, the statement said, but the ship's commander preferred to land because he still was close to port.

The three holes torn in the outer bag were between four feet and six feet in diameter. Passengers and crew went home or to their hotels, while repair crews patched and replaced propellers broken on one motor.

Dr. Hugo Eckener directed repair of the ship, which already has made the first flight of the season to Pernambuco and return.

One of the passengers for Pernambuco was Rudi Lang, 5½ years old, who flew here from Stuttgart with his foster mother and was to continue by airplane from Pernambuco to Buenos Aires to join his parents.

FAITHFUL TO TRUST

Chauffeur's First Thought in Crash for Dogs.

By United Press

CAMDEN, N. J., April 4.—The welfare of two cocker spaniels, belonging to Mrs. Eleanor Patterson of Washington, caused more concern for Henry Girard La Force, Mrs. Patterson's chauffeur, than his own injuries in an automobile wreck here Sunday night.

La Force was driving from New York to Washington with Mrs. Patterson's two pets when his car ran into a telegraph pole.

When police arrived, they found the chauffeur dashing around a field, his face and head cut in several places, chasing the two dogs. The police tried to stop him and take him to a hospital.

"Nothing doing," said La Force. "I've got to catch these dogs first and get them to a veterinarian."

After he had captured both dogs, he was taken to Cooper hospital for emergency treatment.

FRANCE, U. S. JOIN IN RADIO FORUM PLAN

Better Understanding Is Sought in Series of Broadcasts.

By United Press

PARIS, April 4.—Organization of an international radio forum to promote better understanding between the common people of America and Europe was announced today by Ira Nelson Morris of Chicago, former United States minister to Sweden.

Morris announced the personnel of committees formed in the United States and France to carry on the work of the forum, including Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, Jane Addams, and John W. Davis, and Jules Jusserand, Paul Painleve, Marshal Lyautey and Emile Moreau.

Purpose of the forum will be to "stimulate intelligent public thinking on a wide range of problems in both continents" through the regular exchange of trans-Atlantic talks between the United States and France, and later between other countries.

BANK BANDITS DUE TO MAKE NEW ATTACK

Two Months' Truce Feared 'Calm Before Storm'; Authorities Wary.

Not a machine gun has splattered against the wall of a bank building on Indiana's "western front" for two months.

Bandits who staged three raids in less than six months, starting last fall, have failed to return to the "paradise" in and near Litton, Waveland and Roachdale.

However, according to reports today from the western part of the state, residents are on the lookout for the bandits, who have been reported to have been in the area for several months.

Named as receiver for a closed bank at Phillipsburg, Kan., she handled its affairs so well that she has been named receiver for three others.

The previous raid occurred Dec. 10 when the bandits terrorized a switchboard operator and her small sister in Roachdale, held residents at bay and fled with $4,460 after spending an hour in the town.

The outlaws operated similarly two months before that when they introduced Indiana to their big-time activities by cleaning up several hundred dollars from the Litton State bank, despite gunfire of several officials of the bank and residents.

Work Methodically
The bandits work with efficiency, heretofore unknown on regular intruders. Their first step is to cut all phone and railroad communications and majority of the light lines. They are armed with submachine guns and automatic pistols and travel in robbery troupes of five to ten.

Although they do not have a Haute.

Bank Receiver

As a home economics teacher in Wichita, Kan., Mrs. W. D. Ellison, above, taught school children how to raise the dough, but now she finds "raising the dough" for defunct banks much more interesting.

murder checked against them the bank thugs never have pulled their punch when it came to returning gun fire. So far, they've missed their targets.

Working with dynamite, the gang blasts heavy doors from the bank safes and then blasts again to gain entrance to the money chamber.

New Foray Feared
The three towns are located so they form a triangle, with none more than thirty miles from the other.

Indiana authorities believe the gang will strike again soon, probably repeating at one of their former sites or a few miles distant.

Police officials say the bandits probably have hiding places in Terre Haute and, from there, swing to St. Louis or Chicago.

The towns all are within half an hour's drive of the central highway which leads from Chicago to Louisville, with side roads leading to Indianapolis, St. Louis and Terre Haute.

HOME CONTEST WINNER SLATED

Judges to Award Capital Trip Today.

Winner of a trip to Washington with all expenses paid by The Times, offered as first prize in the fifth annual miniature model house contest, will be decided this afternoon.

Judges will meet at 4 today in the manufacturers' building, state fairground, where the miniature houses are on display in connection with the realtors' home complete exposition.

The judging committee is composed of Mrs. Mary A. Hurt, clubwoman; Louis Bornstein, Chamber of Commerce president; and Merritt Harrison, of the architectural firm of Harrison & Turnock.

The model houses, built by high school pupils, are one of the most interesting features of the home complete show.

"While the exhibit is not as large as last year, due to the fact it was confined to high school pupils, the care and skill used by pupils in preparing the models is far superior to that of previous years," said J. Ray Monaghan, contest consulting architect.

Names of the entrants will not be made known until after the judges have made the award, after which identification envelopes will be opened.

For runners-up to the winner of the trip to Washington eleven cash prizes totaling $83 have been passed by the Indianapolis Real Estate Board, and prizes of $6.4 and $2 for the best landscaped models.

How Mr. E..... Always Is Near His Bank

"Wait just a minute," said Mr. E..... to his companion as they were walking down to the corner to catch a street car.

"I'll drop in the bank and deposit that check you just gave me."

"All right. But why in the world do you have your account way over here on the West Side when your business is on the East Side?"

"That's easy," was the answer. "No matter where I go in Indianapolis, I am near my bank. I use Fletcher Trust. And under its plan, any checking or savings customer of any Fletcher Trust bank can make deposits in any other Fletcher Trust bank. I have only one bank account. But, you see, I have banking offices all over town. It's a very convenient arrangement."
