

BANDITS STRIKE 3 DRUG STORES IN 36 MINUTES

Escape With $340 After Whirlwind Foray and North Side.

Holding up three pharmacies in thirty-six minutes, two bandits Sunday night obtained $340, taking time, in one instance, to blow the door from a safe after a store manager said he did not know the combination. The robberies were reported at 10:20, 10:44 and 11:05.

A Haag store at 3514 College avenue was the first robbed. The manager, Squire Huff, 55, Twentieth street and Bolton avenue, told William Butler, 18, of 319 West Fortieth street, an employee, were in the store when the robbers entered. One of the men held a revolver against Huff in an effort to compel him to open a money box, but the manager refused. The cash register was looted of $125.

Meridian Street Store Next

Another Haag store at 2202 North Meridian street was next in the series of robberies, the loot being $75. M. D. Hardy, manager, 4514 East Tenth street; a clerk, Floyd Kipper, 1125 West Twenty-eighth street, and three patrons were in the store when the robbers entered. Money was removed from a cash register. The five persons were forced into the basement before the bandits left.

K. Pinkett, 2633 West Washington street, a clerk in the Oren drug store, Belmont avenue and Washington street, was the next to encounter the robbers, police were told. He was alone in the store when two men entered.

One approached him while the other stood guard at the door. After removing $65 from a cash register, one of the men turned his attention to the safe. Pinkett asserted he could not open it and the bandit blasted the door, obtaining $75.

Bus Driver Robbed

Howard Hubble, 38, Pittsboro, driver for the People's Motor Coach Company, was robbed of $6.34 Sunday night at Central avenue and Sixty-fourth street, he reported.

Joseph Scott, 23, of 425 West Thirty-ninth street, was robbed of $11 Sunday night by a man who jumped on the running board of his automobile at Boulevard place and Fortieth street, as he slowed his car at the intersection, he told police.

Harry Davis, 31, Negro, 1110 Muskingum street, was arrested Saturday night, after Harry Griswold, 3030 Graceland avenue, told police he had been robbed of $63 at the Muskingum street address.

GROANS ON TELEPHONE SPUR FRENZIED SEARCH

Deputies, Expecting Tragedy, Find Dog Whining at Transmitter.

WAUKESHA, Ill., April 4.—Dawn was near when the buzz of a call on a party line roused the telephone operator. She listened and heard an eerie moan that continued despite her frantic inquiries.

Fearful of some tragedy, the operator called deputy sheriffs who hurried to five homes on the wire and found nothing amiss. From the locked office where the telephone of the sixth party was located, they heard agonized groans.

The worried officers battered down the door and found the telephone receiver off the hook. Beside the phone sat King, a large police dog, who rose to greet them with a glee.

F. Q. Hutchins, the owner, said the dog had been locked up with a light supper and probably got hungry waiting for breakfast.

FAMILY SEEKS OFFICES

Father, Mother, Daughter, Son-in-Law File at Crown Point.

By United Press
CROWN POINT, Ind., April 4.—The Ferreras decided that the best way to get the family name in the political limelight would be for everyone to enter the campaign.

Wherever, the husband, Joseph Ferrera, filed for sheriff on the same ticket. His wife, Mary, filed for auditor on the same ticket.

Their daughter, Camilla, filed for recorder, also on the Democratic ticket.

Her husband, Donald, caused a slight ruffle in an otherwise serene slate by opposing his father-in-law, filing for sheriff on the Republican ticket.

CHEVALIER CLICKS IN HIS NEW MOVIE

Johnny Weismuller Surprises One With His Acting Ability in 'Tarzan, the Ape Man.'

BY WALTER D. HICKMAN

RIGHT at the beginning let me tell you that Maurice Chevalier's "One Hour With You" is a one.

Advanced and wise direction on the part of Ernst Lubitsch gives new camera angles and surprises to this comedy with music.

Chevalier and Jeanette MacDonald several times are talking and then the very next second they burst forth in song. Even during the dance scene when the orchestra is playing "One Hour With You," a corking good time, Chevalier and others in the cast both talk and sing.

Here is smart acting in melody. Also notice that the director allows the actors on many occasions to look directly into the camera which gives the sensation of the actors talking directly to the audience. And this method was used in the ending of the picture with Miss MacDonald and Chevalier talking directly to the audience. Genevieve Tobin is in the east and west great comics, Charlie Ruggles and Roland Young. What a cast and what smart acting, what great direction.

No wonder when Chevalier was here in person some time ago that he was wild over this picture. It lives up to everything he said or hinted concerning "One Hour With You" is really too sweet to miss. Again, I tell you that this one is a honey. Now at the Indiana.

CONCERNING
"HOTEL CONTINENTAL"

So there can be no confusion or misunderstanding. "Continental Hotel" is not another "Grand Hotel."

I saw the original stage company in "Grand Hotel" in Cincinnati recently, and I am informed that Greta Garbo has completed the movie version. "Continental Hotel" gets a slow start and the types at first do not strike one as types. In the stage version of "Grand Hotel" the types were perfect. In "Continental Hotel" most of the guests are in evening dress, as the hotel is celebrating its last night on earth, as the wreckers are about ready to claim it. After the story gets started it takes on speed, and suspense, as Theodore Von Eltz, a crook makes a frantic effort to take from a hotel room thousands of dollars that he had stolen years ago and hidden in a fireplace.

Peggy Shannon is cast as one of the stall pigeons of a rival gang which is out after the money that Von Eltz has buried.

She uses a clever scheme to get into his good graces; she loves him because he is a square shooter and then betrays him when she finds him embracing another woman. But Von Eltz did a good deed when he permitted himself to be caught in the arms of another woman. See the picture to know why.

Miss Shannon gives a very good performance and Van Eltz is splendid. Of course, the two make a supreme sacrifice at the end of the story and both decided to go straight together. The last half is really a good yarn.

Now at the Apollo.

FUNERAL RITES ARE HELD FOR ALBERT VESTAL

Wife of Dead G. O. P. Whip
May Be Approached to Take Seat.

By Times Special
ANDERSON, Ind., April 4.—Albert H. Vestal, Indiana representative in congress, who died Friday in Naval hospital at Washington, was buried here Sunday with brief, but impressive ceremonies.

Members of congress, state officials, and thousands of citizens joined in the final tribute to the Republican house whip.

Vestal was rushed to the hospital in Washington last Wednesday night after working at his desk most of the day. He succumbed at 10:55 Friday morning.

Church Is Full

Funeral services were held in the First Presbyterian church, which was filled by 1,000 persons. Hundreds thronged about the church, unable to gain entrance. The sermon was delivered by the Rev. James S. Montgomery, chaplain of the house of representatives. Mr. Montgomery praised highly Vestal's record during his service in office.

Two thousand persons filed past the bier as the body lay in state before the services. Bearing only a wreath from President and Mrs. Hoover, and a blanket of flowers from the house of representatives, the casket was borne into the church by two senators, five representatives, and one former representative.

Indiana Senators Act

Palbearers were Senators James E. Watson and Arthur R. Robinson, Representatives Fred S. Purcell (Ind.), Harry L. Englebright (Cal.), Orlen B. Burtt (N. D.), Roy O. Woodruff (Mich.), Daniel A. Reed (N. Y.), and Richard N. Elliott, former Indiana member of congress.

Governor Harry G. Leslie also attended the funeral. Burial was at Maplewood cemetery, where military services were conducted by the American Legion.

It was understood today that Mrs. Vestal would be approached to take the congressional seat vacated by her husband's death, and Republican leaders in the six counties of the old Eighth congressional district were said to be unanimous in support of the whip's widow.

There are more thrills in Tarzan than there were in "Trader Horn." This Tarzan movie is remarkable because of its rare camera shots and trick photography.

It is really one of the most thrilling movies I have ever seen on the talking screen. Just wait until you hear Weismuller give his piercing yell which brings a herd of elephants as well as a marvelous chimpanzee to his rescue.

One chimpanzee is the cutest little feller I have ever seen. Weismuller and the "chimp" walk away with the acting honors.

Tarzan puts on a battle with a tiger and two lions. Genuine or not these scenes are marvels. The thrill and the great punch are present every second in "Tarzan, the Ape man."

It is really rare theater and is probably than any man on the screen. He is a great swimmer in his own right and you will get a shock when the alligators and the like start out with him.

Here is a great blending of the real and the unreal. It is corking entertainment even if at times it will make you sit straight up in your seat in honest fear.

Here is rare excitement. Don't miss it.
